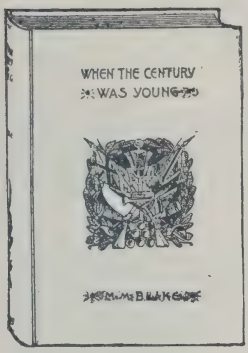
The Two Altheas.

By Edith C. Horsman, author of "Severn-Side," etc. Illustrated with half-tones from drawings by G. Demain Hammond. A splendid home story for girls, describing two crises in a family history, and the share these two Altheas had in keeping alive the family love of hearth and home. 12mo, cloth, handsome cover design. $1.50

Six Boys.

By Elizabeth W. Champney, author of the famous "Vassar Girls" series. Illustrated with full-page plates from original designs by Frank T. Merrill. Large 12mo, cloth. $1.50

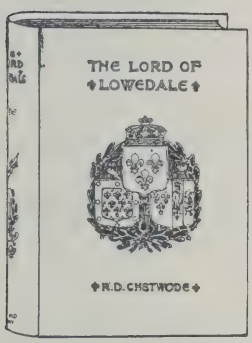
A remarkably bright story for young people, which will rank among the leading favorites with both boys and girls for many years to come. It is written in a fresh, invigorating style, telling, with a delightful vein of humor, of the haps and mishaps of a group of "Six Boys" (so called, though one was a girl) from twelve to sixteen years of age.



When the Century Was Young.

By M. M. Blake, author of "Courtship by Command." Illustrated with numerous plates from original drawings by the author. Large 12mo, cloth. $1.50

A story of the life and adventure of a young English lad, who takes part in the Peninsular War against Napoleon, and is present at the Battle of Waterloo. An exciting story which all boys will be glad to read, giving as it does such a vivid picture of those stirring times.



The Lord of Lowedale.

A story of the sixteenth century. By R. D. Chetwode, author of "The Marble City," etc. Illustrated with full-page half-tones, from drawings by Grenville Manton. 12mo, cloth, handsome cover design. $1.50

This interesting volume tells of the adventures of an English lad in France during the reign of Charles the Ninth. The hero is one of the retinue of a French nobleman, and, while so serving, succeeds, with the assistance of a faithful friend, in baffling a treacherous plot, in rescuing his master, and in effecting the release of a beleaguered garrison. The narrative is written in the form of an autobiography, and gives an interesting and realistic picture of life and character in the Sixteenth Century.

Lights Out.

By Robert Overton. Illustrated with twenty-six full-page half-tones from drawings by Reinhold Thiele. A collection of twenty-six short stories, full of adventure and fun, told after "lights out" by the boys of the "Big Dormitory" of an English school. 12mo, cloth, colored edges, handsome cover. $1.25

The author possesses a genius for story writing for boys, and combines a delightful sense of humor with a dramatic power of the very highest order.

The King's Pardon.

By Robert Overton, author of "A Round Dozen," etc. With twelve illustrations by W. H. Margetson, 12mo, cloth, colored edges, handsome cover. $1.25

Mr. Overton has the knack of writing books for boys, and in this he has surpassed himself, in "The King's Pardon." He tells of the perils and escapes of Bart Arber, in finding and saving his father who has been unjustly convicted and transported to Australia. The story is full of exciting adventures afloat and ashore, in war and peace, at home, in the West Indies, and the far Australian Bush. The interest increases as the plot develops, and all boys, and many who are not boys, will read it with pleasure.

CONTENTS OF THE SET: The Three Musketeers, 2 vols.; Twenty Years After, 2 vols.; The Vicomte de Bragelonne, 5 vols.

These famous and ever popular historical romances cover the reign of Louis XIII. and Louis XIV. and the regency of Anne of Austria. The leading character, D'Artagnan, is recognized as one of the greatest creations of modern fiction, and Robert Louis Stevenson but voiced the sentiments of thousands of his readers when he wrote: "I do not say there is no character as well drawn in Shakespeare; I do say there is none that I love so wholly."

The Napoleon Romances.

By Alexandre Dumas. Translated from the French by Katharine Prescott Wormeley. Handsomely printed at the University Press from new plates, and illustrated with a series of twenty-eight full-page plates in photogravure and half-tone. 6 vols., small 12mo, neatly bound in cloth, gilt tops (in a box). $7.50

Same. Bound in cloth, with handsome full gilt sides and backs, gilt tops (in a box), $9.00

Same. Handsomely bound in half levant, or half calf, $15.00

CONTENTS OF THE SET: The First Republic, or the Whites and the Blues, 2 vols.; Company of Jehu, 2 vols.; The Last Vendee, or the She-Wolves of Machecoul, 2 vols.

The thousands who have read and re-read the famous D'Artagnan Romances will welcome the first English translation of an equally grand series from the same pen, with an historic background even more vivid because less remote and more familiar. Napoleon's personality is brought prominently into the workings of the plots, many striking incidents in his career, and in the tragic events of which he became the centre, being utilized with a dramatic effect which readers of Dumas's other great historical romances will instantly recognize as peculiar to his genius. The translation needs no words of praise or apology. The name of Katharine Prescott Wormeley has become almost a synonym for faithfulness and accuracy in rendering the spirit as well as the literal text of the French author into pure English.

Same. Handsomely bound in half levant morocco, gilt top, $5.00

Florence is rich in historic suggestion, in legendary lore; and these the author has used to great advantage, interweaving them with her descriptions of the cathedrals, the campaniles, and the Florentine people in a way that makes it one of the most charming books that has appeared in recent years, and one that is sure to find a still wider circle of admirers.

The Queen of the Adriatic;

Or, Venice, Mediæval and Modern. By Clara Erskine Clement, author of "A Handbook of Legendary and Mythological Art," etc. Handsomely illustrated with twenty full-page photogravures from recent photographs of the principal points of interest. Small 8vo, vellum cloth, illuminated in gold and colors, gilt tops, with slip cover, in cloth case. $3.00

Same. Handsomely bound in half levant morocco, gilt top, $5.00

Brightly written chapters upon the City of Venice, "The Queen of the Adriatic," describing the grand canals, cathedrals, palaces, square of St. Mark, Bridge of Sighs, and other points of interest, with sketches of their history and legend.

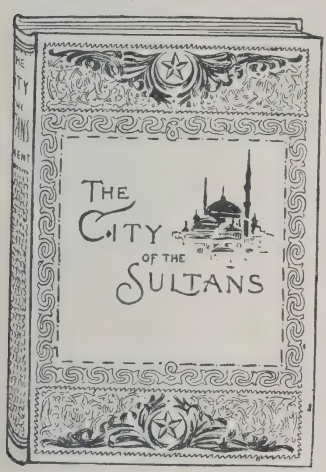
Great Cities of the World.

Cairo, the City of the Caliphs.

Its approaches and environs, and a concise description of Egypt, from Alexandria to the Second Cataract of the Nile. By Eustace A. Reynolds-Ball, author of "Mediterranean Winter Resorts and Alexandria," and "South Italy," in "The Picturesque Mediterranean," etc. Charmingly illustrated with twenty full-page photogravure plates from original photographs of points of interest in and about the City of Cairo and the Nile. Small 8vo, handsomely bound in white vellum cloth, with cover design in gold and colors, gilt top, uncut edges, with slip covers in scarlet. Each copy in a neat cloth case. $3.00

Same. Handsomely bound in half levant morocco, gilt top, $5.00

The City of the Sultans;



Or, Constantinople, the Sentinel of the Bosphorus. By Clara Erskine Clement, author of "Naples," "Queen of the Adriatic," etc. Handsomely illustrated with full-page photogravures from original photographs. Small 8vo, cloth, substantially uniform in style with the series of "Italian Cities Illustrated," with slip cover, in cloth case. $3.00

The initial volume of a new series of handsome gift books, companions to the popular "Italian Cities Illustrated," to which series the writer of the present volume contributed the "Queen of the Adriatic" and "Naples: The City of Parthenope." Both the reputation of the author and the interest of the subject assure a very attractive volume.

Same. Handsomely bound in half levant morocco, gilt top, $5.00

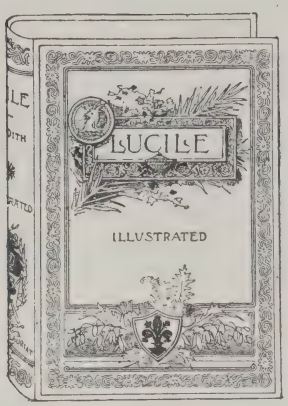
Lucile.



A handsome holiday edition of Owen Meredith's masterpiece, printed from new, large type, in a fine open page, and illustrated with twenty magnificent full-page plates in photogravure from landscape views and authentic photographs of the scenery and localities mentioned in the poem, and a charming ideal picture of the heroine by W. L. Taylor, reproduced in photogravure as a frontispiece. Imperial 8vo, handsomely bound in cloth, with original cover design, with slip cover, in a neat cloth box. $4.00

The Lady of the Lake.

By Sir Walter Scott. Sterling Edition. Illustrated with a series of twenty-five beautiful full-page photogravure plates of some of the grand specimens of Scottish scenery described in the poem, — all reproduced from actual photographs selected for the purpose. The text handsomely printed from new plates, in clear, large type, with all of Scott's introductions, appendix of notes, etc. Imperial 8vo, handsomely bound in white or gray vellum cloth, with cover design in gold, silver, and colors, gilt top, uncut edges, with slip cover, in a neat cloth box. $4.00

Not the least valuable features of this new edition are the complete appendix, with its wealth of notes, and the fullness and accuracy of the separate introductions to the various cantos.

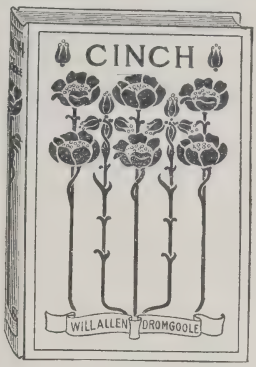
Lalla Rookh.

An Oriental romance. By Thomas Moore. With about 140 exquisite illustrations, in colors, by the photo-etching process. Printed on vellum paper. Imperial 8vo, very neatly bound in a new style of vellum cloth, gilt tops. $7.50

Same. Handsomely bound in full seal morocco, flexible, gilt edges, in a box, $10.00

Pronounced by art critics to be by far the most luxurious, the most sumptuous volume of its kind ever issued in America. It is the only edition of this charming poem, so replete with Oriental imagery that the artist may fairly revel in his subject, ever produced in a style worthy of itself. The illustrations consist of about 140 photo-etchings made from original designs by the best artists in America, together with several from European and Persian artists. They are printed in a variety of colors, on vellum paper, and the text of the poem is set in with the illustrations so as to blend together in a beautiful and artistic manner.

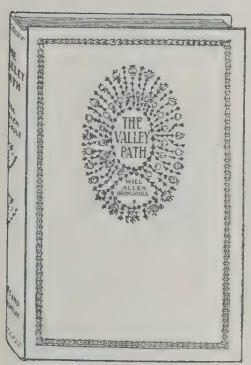
Standard and Miscellaneous Books.



Cinch and Other Stories. By Will Allen Dromgoole, author of "The Heart of Old Hickory," "The Valley Path," etc. An extremely fine collection of short stories, mostly of Tennessee life, full of humor and pathos, and told in the author's most graceful manner. $1.25
12mo, handsome cover design.

The Heart of Old Hickory
And Other Stories of Tennessee. By Will Allen Dromgoole. A collection of six short stories by this gifted Southern author. 1 vol., tall 16mo, gilt op. $1.25

"Tennessee has just reason to be proud of the little authoress who has depicted so many phases of humble life within her borders with such fidelity, such delicacy, and such rare pathos and humor."



The Valley Path. By Will Allen Dromgoole, author of "The Heart of Old Hickory," "The Farrier's Dog and His Fellow," etc. This volume is an excellent novel of Tennessee life; the characters are very strongly portrayed, and the story is one of extreme interest throughout. The author is entirely at home with her subject, being a loyal Tennessean and thoroughly conversant with the manners and customs of the people. The volume is handsomely printed on laid deckle-edge paper. $1.25
12mo, handsome cover design, gilt top.

Like all Miss Dromgoole's writings, it is singularly true to life, and reveals that intimate knowledge of the hopes, aspirations, fears, and doubts of the human heart which is one of the distinguishing points beween a writer of true ability and a mediocre story-teller. This story emphasizes the difference between that religion which is expressed in a high, noble, and conscientious life, and the perfunctory or conventional religion of dogma. It will make many readers pause before they condemn those who cannot and do not accept any special dogma. Yet it is a love story rather than a religious one. It is located in Tennessee, in the beautiful Pelham Valley, and deals chiefly with the humbler classes. It is a mingling of tears and laughter, shade and shine, with one supreme appeal shining through the sadness like a star at midnight.

Songs of Two Peoples.

By James Riley. Illustrated. Author of "The Transmitted Word," and a volume of poems. This volume is a collection of dialect poems, many of them true to the character of the people of New England and of the Irish people a generation ago who came to New England. The Irishman on his native shore, and as he came here in the past, is given with a touch that clings. The volume is handsomely printed on laid deckle-edge paper. Tall 16mo, handsome cover design, gilt top. $1.25

The poems show a thorough and appreciative knowledge and generous estimate of the character and virtues of the two races, the Saxon and the Celt, as they met in the past, and are meeting now, each day, in the common, homely ways of real life in America.

The Pilgrims, Puritans, and Roger Williams Vindicated.

By Rev. T. M. Merriman, M. A., author of "Trail of History," "William, Prince of Orange," etc. Third edition. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, gilt tops. $1.50

"This book is invaluable in showing wherein history has wronged Roger Williams." — The Interior.

"It is clear, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the one man of that age to whom the world is most deeply indebted for religious liberty is Roger Williams. The author has evidence that Gov. John Winthrop, and many others with him, maintained that the sentence of banishment against Roger Williams ought to have been revoked, and that it still should be. This book is interesting from the first page to the last." — Christian Standard.

Joseph Jefferson at Home.

By Nathan Haskell Dole. A monograph on Joseph Jefferson and his home surroundings. Illustrated with sixteen full-page half-tones from photographs taken in and around Mr. Jefferson's famous summer home. Thin octavo, gilt top, $1.50

Mr. Jefferson being recognized as the leading American actor, the appearance of this small volume will be very interesting, and throwing as it does a new light on him, as a painter as well as an actor, and giving new ideas concerning his home life, it surely should receive a warm welcome.

Charles Carleton Coffin.

A Biography.

By Dr. Wm. Eliott Griffis. With photogravure portraits of Mr. Coffin. Besides being well known throughout the country as the author of many historical books, such as "The Boys of '76" and "The Boys of '61," Mr. Coffin was also famous as the war correspondent of the Boston Journal, for which he secured especially important news at the front during the late Civil War. Octavo, gilt top. $2.00 and Other Poems. By Lloyd Mifflin. Illustrated with ten full-page illustrations by Thomas Moran, N. A., and others; and a portrait of the author from a recent photograph. The volume contains 160 pages of Mr. Mifflin's lyrics and other poems. Tall 16mo, handsome cover design, gilt top. $1.25

The Slopes of Helicon

The unique gold design on the cover of this book — a cluster of the Kalmia or American Laurel — is indicative of the many purely American touches which abound in the poems it contains; for Mr. Mifflin is distinctively the poet of his own fields and hills. The subjects of this volume are no less original than varied, — from a Greek goddess to Caliban, — and the range of the book being wide, is very interesting psychologically. To those who know the author only through his remarkable sonnets, "At the Gates of Song," this new volume will be a revelation. It will settle the question often asked, whether a sonnet writer of distinction can also be a lyrist. The book is very interesting also as shedding more light upon the poet's inner life and character, and will be sure to bring Mr. Mifflin many new readers. The tone of the book is high; the workmanship what might be expected from one who has proved himself a master of the most difficult form of English verse; and the whole is a real contribution to American literature.

At the Gates of Song.

By Lloyd Mifflin. Illustrated with ten full-page drawings by the celebrated artist, Thomas Moran, and a portrait of the author. A selection of one hundred and fifty of the author's best sonnets, many of which have appeared in the leading magazines. Artistically printed on Enfield deckle-edge paper. Small 8vo, handsome cover design. $1.50

In regard to some of these poems, Mr. Edmund Clarence Stedman writes: "These sonnets are certainly very notable for imagination, a certain sublimity of thought and fiction, and for perfected art. There are few sonnets so worth making as these."

Mr. William Dean Howells says: "I find Mr. Mifflin's sonnets very nobly grave and beautiful."

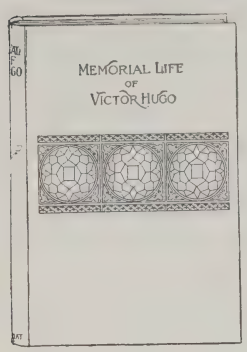
Mr. Hamilton W. Mabie says: "I read Mr. Mifflin's sonnets very thoroughly and carefully, and was impressed by the unusual quality of the thought in many of the sonnets, and by the skill with which the form was used."

Way Songs and Wanderings.

By Claiborne Addison Young, A. B. Illustrated by Etheldred B. Barry. A selection of sixty-three of the author's best poems. Artistically printed on deckle-edge paper. Tall 16mo, handsome cover design. $1.25

There is a breeziness to these poems that speaks of the free air of the fields and woods, and a swing in the rhythm that bears the reader along.

Memorial Life of Victor Hugo.



With Victor Hugo's death, the great authors and writers of France united to issue a memorial life of Victor Hugo. The authors and critics contributed the text of the work, and many of the leading artists of France made illustrations for the book, showing their love for the master. This volume, translated and including a great many of the original illustrations, will be extremely interesting to every lover of Victor Hugo. Illustrated with a large number of photogravures and woodcuts. $1.50
8vo, cloth.

Victor Hugo's Letters to His Wife.

Translated from the French by Nathan Haskell Dole.
12mo, cloth, extra, $1.50

A volume of letters, chiefly written during his travels, which will be welcomed by American readers and admirers of the great French novelist and philosopher. They are included in no English or American editions of his writings, and are in a sense autobiographic, affording an insight into some phases of a remarkable career which will be novel to most readers.

Trilby, the Fairy of Argyle.

By Charles Nodier, Member of the French Academy. Translation and introduction by Nathan Haskell Dole. Thin 12mo, cloth, original and handsome cover design in three colors. 50c

"Even if the story were in itself less charming, there would be interest in reading it for its possible connection with the Trilby of our love. But since it is itself a masterpiece of French, perfect in its conception, in its fleeting, evanescent, spirit-like coloring, its enthralling poetry, surely no apology is needed for producing it in English dress. It stands by itself, the prototype of Du Maurier's Trilby, and yet as different as women's nature is different from man's, as spirit is different from spirit, as one star differs from another in glory." — Translator's Introduction.

Doty Dontcare.

A story of the Garden of the Antilles. By Mary Farrington Foster. With an introduction by Dr. Eliott Coues. $1.00
Small 16mo, cloth, ornamental cover design.

An extremely interesting story, centred about the sugar plantations on an island of the Danish West Indies, terminating in a vivid account of the great insurrection of the negroes employed there.

When Love Is Done.

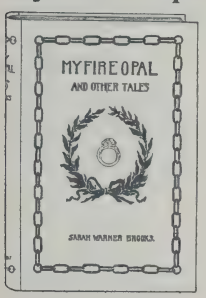
A strong, entertaining novel. By Ethel Davis. 16mo, cloth, ornamental cover design, $1.25

"It is a story of much power, and it will take a strong hold upon the sympathies of the reader." — Boston Journal.

"It seems to us to be original and thoughtful in its scope, and to contain elements that mark the appearance of a new American writer of fiction of a talent not often developed of late." — Boston Herald.

"Its author, unless fate be very unjust, will take high rank among writers who describe the American middle class." — Boston Gazette.

My Fire Opal



And Other Tales. By Sarah Warner Brooks, author of "English Poetry and Poets," etc. The seven stories which comprise the above collection are all of prison life, and are extremely original in scope and intensely interesting in incident. The author for over ten years has devoted a large portion of her time to the needs of the unfortunates in prison, and is peculiarly well adapted to interweave the facts she has acquired with the proper proportion of fiction to make the stories such that they will hold the attention of the reader to the end. The book is illustrated with numerous tailpieces and initial letters. 16mo, cloth, handsome cover design. $1.00

Pennyroyal and Mint.

By Sophie Swett, author of "The Lollipop's Vacation." The author ranks with Sarah Orne Jewett in her characteristic stories of New England life. The present collection is of the best stories that have appeared in Harper's Bazar, Ladies' Home Journal, etc., during the past few years. 12mo, cloth, attractive cover design. $1.25

Under the title of "Pennyroyal and Mint" are brought together some of the best stories that have been written by Sophie Swett. The author ranks with Sarah Orne Jewett in her characteristic stories of New England life, and is well known to a host of readers both juvenile and grown up, whom she has for years delighted with her clever short stories, and who will welcome this volume with enthusiasm.

Field Clover and Beach Grass.

A collection of stories by Susan Hartley Swett. The author for years has been a regular contributor to the leading magazines and periodicals, and her stories are well known as being typical ones of New England life. 12mo, cloth, handsome cover design. $1.25

Laura E. Richards's Books

FOR YOUNG AND OLD.

Over 250,000 volumes of the "Captain January" Series have already been sold.

"Mrs. Richards has made for herself a little niche apart in the literary world from her delicate treatment of New England village life." — Boston Post.

16mo, cloth back and paper side.

To the many thousands who have read the author's exquisite stories, "Melody" and "Marie," this volume will specially appeal, for they will be glad to learn more of the picturesque old violinist who figured so prominently in the former story, and the charming Marie of the latter.

"Some Say" and a companion story, Neighbors in Cyrus.

By Laura E. Richards. Two excellent stories written in the author's usual graceful manner. 16mo, cloth. 50c

"'Some Say' extracts a delicious sense of humor from the dry lives of some New England folk. Two village gossips are the principal characters. 'Neighbors in Cyrus' is bound up with this story, and is quite pathetic." — The Post, Hartford, Conn.

Jim of Hellas; Or, In Durance Vile, and a companion story, Bethesda Pool.

By Laura E. Richards. Square 16mo, cloth, 50c

"The stories in this volume are just as exquisitely picturesque as the others."— Minneapolis Journal.

Two bright new stories forming a companion volume to "Narcissa," "Melody," etc., and sure of a warm welcome from the thousands of readers who have come to look forward, with keen anticipations of pleasure, for the appearance of any new volume from the same pen.

Melody:

The Story of a Child. By Laura E. Richards, author of "Captain January," etc. 16mo, cloth, daintily bound, with appropriate cover design. 50c

"Had there never been a 'Captain January,' 'Melody' would easily take first place." — Boston Times.

Same. Illustrated Holiday Edition.

Printed from entirely new plates on fine coated paper, and illustrated with thirty half-tone pictures from drawings by Frank T. Merrill. 4to, cloth, with a handsome cover design, $1.25

"The quaintly pretty, touching, old-fashioned story is told with perfect grace; the few persons who belong to it are touched in with distinctness and with sympathy." — Milwaukee Sentinel.

Marie.

A companion to "Melody" and "Captain January." By Laura E. Richards. Square 16mo, cloth, daintily bound, with appropriate cover design. 50c

"Seldom has Mrs. Richards drawn a more irresistible picture, or framed one with more artistic literary adjustment." — Boston Herald.

Narcissa

And a companion story, "In Verona," being two delightful short stories of New England life. By Laura E. Richards. 16mo, cloth, uniform in general style with "Melody," etc. 50c

"Each is a simple, touching, sweet little story of rustic New England life, full of vivid pictures of interesting character, and refreshing for its unaffected genuineness and human feeling." — Congregationalist.

"They are the most charming stories ever written of American country life." — New York World.

Captain January.

By Laura E. Richards. Square 16mo, cloth, white back, 50c

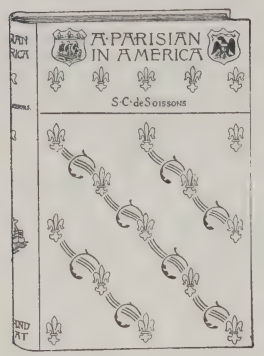
This handsome volume describes and illustrates the picturesque scenery, quaint outdoor life, and romantic story of the more than two thousand miles of Maine seaboard as it has never been described or illustrated before. It is written with all the charm of style and replete with that rich legendary lore that have made the author's other writings popular.



A Parisian in America.

By S. C. de Soissons, author of "Boston Artists." The author, who has lived in America for a number of years, has enjoyed unusual facilities for judging of America, its manners and its customs, and has written on the subject in a masterful manner, and more thoroughly than either Max O'Rell or Bourget. 16mo, cloth, ornamental cover design. $1.25

The Boston Transcript, from advance sheets of the book, says: "It is a painstaking and, in no small measure, successful attempt on the part of an intelligent Frenchman to get at the real distinctive character of our people, and their social customs and culture. It is in many respects admirably sympathetic and always interesting in its judgments."

Arcadian Days.

American Landscapes in Nature and Art. By W. H. Downes. Profusely illustrated by A. H. Bicknell with full-page etchings, half-tone engravings, designs neatly set in the text, etc. 8vo, cloth, original and very handsome cover design, in a box. Reduced to $2.00

A handsome holiday volume, illustrated with original etchings.

A great appeal to the hearts of all lovers of nature is made by the strong descriptive power of the author, which, together with the exquisitely pencilled half-tone engravings and vigorous etchings accompanying the text, makes a volume of strong literary merit and intrinsic worth.

Song Birds and Seasons.

A series of delightful essays on outdoor life, by Andre Theuriet, reminding one of Thoreau and Burroughs, illustrated by the celebrated artist, Hector Giacomelli, with numerous beautiful drawings engraved on wood in the highest style of the art. 1 vol., small 8vo, handsomely bound in celluloid, with decorated cover design, boxed. Reduced to $1.25

The Bay Colony.

Being the early colonial history in Massachusetts. By William Dummer Northend. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, $2.00

A concise history of the first twenty-five years of the colony of Massachusetts Bay, ending with the death of Winthrop in 1650; the primitive period of the colony. The principal events are distinctly and logically portrayed, and the influence of the colony on the mother country clearly shown. The work has been largely drawn from records and original sources; a chapter is given to the beginning of our legal system, and new light is thrown on some of the political, religious, and social questions of that time. An introductory chapter deals with the settlement at Plymouth and the other settlements prior to the arrival of Winthrop.

Great Events of the World.

In Poetry and Prose. Arranged chronologically. Edited by R. Warren Brown. Illustrated with about seventy-five full-page portraits and views, beautifully engraved. 8vo, cloth, gilt. New edition, reduced in price. $1.50

This handsome volume is devoted to poems of a purely historical nature, preceded by a narration in prose of the event which forms the subject-matter of each poem. They are arranged chronologically, thus forming a concise narrative of the principal events in the world's history, with biographical sketches of the different persons connected with them. Written in graphic style.

The White Hills.

Their Legends, Landscape, and Poetry. By Thomas Starr King. A handsome new edition. Illustrated with eleven beautiful full-page photogravure plates, besides upwards of sixty wood-engravings in the text. 8vo, cloth, extra, gilt. New edition, reduced in price. $1.50

This edition of Starr King's famous "White Hills" has received nothing but praise and good words from the press and all who have seen it. The literature of the White Mountains has become very extensive since these brilliant chapters were written, but no one has seen so deeply into the beauties of that magnificent scenery, nor described them with so much feeling and poetry. Since then, too, a new generation has grown up, and a work of this never failing charm and artistic value is in constant demand.

Life on the Circuit with Lincoln.

With sketches of General Grant, Sherman, and McClellan, Judge Davis, Leonard Swett, and other contemporaries. By Major Henry C. Whitney. Profusely illustrated with portraits of Lincoln and his contemporaries, and scenes connected with his life, together with thirteen fac-simile letters, etc. 4to, cloth, gilt tops, 600 pages. $3.50

This valuable and entertaining book on Lincoln, unlike too many others on the same subject, is entirely original, being written by one of his closest friends, who shared his confidence and knew him intimately during his evolution from a circuit lawyer to a national statesman.

Lalanne on Etching.

A Treatise on Etching. Text and Plates by Maxime Lalanne. Authorized edition, translated from the second French edition by S. R. Koehler, with an introductory chapter and notes by the translator. Illustrated with ten full-page etched plates on Holland paper. 8vo. $3.00

A complete exposition of the processes employed, the illustrative plates being by the author, who bears the reputation of being one of the greatest living etchers.

Miss Parloa's Famous Cook Books.

Miss Parloa's Young Housekeeper.

A new book by Maria Parloa, author of "New Cook Book," "Kitchen Companion," etc. 12mo, cloth, net, Same. Flexible water-proof cover. Kitchen edition, net, } $1.00

Designed particularly for beginners, — for those who have just begun, or are about to begin, to keep house for two or three. Clear directions from A to Z. Tells how to furnish the kitchen sensibly ; the right way to buy food and to care for it ; about preparing all kinds of dishes by wholesome and economical methods ; how to preserve fruits and vegetables ; the easiest and best way to do laundry work, not to speak of many other things of great importance to young housekeepers. A plain book for plain people. A book that farmers' wives and daughters will be glad to own. One from which any housewife may obtain an immense amount of valuable aid.

Miss Parloa's Kitchen Companion.

A Guide for all who would be Good Housekeepers. Handsomely printed and very fully illustrated. Large 8vo (nearly 1,000 pages). Neatly bound in extra cloth.
Same. Kitchen edition, with water-proof cloth cover, } $2.50

It is thoroughly practical ; it is perfectly reliable ; it is marvellously comprehensive ; it is copiously illustrated. It is, in short, overflowing with good qualities, and is just the book that all housekeepers need to guide them.

Nearly every article of food prepared in modern times, and every curious dish is described. The illustrations are unusually full and complete. — San Francisco Bulletin.

It is suited for all emergencies. — Providence Journal.

Miss Parloa's New Cook Book and Marketing Guide.

Same. Kitchen edition, with water-proof cloth cover, } $1.50

This is one of the most popular cook books ever printed, containing 1724 receipts and items of instruction. The directions are clear and concise, and the chapters on marketing and kitchen furnishing very useful.

Miss Maria Parloa's "New Cook Book" is one of the best manuals of the kind ever printed. It has one grace — which many lack — that of explicit directions. For comprehensiveness and precision this book may be said to be unique. — N. Y. Tribune.

Such a volume does much to simplify and assist housekeeping, and is greatly to be commended. — Portland Press.

It is, on the whole, the most perfect in design and the most complete in its carrying out of any cook book yet published in America, and should be in the hands of every housekeeper. — Boston Transcript.

A new book by the author of "Sensible Etiquette," which is a recognized authority upon social usages. This companion book deals with the subject of the more thorough education of women in all the relations of life: as wives, mothers, or teachers; hostesses or guests.

Social Customs.

New edition. A complete manual of American Etiquette. By Florence Howe Hall (daughter of Julia Ward Howe), author of "The Correct Thing." Handsomely printed on deckle-edge paper and neatly bound in cloth, gilt top. Reduced to $1.50

Do you always know just what to do? Do you know how to encourage Mrs. D. Lightful, accept and return her courtesies as they deserve, and politely but firmly avoid and defeat Mrs. Bore in her inroads on your privacy and more agreeable engagements? If you do not, let us recommend for every social question the above entertaining and instructive book, or its baby relative, "The Correct Thing," mentioned below, for with these two books one can make no mistake in life, as every possible question may be answered from their combined wisdom. They are comprehensive, practical, reliable, and authoritative.

The Correct Thing.

By Florence Howe Hall, author of "Social Customs." 18mo, neatly bound in cloth, 75c

Same. 18mo, handsomely bound in celluloid, boxed, $1.25

This manual is neatly printed in a size not too large to be slipped into the pocket, and is arranged so that one page reminds the reader that "it is the correct thing" to do this, while, per contra, the opposite page tells him that "it is not the correct thing" to do that. Its conciseness recommends it to many who would not take the time to master a more comprehensive manual.

Thackeray's The Rose and the Ring;

Or, The History of Prince Giglio and Prince Bulbo. A fireside pantomime for great and small children. By William M. Thackeray, author of "Vanity Fair," etc. With upwards of fifty illustrations by this celebrated author. Square 16mo, cloth. $1.00

Same. Handsomely bound in celluloid, boxed, $1.25

Key to North American Birds.

Fourth revised edition. By Elliott Coues, M. A., M. D., Ph. D. Contains a concise account of every species of living and fossil bird at present known on the continent north of the boundary line between Mexico and the United States, including Greenland. Revised to date. With which are incorporated General Ornithology, and outline of the structure and classification of birds; and Field Ornithology, a manual of collecting, preparing, and preserving birds. Profusely illustrated, including a full-page colored frontispiece. Royal 8vo, vellum cloth. $7.50

The new edition presents the nomenclature of the American Ornithologists' Union in the most convenient form for comparison with that of other editions.

Coues's "Key" is too well known as a leading and authoritative treatise to require remark, having for years held its place as the standard work of reference for professional ornithologists as well as for students and amateurs. The latest and most exhaustive American ornithology. Indispensable to every sportsman, amateur and working ornithologist.

The Coues Check List

Of North American Birds. Second edition, revised and entirely rewritten, under direction of the author. Royal, 8vo, cloth. $3.00

Includes a dictionary of etymology, orthography, and orthoëpy of the scientific names, the concordance of previous lists, and a catalogue of the author's ornithological publications.

What Young People Should Know.

The Reproductive Function in Man and the Lower Animals. By Prof. Burt G. Wilder. With twenty-six illustrations. 12mo, cloth. $1.50

"'What Young People Should Know' is the suggestive title of a book by Professor Burt G. Wilder. It treats of a delicate subject — the reproductive function in man and the lower animals — with frankness and vigor; in a distinctly professional manner, it is true, but with instructive effect. The last part, which treats of physiology and hygiene of reproduction, contains plain lessons of universal application. The book is evidently prepared with great care, with a thorough knowledge of the subject, and with an earnest desire to do good." — Literary World.

Three Years in the Army.

The story of the Thirteenth Massachusetts Volunteers, from July 16, 1861, to August 1, 1864. By Charles E. Davis, Jr. With maps and plans. 8vo, cloth. Net, $3.00

A limited edition published for the author.

Foil and Sabre.

A grammar of fencing, in detailed lessons for professor and pupil, by Prof. Louis Rondelle, a graduate of the French National Academy of Fencing at Joinville-le-pont, France, fencing master at the Boston Athletic Association and Harvard University Fencing Club. Embellished with fifty-two exquisite half-tone full-page engravings, illustrating the entire science of "thrust and parry." 8vo, cloth, gilt top. $3.50

The most exhaustive treatise ever published in any language on the subject of fencing. It lays down a complete series of lessons covering the entire scope of the art of foil and sabre practice.

"In this most elaborate treatise Mr. Rondelle has given us the very best book on fencing that has been published, either in England or the United States. It is much more complete than the treatise in the Badminton Library, which is perhaps the best known, and its very liberal allowance of illustrations of well-nigh every attitude assumed in the use of either weapon makes it a valuable aid to the swordsman." — Commercial Bulletin.

Robert Browning's Prose Life of Strafford.

With an introduction by C. H. Frith, M. A., and forewords by F. J. Furnivall, M. A. Edition limited to 500 copies for America. 12mo, cloth, gilt top (uniform with the Riverside Edition of Browning's Works). $2.00

Published simultaneously and in connection with the Browning Society of London, it contains in addition to Browning's Life of Thomas Wentworth, Earl of Strafford, an introduction by C. H. Frith, M. A. Oxon, and a preface by F. J. Furnivall, M. A., Hon. Dr. Phil., together with two appendixes, the second of which contains material from documents as yet new to the public.

The Waverley Novels

By SIR WALTER SCOTT

With New Introductions, Notes, and Glossaries

By ANDREW LANG

An acquaintance with the Waverley Novels is a necessity to every intelligent reader, and no library should be without a set of these works. All other writers appreciate the rational and virtuous tendencies of Scott's works, and the historical knowledge which a careful reader gleans from them is of great value. A feature of these inimitable fictions is the delineation of national character with a fidelity the most exact, and the description of scenery with a picturesqueness almost unequalled.

The publishers of this edition propose to place before the American public these romances in a more appropriate form than they have ever been offered before in either Europe or America. The text will be reprinted from the author's favorite edition, and will contain all of his introductions and notes. To these will be added new introductions, notes, and glossaries by the world-renowned critic and author, Andrew Lang, who has had the coöperation of the Hon. Mrs. Maxwell Scott, of Abbotsford, the great-granddaughter of Sir Walter Scott, in preparing this edition, and who has had access to all of the manuscript and other material now at Abbotsford, so that new points of interest may consequently be expected in this edition.

This edition will also excel all previous editions in points of artistic merit. The illustrations will consist of two hundred and fifty etchings from original designs by some of the most distinguished artists in the world, printed on Japanese paper.

Among the artists and etchers whose work will appear in this edition may be mentioned the following:

Artists.

SIR J. E. MILLAIS, BART., R. A.	AD. LALAUZE.
JOHN PETTIE, R. A.	KEELEY HALSWELLE, R. S. A. R. W. S.

WORKS OF

Victor Hugo

In 16 volumes

Uniform in size and style with the Illustrated Cabinet Editions of George Eliot, W. M. Thackeray and Charles Dickens

Victor Hugo occupies not only an enviable place among the really great men of this century, but one that may be said to be entirely unique. His genius is brilliant and unquestioned, and his intellect bright, noble, and enlightened. He is at once novelist, poet, philosopher, artist, prophet, and moralist; a thinker of the highest rank, whose writings are growing in popularity, not only in his native country, France, but throughout the world; and at a time when the greatest works of many authors, who during his lifetime were considered his equals or superiors, are now unread ornaments on thousands of library shelves. The increasing demand for his works indicates most significantly the presence of certain qualities which commend them to the rising generation, and adapt them to the intellectual of all classes and all countries.

They appeal to the refinement of thought of the present age, and among them are found masterpieces of fiction and drama which will rank among the highest of all times and all countries. Among the novels, "Les Miserables" and "Notre Dame" are ranked as among the very greatest works of fiction ever produced in any age or country.

The illustrations will consist of etchings and photogravures by the most notable French artists, who have vied with one another to produce fitting designs to illustrate these masterpieces of modern literature. The photogravures have, in the main, been executed in Paris, by the celebrated firm of Goupil et Cie. There may be also especially mentioned etchings of many original compositions by the celebrated artist,

François Flameng, the exclusive right to which, with editions in this country, has been purchased by the publishers of this edition. In addition to these will be several portraits of the author. Among the famous artists and etchers whose work appears in this edition are Detaille, Leloir, Vibert, Perrault, Bonnat Merson, Lefevre, Frere, Hagborg, and others equally famous.

Les Miserables contains also 120 beautiful half-tones, reproduced from the celebrated Edition Nationale, the set thus having 200 illustrations in all.

This is the only complete edition of Victor Hugo's Romances, and it contains also his celebrated Last Days of the Condemned, Things Seen, etc.

Printed by the University Press, on the finest English-finish paper, from large, clear type, well leaded, and set in a small page. Bound in English silk-ribbed cloth, with a particularly unique and appropriate full gold back design, gilt tops, uncut edges.

The works will be sold separately as follows:

Les Miserables,	5 volumes,	$7.50
Notre Dame,	2 "	3.00

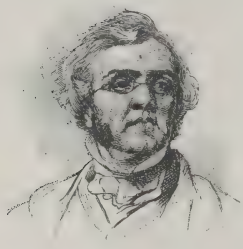
COMPLETE WORKS OF

William Makepeace Thackeray

In 20 volumes



Of the many editions hitherto published in Europe and America, it is believed that none are so well adapted to the requirements of those persons who really appreciate the masterpieces of these great novelists, and wish to preserve them in an elegant and convenient library form.

This edition of THACKERAY will contain all of the novels and miscellanies contained in the best standard edition, issued in England with the author's approval.

A companion set to the Illustrated Cabinet Editions of George Eliot, Victor Hugo, and Charles Dickens, printed on the finest English-finish paper, from beautiful type, well spaced and set in a small page. Press-work by the University Press.

The volumes are a small 12mo, uniform in size with the Illustrated Cabinet Edition of Eliot, and bound with handsome full gold backs in English silk ribbed cloth, gilt tops.

One of the distinguishing features of this edition will be a greater variety of illustrations than has ever appeared in any edition of THACKERAY'S WORKS, consisting of 210 woodcuts, mainly from the drawings of the author, which have become as thoroughly identified with his literary works as have the drawings of Cruikshank and Phiz with those of Dickens. These will be supplemented with reproductions of drawings by the celebrated English artists, Millais, Barnard, and Luke Fildes; and to these will be added two etched portraits, a series of original etchings, drawn and etched by Pailthorpe especially for the publishers of this edition, together with the famous etchings by George Cruikshank, six photo-etchings from the Character Sketches of Frederick Barnard, and many photogravures reproduced for this edition from photographs of real scenes referred to.

WORKS OF

Charles Dickens

In 30 volumes

Uniform with our Illustrated Cabinet Editions of George Eliot, Victor Hugo, and W. M. Thackeray

Innumerable editions and bindings of Dickens's Works have from time to time appeared on the market, but it is a remarkable fact that none have yet appeared that in the judgment of competent critics are worthy of this great revolutionizer of English literature, or which possess the true artistic character in illustration and typography.

Confident in the belief that the times demand really fine work, the publishers have planned an edition which will from the outset create a new and widespread interest, not alone in the author's novels, but in the perfection of their presentation.

As much of Dickens's early success was due to the marvellous illustrations made by Cruikshank, Phiz, and others, which were submitted to and approved by Dickens before they were accepted (early impressions of which command enormous prices), it has been deemed of the first importance that these be used in preference to anything else. Many illustrations have since been made by talented artists, but the fact that they have never been accepted by the public as really illustrating Dickens is convincing proof that the original designs could not be improved upon. Early impressions have accordingly been obtained at great expense, and competent artists secured to reëtch them line for line. Some of the original volumes were illustrated by wood engravings, as "Barnaby Rudge," "Old Curiosity Shop," etc., and the publishers have been so fortunate as to obtain from the English publishers, Chapman & Hall, electrotypes from the original wood blocks, which have never been printed from. These, over three hundred in number, will be printed on metallic surface coated paper, and the patrons of this edition are thus guaranteed excellent impressions of the finest illustrations ever made for Dickens's works. Among the great artists whose work is included in these volumes are: CRUIKSHANK, SEYMOUR, H. K. BROWNE (Phiz), MARCUS STONE, CATTERMOLE, F. WALKER, DOYLE, LEECH, MACLISE, LANDSEER, and BARNARD.

In many instances extra plates are given, which are contained in no other similar edition of the present day. By far the most attractive and most easily read Dickens ever made.

It is hard to imagine any way in which this edition could be improved. Small, handy volumes, uniform in size with the Eliot, Hugo, and Thackeray, printed by the University Press, from a type page that is simply perfection. English finish paper of the best quality, and bound in silk-ribbed cloth, gilt tops.

WORKS OF

George Eliot

AND LIFE

Edited by J. W. CROSS

The works of George Eliot have within our own time become recognized as standard literature with which all intelligent persons are bound to become familiar. Their position in the literary world, if not, indeed, entirely unique, is certainly unexampled in the history of English-speaking peoples. The author has been aptly denominated "the intellectual daughter of Shakespeare," and several of her novels are ranked by many good judges of literature as worthy of a place beside the immortal work of Cervantes and other of the masterpieces of the world's fiction. No series of novels was ever written with a higher moral purpose or more conscientious literary effort. The publishers of the present edition enter with enthusiasm upon the production of what they believe to be the nearest approach to an appropriate mechanical and artistic reproduction of these incomparable works ever projected. This edition will be unique in point of illustration and manufacture.

Illustrated with 120 etchings and photo-etchings. In 24 volumes. 12mo. English silk-ribbed cloth, with ornamental cover stamped in gold.

Sold either in sets or separate works, at $1.50 per volume.

The typography and press-work are by the University Press, the type being well leaded, and set in a small, easily read page, and the press-work the very best that skill and care can produce.

The paper used is Dickinson's celebrated Croxley Mills English paper.

There are 120 etchings and photo-etchings.

WORKS OF

John Ruskin

In 26 volumes

John Ruskin stands, without a peer, the most eloquent and original of all writers on nature, art, and architecture in the world.

As a writer of beautiful English, too, his "Sesame and Lilies," "Mornings in Florence," etc., have long been recognized as masterpieces.

His picturesque Saxon style, graphic, clear, and forcible, is justly considered one of the glories of modern English literature, and, as Charlotte Bronté says, "He writes like a consecrated priest of the abstract and ideal."

The "Spectator" says (Autumn, 1884): "No other critic ever occupied such a position. He is one of the best known and most appreciated figures in our generation. His older books are among the treasures of the bibliophile, his later works are purchased like scarce plates, his opinions are quoted like texts from a holy book."

Carlyle writes to Emerson, in the last letter he ever sent to him: "No other man in England that I meet has in him the divine rage against iniquity, falsity, and baseness that Ruskin has, and that every man ought to have."

No previous edition of Ruskin has fully met the requirements of exacting book lovers; the Illustrated Cabinet Edition, we believe, will.

Printed from beautiful, clear type, well spaced with indented side notes on deckle-edge, soft laid paper, equal to the finest hand-made as far as results in printing are concerned, and producing a volume light in weight.

The full-page illustrations number 288, and include all the colored plates, steel engravings, etchings, and process cuts, in all the original tints. In addition to the full-page illustrations are the cuts in the text — many hundreds of them altogether. A large proportion of these are from drawings by Mr. Ruskin, and are not only attractive in appearance, but are absolutely necessary for a proper interpretation of the text.

The volumes are bound with flat backs and uncut edges, gilt tops, in a handsome cloth, with an especially appropriate full gold back design. Size, a tall 12mo.

Illustrated Cabinet Edition

WORKS OF

William H. Prescott

Uniform in Size and Style with our Illustrated Cabinet Edition of John Ruskin.

A complete edition of this famous historian's writings is a necessity to every library. By arrangement with his original publishers we offer an edition in every way superior to any heretofore made. This edition contains all of Mr. Prescott's revisions and those books still in copyright, and is entirely complete.

The illustrations form one of its salient features. They have been secured, by a liberal outlay, from the widest and most authentic sources. They are extremely helpful to an understanding of the text, and are at the same time a splendid ornament to this edition. They consist of about 100 full-page illustrations, embracing steel engravings, photogravures, and half-tones.

Printed from new, clear type on deckle-edge laid paper. The volumes are bound with flat backs, gilt tops, and uncut edges, in an appropriate cloth, with a very handsome full gold back stamp. Size, a tall 12mo.

The works will be sold separately as follows:

The Christian Gentleman.

Bright, informal, and earnest talks to young men on practical matters of every-day life. They are entertaining, yet forceful, and are full of fresh and vigorous thoughts, abounding in striking illustrations and having the charm of rare originality. When recently delivered before large audiences of young men, they were received with immense enthusiasm. 12mo, Cloth. 123 pages. Tasteful cover design by George Wharton Edwards. Price, 75 cents.

THE CONTENTS.

In the Temple of the Human Body.
In the Secret Chambers of His Imagination.
As One of the World's Workers.
In Pursuit of Ideas.
As a Knight of the New Chivalry.
In His Relation to Women.
With His Friends.
In the Treatment of His Enemies.
In Prosperity.
In Adversity.

Incident and illustration give life and beauty to every page. We would like to place this volume in the hands of every young man we know.—Christian Observer, Louisville, Ky.

It is written in the chatty, agreeable style which appeals to young men, and by apt illustrative incidents points the moral which is to be brought home to those who would be Christian Gentlemen under all circumstances. There is a glow of sympathy lighting up these pages which ought to warm the heart of every young man who reads them.—American Church Sunday-School Magazine, Philadelphia.

Breathes the very spirit of virility that characterizes its vigorous author.—Cornell Magazine, Ithaca, N. Y.

Every page is lit up with its anecdote of people we all know about, and the unpretentiousness of the speaker's style explains the potency of what at first may seem very ordinary talks.—The American, Philadelphia.

The author is widely read, and the addresses are enriched with anecdotes and apt illustrations.—The Atlanta Constitution.

We advise all parents, if possible, to place a copy in the hands of their sons.—The Baltimore Methodist.

Paul and His Friends.

Thirty-one eloquent and vigorous revival sermons, richly freighted with suggestive and illustrative material for all classes of Christian workers. They unfold many fresh and striking facts relative to the life of Paul. A companion volume to "Christ and His Friends" and "The Fisherman and His Friends." 12mo, Cloth, Gilt Top, Rough Edges. 355 pages. Cover Design by George Wharton Edwards. Price, $1.50.

Replete with powerful presentations and illustrations of truth.—Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.

The addresses are practical, eloquent, earnest, and persuasive. His illustrations are apt and pointed, and he gathers his facts from the wide range of literature past and present.—Inter Ocean, Chicago.

Contains much illustrative and suggestive material concerning the life of Paul.—The Outlook, New York.

As a book for the worker in Christ's vineyard, or as a book for devotional reading, it would be difficult to overestimate its value.—Christian Work, New York.

His sermons have energy, sincerity, and felicity of illustration, all drenched in love.—Rev. Dr. Robert McIntyre, Pastor St. James M. E. Church, Chicago.

I especially commend the volume to preachers and others who enjoy reading vital Gospel truth.—Bishop W. F. Mallalieu, Boston.

Sermon Stories for Boys and Girls.

Attractive stories in which are simple and winning character lessons for young folks. The idea has been to catch the eyes and ears of the boys and girls and then make the story convey its message of helpful truth. The book is of particular value for the Nursery, Sunday-school Room, and Pastor's Study. With forty-six initial illustrations by FREELAND A. CARTER. 12mo, Artistic Cover Design. Cloth, 218 pp. Price $1.00.

They are expressed in the freshness and simplicity of child language.—Christian Advocate, New York.

All the stories are interesting and easily comprehensible.—The Boston Times.

They catch the heart as firmly as they catch the attention.—North and West, Minneapolis.

He catches the eyes and ears of his hearers by bright little stories about animals, events in current life, and interesting features of nature, and then with rare skill, makes each of these stories carry a helpful message.—The Burlington Hawk-Eye.

Fernald, James C. [Also see page 21.]

The Spaniard in History.

A story of the Spanish Race and the part it has played in the World's history. In a series of literary flash-lights the book brings vividly before the imagination the long record of romance and tragedy connected with the Spanish Race—from the forays of Castile to the dark intrigue and systematic butchery of the Inquisition—from Spain in her regal splendor and thrift under the Saracens to the expulsion of the Moors, down to the present period of Spanish decay. It contains two large maps in the pocket of the book cover, one of Spain, the other of Cuba, each 14 x 21 inches, printed in five colors; also text maps of the Philippine Islands, and Spain in the XIV. and XV. centuries. Tastefully printed and handsomely bound, with elaborate cover design by George Wharton Edwards. 12mo, Cloth, 144 pages. Price, 75 cents.

THE CHAPTERS.

The Spanish Race.
Rise of the Spanish Monarchy.
The Conquest of Granada.
The Inquisition.
Expulsion of Jews and Moors.
The Spaniard in the West Indies.
The Spaniard in Mexico and Peru.
Philip the Second.
The Spaniard in the Netherlands.
The Spaniard in the Philippines.
The Spaniard in Cuba.
The Spaniard on the Sea.

It is much better than a history.—Buffalo Express, Buffalo, N. Y.

To be commended for its clear and philosophical presentment of the causes which shaped the national type and were responsible for both the greatness and the decline of Spain.—Springfield Republican, Springfield, Mass.

A very discriminating and meritorious condensation of vital events in the history of the Spanish people and their government.—San Francisco Chronicle.

In reality his book is a series of bright stereopticon views, whereon is pictured forth the Spain of all times. It is accurate and absorbingly interesting.—The Evening Item, Philadelphia.

A timely book. . . .—New York Herald.

A comprehensive and clear review of the essential facts, and Spanish history as illustrating Spanish character.—Washington Post, Washington, D. C.

. . . A wonderful compass, this, a story unparalleled in the picturesque and in the tragic. It is only an outline sketch, but it is exceedingly interesting, full of significant lessons for this crisis in particular, and for all crises in which the horrible example of an unholy nation can act as a warning to the rest of the world.—The Interior, Chicago.

U. S. Senator W. P. Frye says: "I find it to be exceedingly interesting. It ought to be in the hands of all Americans."

U. S. Senator H. D. Money says: "It is a clear and powerful condensation of the historical reasons for the Spanish character of to-day. It is instructive and interesting, and its publication is opportune."

U. S. Representative C. A. Sulloway says: "I wish every child in our land had a copy of 'The Spaniard in History.' . . . He who makes known their history performs a pious work."

U. S. Representative J. H. Bromwell says: "A book that I can commend to any reader who wishes obtain a correct view of the Spanish character of to-day."

U. S. Senator Cushman K. Davis says: "It is a most interesting work, well written, and presenting its facts in a most excellent manner."

U. S. Senator Jacob H. Gallinger says: "I have read the 'Spaniard in History' with great interest. It is one of the most instructive publications on the subject that has come to my attention, and it can not fail to do much good in calling the attention of our people to the history of a nation that has always put cruelty before justice and oppression before freedom."

U. S. Representative Amos J. Cummings says: "It is exceedingly interesting and right to the point at the present time. I have read it with absorbing interest."

Loisette, Prof. A.

Assimilative Memory; or, How to Attend and Never Forget.

The Funk & Wagnalls Co. are now the sole publishers of the famous Loisette Memory System. Heretofore this valuable system has been sold under stringent restrictions and at a high price. It is now placed within easy reach of all. It is highly indorsed by educational leaders, professional and scientific men, government officials, business men, and others throughout the world who have benefited from its treatment. Cloth, 12mo, 170 pp. Price, $2.50 net. Special inducements to schools in lots of six or more.

I have no hesitation in recommending Professor Loisette's system to all who are in earnest in wishing to train their memories effectively.— The late Richard A. Proctor, the Eminent Astronomer.

Professor Loisette's system is, in all its essential features, entirely original. I consider it to be a new departure in the education of the memory and attention, and of very great value.—Dr. W. A. Hammond, the Distinguished Specialist in Diseases of the Brain.

Professor Loisette greatly strengthened my natural memory. . . . . Learn Loisette's system and no other.— William Waldorf Astor, Editor and Proprietor Pall Mall Magazine, London.

We are able to indorse all we have said before in favor of this system of developing the recollective and analytical powers . . . . The system is founded on sound principles, and we regard such a training as Mr. Loisette offers as one of the most important educational advantages which it has been our lot to encounter.— Dr. Andrew Wilson, Combe Lecturer on Physiology.

You have taught me how to memorize at a single perusal what I formerly could only learn by a series of endless repetitions.—Francis Wilson, the Actor.

Thanks to your method, I learned last year the signification of about 2,000 English words in less than a month! I can therefore say that for acquiring the knowledge of foreign languages your system is wonderful.—Don Luis Villaverde, Havana, Cuba.

The utility of the system is beyond question. In three weeks I was able to memorize the names, faces, position of roster, character—in fact every necessary particular—of more than 400 officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the wing under my command.—Major A. W. Jamieson, Bengal Sanitary Corps.

Mann, The Rev. Hames

Clerical Types.

Twenty charming character sketches of various types of clergymen. Trenchant wit and sarcasm are mingled with affecting pathos in these keen stories of ministerial successes and failures. The descriptions are breezy and are enlivened by many a capital anecdote. The book will prove entertaining to the general reader and suggestive to the minister or theological student. 12mo, Cloth, 217 pages. Price, $1.00.

There is not a dull line in the book; a sense of humor dominates the chapters, and anecdote and quiet satire enliven the text.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The writer is possessed of humor as well as satire. The point of view is genial and hearty, and while foibles and fallacies are cleverly pointed out there is no animus in the blows that shatter.—Hartford Post.

The author with a masterly hand presents the ministers who exhibit some striking idiosyncrasies of tenet or practise. Few are the clergymen who can read these well-written chapters without recognizing some painful limitation or infirmity possessed by themselves. "Thou art the man," is the voice which speaks out from many a page to the unprejudiced and respective reader.—Zion's Herald, Boston.

The verbal portraits are well drawn, and in them not infrequently keen wit, ready humor, biting sarcasm, the gentleness of pathos, or a hint of some tragic downfall appears. The sketches chiefly intimate what sort of a man a good and useful minister ought not to be.—Central Christian Advocate, St. Louis, Mo.

The cameos are cut with a sharp knife and a steady hand.—The Watchman, Boston.

Abounds in good sense, and many ministers will do well to lay to heart its hints.—The Congregationalist, Boston.

The book is a readable one, and is neatly presented by its publishers.—The Boston Times.

. . . Sprightly anecdotes and apt quotations are sprinkled through the volume, which, if it has caustic words for the pretenders in ministerial ranks, is generous in praise of those admirable types which fortunately are in the majority.—Times, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The pictures are so true to life, however, that we can not help but think the real characters must have passed before him. The style is good, the sentiments are healthy. There is not a dull chapter in the book. It could be profitably read by young theological students. It will furnish more than recreation for those who are in the midst of the busy cares and toils of the pastorate.—Reformed Church Messenger, Phila.

Martyn, Carlos [Also see page 42.]

Neal Dow and His Century.

A complete and fascinating story of the life achievements and related incidents of the statesman reformer who was so closely identified with the Abolition, Prohibition, and other great reform movements. Neal Dow's long life spanned nearly the whole of the Nineteenth Century. It was a life of constant action in times both of war and of peace. No writer is better fitted than CARLOS MARTYN to tell the life story of this great man. His charming life of Wendell Phillips has thrilled the nation. His life of Neal Dow is a worthy companion to the former great work. 8vo, Cloth. Tasteful cover design. Price, $2.00.

Missionary Review, A Complete Index to the

A complete, trustworthy, and helpful key to the entire comprehensive range of mission literature presented in the ten volumes of THE MISSIONARY REVIEW. It will not only include the general subjects of all articles, but all particular references to men, events, and topics which are included within these articles. It will be so complete and yet so simple that any reader who wishes to find any matter upon any subject contained within the entire ten years' issues may do so with ease and promptness. It will be so exhaustive and systematic that students of missions will be able by its use to refer to any important development of missionary enterprise within the last decade. A complete reference work of missionary biography, history, geography, etc. Arranged by Arthur T. Pierson, D.D., Editor-in-Chief of THE MISSIONARY REVIEW. 8vo, Cloth. Price, $3.00.

Hawaii: Our New Possessions.

The annexation of the Hawaiian Islands has added a new people to the citizenship of the United States and a land of immense natural wealth to the country's territory. Little is known in America of the wonders, the resources, or the people of our new country. Hawaii is a wonderful and a surprising land. Its people and their customs and traditions are of extraordinary interest. Its scenery is among the most beautiful in the world. Its productions, industries, and enormous natural wealth are of great present importance. The best description of the islands, with the latest and most interesting information, is now offered in this story of Hawaii as it has been and as it is to-day. It contains the latest information on every feature of this interesting country; its people—their customs, mythology, folk-lore, etc.; its institutions—social, religious, industrial, educational, and mercantile; its history, both past and present—showing the varied changes from the days of Spanish Pirates and Captain Cook to annexation by the United States; its nature marvels—the stately mountains, the great volcano, the fertile valleys, and the broad bays and harbors. Profusely and elegantly illustrated. Over one hundred beautiful half-tone reproductions from photographic views, adorned with tasteful border decorations by PHILIP E. FLINTOFF, besides thirty-four delicate and artistic pen sketches by FREELAND A. CARTER. Handsome Cover design. Large 8vo, 546 pp. Price, Cloth, $2.75; Half Morocco, Gilt Edges, $4.00.

It is the completest, most interesting, and best illustrated History of the Sandwich Islands yet furnished the English reader.—President J. W. Bashford, Ohio Wesleyan University.

The book abounds in excellent descriptions and interesting stories and legends. It is the most comprehensive work of the kind that has yet appeared. The illustrations are profuse and high class, and lend a great interest to the text. A perusal of the book, next to a personal visit, will best afford one a clear understanding and appreciation of our new possessions.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The story of Hawaii as it has been and as it is today comes as a genuine revelation, while the profusion of exquisite pictures with which the book abounds makes it by far the handsomest and most delightful work on this subject ever published. We commend it to all who desire the experience of that interest in a well-written story of travel, which is the next thing to visiting a new land.—Philadelphia Item.

The author writes with the freshness of impression of a tourist who has also been an industrious compiler.—Evening Sun, New York.

With the large interest that is now felt in this region, the appearance of the book is exceedingly timely.—Hartford Courant.

As a work of history and reference it is invaluable to every well-stocked library.—Christian Herald, Detroit, Mich.

From the descriptions and beautiful illustrations one seems transported to the shores of sweet breezes and lofty peaks—the Paradise of the Pacific.—The Record, Philadelphia.

The volume gives the reader a better idea of Hawaii than any before published. Mr. Musick is a graceful writer and a keen observer, and his book has no dull pages. The fifty-six superb full-page illustrations almost tell the story without the aid of the entertaining text.—The Inter Ocean, Chicago.

The book is most entertaining, and gives a graphic picture of life, customs, scenery, and society in the islands.—The Chicago Daily News.

Mr. Musick is a good traveler, and knows how to tell his story in an animated, straightforward fashion that enhances its interest.—Detroit Free Press.

His story carries conviction of its truth in its simplicity and absence of exaggeration in any of its particulars. It is, indeed, as a narrative, such a plain and simple statement as an honeest witness would give to an intelligent jury of the facts to be passed upon by them. I trust Mr. Musick's book will be widely read.—Ex-Judge Noah Davis.

The book is timely and full.—The Observer, N. Y.

Parker, Joseph, D.D. [Also see page 48.]

Studies in Texts: For Family, Church, and School.

Dr. Parker commemorates his fiftieth consecutive year of preaching by this jubilee work, which is to consist of six volumes issued in instalments of two volumes per year. The work embraces new sermons, outlines, and a great variety of suggestions, etc. The sermons are characterized by great originality, eloquence, and power. A deeply interesting account of how the author preached his first sermon fifty years ago, and also many valuable hints on pulpit preparation and methods of preaching, are contained in the preface. It will be found a particularly useful and valuable work for ministers, Sunday-school teachers, Bible students, and for home and family readings. The first volume will be ready in the fall; the second volume about January 1st; succeeding volumes every four months thereafter. 12mo, Cloth. Vol. I., 225 pages. Price, $1.50.

The secret of Dr. Parker's success as a preacher appears plainly in these simple and direct studies.—The Academy.

Full of Gospel truth, forcefully set forth with personal touches which add to the interest. . . . They abound in the points which are strong in the author; they are varied in subject and length of treatment; they are such as to stir the reader's soul. We hope our brethren will secure the volume and those which follow.—Local Preachers' Magazine.

It is not too much to say that it is equal in all respects to Dr. Parker's best work. It consists of fourteen complete sermons, followed by a number of outlines full of striking and suggestive ideas. . . . We shall await with interest the issue of the remaining volumes of the series.—Methodist Times.

In view of the many volumes which he has published, it is no light matter to be able to say that Dr. Parker's fertility and suggestiveness are here as remarkable as ever.—Christian World.

Once begun, any sermon by Dr. Parker is generally read right through to the end; its individuality, as it were, is magnetic, and under its sway the quickened conscience absorbs freely the rich stream of moral and spiritual teaching which flows from the text. His thoughts go deep down, but his vigorous, original mode of expression is as clear as crystal.—Christian Age.

They are strenuous and stimulating, marked by all the vigor, eloquence, and formidable candor characteristic of Dr. Parker.—Newcastle Chronicle.

Marked by all the Doctor's originality, his fine spiritual insight, majesty of expression, wealth of illustration, and forcefulness of application. . . . Preachers of the Gospel can not do better than add this book to their library, and may the Doctor long be spared to write such books.—Primitive Methodist.

His interpretations are very striking, his use of particular passages often surprising by their freshness and force; but the most characteristic feature of the whole is his earnest endeavor to embody the teaching of the Word itself. His grasp of mind would hardly be questioned even by the most advanced thinker of a generation which apparently believes that wisdom was born with it.—Independent.

Pierson, Arthur T., D.D. [Also see page 49.]

Catharine of Siena.

A brief biographical sketch of one of the most remarkable, heroic, and unselfish women in all history. The story of Catharine of Siena is one of the most instructive and stimulating of all the biographies of the middle ages. 12mo, Cloth. Price, 50 cents.

In Christ Jesus.

A work which seeks to show the boundless range and significance of the phrase IN CHRIST, or IN CHRIST JESUS. A very small key may open a very complex lock and a very large door, and that door may itself lead into a vast building with priceless stores of wealth and beauty. The book assumes that this brief phrase is the key to the whole New Testament, and it is the aim to demonstrate the particular application of this expression as used by Paul in writing to the Romans, Corinthians, Galatians, Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, and Thessalonians. 16mo, Cloth. Price, 60 cents.

Realf, Richard

Poems.

Edited by Colonel R. J. Hinton, with a sketch of the Poet's life. The collection consists of one hundred and seventy poems, including lyrics, songs, and sonnets. Of the latter the volume will contain over sixty, exquisite in their rythm and rich in melodious thought, full of that passion and symbolism which has made Realf's name, to those who have gathered such stray examples as could be secured, worthy of mention with Tasso, Petrarch, Milton, or Keats. Stirring lyrics of the anti-slavery agitation and of the Free State strife in Kansas mingle with poems of Love, Life, and Circumstance. There are many powerful songs and poems of the Civil War period and of the stirring years of national history immediately following the death of Mr. Lincoln. There are several reproductions of autograph poems. The book contains four portraits of the poet at different dates from 1858 to 1876, and one of the poet's mother; also a view of the poet's grave. 12mo, Cloth, deckle edges. Price, $2.00.

Seaman, Rev. Hervey J.

The Expert Cleaner.

A book of value for every household, containing an immense number of suggestions and receipts for cleaning every conceivable article about the home. Many useful hints toward bright and successful material conditions in the home are also embraced in the contents. Every housewife will find this book a right-hand help. 12mo, boards. Price, 75 cents.

Standard Intermediate Dictionary, The Funk & Wagnalls

The latest, most comprehensive, and most precise intermediate school dictionary. It is designed to give the Orthography, Pronunciation, Meaning, and Etymology of about 30,000 Words and Phrases in the Speech and Literature of the English-speaking peoples; 500 Pictorial Illustrations; Abridged from the Students' Standard Dictionary of the English language by JAMES C. FERNALD, Editor. About 550 pages.

ITS DISTINGUISHING FEATURES.

THE VOCABULARY, which is comprehensive and of unequaled richness for a dictionary of this size, preserves the distinguishing features of the Standard Dictionary, and aims to meet the combined needs of teachers and students. It exceeds the vocabulary of any other similar English work.

CAPITALIZATION. Only such words as should be written with capital initial letters are capitalized in the vocabulary.

THE SPELLINGS AND PRONUNCIATIONS are according to the decisions of the Standard Dictionary committee of fifty leading philologists and educators. The pronunciation is accurately and clearly indicated by the Scientific Alphabet which was prepared and promulgated by the American Philological Association.

THE DEFINITIVE CHARACTER OF THE ILLUSTRATIONS is especially noticeable, each introduced for a purpose, and telling the meaning to the eye, as no mere words can do.

THE DEFINITIONS, while brief, are clear and exact, presenting accurate meanings and distinctions; definitive statements are given as far as space permits; where definition by synonym is employed, as is often necessary, scrupulous care has been taken always to define the unfamiliar by the familiar word, or by a word which is itself more fully defined in its own place.

COMPOUNDING. The system of compounding words adopted by the Standard Dictionary has been carefully followed in the Standard Intermediate.

ETYMOLOGIES have been given in a clear, though condensed form, tracing each word, as far as practicable, to its ultimate source, that the pupil may know whence the word started, and just how it came to have its present signification. This introduction of etymologies is a wholly new feature in a dictionary prepared for pupils below the academic grade. These etymologies being invariably placed after the definitions, do not impede consultation.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES have been entered in tabular statement in their appropriate place, including a condensed exposition of the METRIC SYSTEM.

Weekes, Robert D.

The New Dispensation.

An effort to remedy the infelicities, defects, and generally acknowledged imperfections of the familiar versions of the New Testament. The object has been to determine the thought of the writers, and to express it in English acceptable both to the ordinary reader and to the close scholar, with as little deviation from the literal translation as practicable, at the same time retaining as far as possible the familiar style of the conventional versions. Translated from the New Testament Greek. 8vo, 525 pages. Cloth, $2.25; Full Russia, $3.75; Full Morocco, $4.75.

You have certainly succeeded in preparing such a translation as will give a fresher idea of what the New Testament means than could be obtained from either the Old Version or the Revised Version. It is a version that will set the student constantly thinking. . . . Those who refer to it will be surely helped in their studies.—William Hayes Ward, D.D., Editor of The Independent.

I sympathize heartily with the general method. . . . I shall welcome with an unusual gladness this addition to the means for bringing the sacred writings home to the actual mind of the people, especially young people. —A. J. Lyman, D.D., Brooklyn.

I must credit you with critical insight as well as with remarkable literary taste and judgment. The reading of this fresh translation will give a new sense of the meaning and preciousness of the Gospel records. —Rev. F. W. Baldwin, East Orange, N. J.

This translation will prove helpful to many readers. —Cumberland Presbyterian.

I have examined "The New Dispensation." I am quite pleased with it. Any scholarly attempt at translation is valuable. I like specially the fair open page —the division into paragraphs. I am sure one can get fresh and stimulating views by the reading of it.— Wayland Hoyt, Philadelphia.

Brown, J. W., D.D.

Gunethics.

A Book Devoted to the Social Status of Women. By the President of Wesleyan Female College, Cincinnati, O. 12mo, Frontispiece, 162 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

The argument is candid and cogent, and is well worth a careful perusal.—Episcopal Methodist.

A strong plea for the recognition of women as having equal inheritence, endowment, and dispensation with man in matters of religion.—Boston Home Journal.

In this work woman has a grand defense. Not simply because the author is in fullest sympathy with womankind, but because he shows most plainly that God and his word are emphatically so. The prejudice of heathenism against woman's higher moral and social sphere, lurks in the heart of Christian civilization, and remains as a cruel barrier in the way of her rightful progress. This work will help lift the veil from the heart, and open to woman a freer pathway to the attainment of her higher ambitions in service as well as honor.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Buckley, Adelaide S.

Sought and Found.

A Romance, Translated from the German of Golo Raimund. 12mo, 171 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

It is, as said, a charming tale; its characters are few, but they are drawn with wonderful skill, the more wonderful because there is no pretentious flourish of character analysis, but the simple, honest, tender story is made to define them with delightful light and shade as it flows serenely along.—The Times, Chicago.

A very charming story.—N. Y. Sun.

The primal lesson of the book is of immense value.—The News, Baltimore.

Every one who reads this graceful story will feel grateful to the translator who has so successfully enlarged the circle of those who may enjoy its rare simplicity and beauty. Whether fact or fiction, this is a touching tale that teaches a good moral lesson. Its diction is chaste and elevated; its style is simple and yet fascinating.—The Christian Advocate, New York.

This is a romance beautiful in its simplicity and in a marked degree instructive.—Inter Ocean, Chicago.

The interest is sustained and even intensified to the close.—The Press, N. Y.

Footprints of Christ.

The various phases of Christ and his work from a Scriptural Point of View. 12mo, 375 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

This book helps to make the manhood of Christ a real source of strength. . . . There is not a dull sentence in the book. . . . It is a book that is full of help, and can not fail to be a source of encouragement to any one who reads it.—The Interior, Chicago.

The treatment is reverent, practical, and close in its application to modern life. The sentences are short and full of snap and fire.—The Critic, New York.

This is a very nutritive book. . . . There is a good deal of power. Everything is crisp. More is suggested than space is taken to say. It is a fresh, good book, setting out in pungent phrase some of the imitable characteristics of our Savior.—The Golden Rule, Boston.

His ideas and his spirit are reverent and practical, and his book will help the young.—The Congregationalist, Boston.

The Standard Hymnal.

A New Hymnal for use in the Church, at the Prayer-meeting, in the Sunday-school, at Christian Endeavor Meetings, Missionary Meetings, Revival Meetings, Etc. About 150 Hymns, With Words and Music. 12mo, Cloth, 112 pp. 35 cents.

This hymn book comprises standard new and old hymns now used and usable and is so compiled as to render a resort to other books unnecessary as regards appropriateness and choral excellence. Its author is best known as the composer of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and numerous other popular pieces of sacred music.

This new hymn- and tune-book is a gem, both as regards its contents and as to its mechanical dress. In this book the choicest selections of the best modern composers are found together, with a wise selection from familiar tunes and some of the editor's most popular pieces, all happily adapted to all religious uses. The extremely low price of this hymnal will commend it to churches of limited means, and its excellence to all. —The Evangelist, New York.

The book is literally packed with facts and theories, and practical counsels. There is enough wisdom in it to set up a whole "Millennium."—Bishop John H. Vincent.

Dr. Crafts' "Practical Christian Sociology" is a book which having once in hand I should not like to do without. It is packed with just the information that a "Christian at work" most needs to know, and which he might search for through a hundred volumes in vain. We have not another book that unites wide scope and minute information in anything like the degree that this one does, and for this reason I wish that it might be studied in all the local unions of the W. C. T. U.—Frances E. Willard.

Practical Christianity Considered from the Standpoints of the Family and Education.
Practical Christianity Considered from the Standpoints of Capital and Labor, and Citizenship.

APPENDIX: Biblical Index and Hints on Bible Sociology. Chronological Data of Progress. Letter from Hon. Carroll D. Wright, on Divorce. Notes of Purity in Life and in Art. Easy Lessons in Christian Doctrine, etc.

An authoritative and strategic discussion of practical Christian Sociology, fairly representing the attitude of conservative evangelical Christians toward current social problems.—Joseph Cook.

The style is terse, vigorous, and pleasant, abounding in sententious maxims, which are well calculated to impress young readers. Nowhere have we found more incentives to honorable living so delightfully and impressively told than in this volume. If it could be stuffed into everybody's satchel as he journeys from home it would be well.—The Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

The Bible View of the Jewish Church.

12mo, 209 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

This work consists of thirteen lectures delivered between January and April, 1881, in the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, to the author's congregation. They produced so profound an impression that Dr. Crosby was earnestly requested to publish them. The standing of the author as a Biblical scholar and writer is so pronounced, and he is so widely known, that anything from his pen commands wide attention at once.

Delitzsch, Prof. Franz

Commentary on the Prophecies of Isaiah. †

Two volumes, crown 8vo, Cloth, $2.50 per volume.

Almost immediately before his death, Delitzsch issued it in a new edition. The title was changed; instead of a commentary on Isaiah, it read "A Commentary on the Book called Isaiah;" and this difference indicates both the direction and the limit of the alterations. They are connected exclusively with critical questions. He gives up the Isaiahic authorship of ch. xiii., xiv., xx., 1-10, xxiv.-xxvii., and, in an irresolute way, of ch. xl.-lxvi.

These alterations will be pronounced important or unimportant according to the point from which we view them. To Delitzsch himself they were comparatively insignificant. He tells us plainly that "in the Book of Isaiah the influence of criticism upon exegesis is as good as nil." In preparing his latest edition he acted upon this principle. He made no revision of the interpretation answering to the changes in his critical positions. Other scholars see in this the blot upon the last form of his work. Thus Professor A. B. Davidson, of New College, Edinburgh, finds the new book disappointing. "The author," he writes, "hardly seems to perceive the scope of his concessions, and has left his interpretation of the later chapters of Isaiah virtually unchanged, thereby, as we can but think, taking up positions which it is impossible to reconcile with one another." However this may be, the work, as here presented from the third edition, has the merit of consistency.

A Commentary on the Book of Psalms. †

From Latest Edition, Specially Revised and Corrected by the Author. Translated by the REV. DAVID EATON, M.A. In 3 volumes. Crown 8vo, 1,533 pp., Cloth, $2.00 per volume.

The Guardian says: "Of Prof. Delitzsch's new edition it may be fairly said that it is the most complete and trustworthy Commentary on the Psalms which exists. It is the care which this veteran scholar uniformly bestows upon his successive editions that gives them their peculiar excellence."

A Day in Capernaum.

Translated from the Third German Edition by REV. GEORGE H. SCHODDE, PH.D., Professor in Capital University, Columbus, O. 12mo, 166 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

The Description of the localities as they now appear is based, although not exclusively, on the works of Robinson; their reproduction in their older form is based on the notices scattered in Josephus, the Talmud, and the Midrashim, for which the author was not restricted to those already collected by Reland, Lightfoot, Schwarz, and Neubauer. The illustrations of the times and of the life of the people are in nowise the work of fiction; they are throughout drawn from the oldest Jewish literature.

Dickinson, Ellen E.

New Light on Mormonism.

A Brief and Succinct History of this Stupendous Delusion. With Introduction by the Late THURLOW WEED. 12mo, 270 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The book contains much original matter, the publication and presentation of which appear to me to be highly important. Mrs. Dickinson is a relative of Solomon Spaulding, from whose stolen manuscript "The Book of Mormon" was constructed. She has availed herself of family papers and other sources of information not heretofore used in histories of Mormonism, and produced a narrative of fascinating interest and great historical value. The facts she narrates cut up by the roots both the Josephite and Mormonite form of the "Latter-day Saints." It discusses one of the most burning topics in American current reform. It will aid essentially in eradicating a giant mischief and delusion.—Joseph Cook.

We commend this book.—The Churchman, New York.

We believe this book will do something toward destroying this gigantic evil.—The Standard, Cincinnati.

Can be read with profit by all who are interested in the facts about Mormonism.—The Critic, New York.

Presents in a compact form the history of its origin and development in the light of important facts hitherto unpublished.—Boston Herald.

It is a succinct history of this most wonderful social, political, and religious development of modern times, from its inception to the present time. One of its marked features is the particular and trustworthy account of its origin and early history, never before so accurately given. Another is the interviews had with some of the chief actors concerned in the fraudulent obtaining of Spaulding's MS. from which Joe Smith made the Mormon Bible. These interviews are intensely interesting, and serve to illustrate the spirit of Mormonism in a most vivid light. The author's brief, graphic history does in truth fling "New Light" on this cunningly devised and stupendous system of deception, fraud, and iniquity, which, in the full glare of the nineteenth century, and in spite of all that legal enactment and Christian protest and influence have done, has firmly intrenched itself in our land, and is gathering proselytes by the thousand from every part of the civilized world, and is spreading its blighting influence into several States and Territories of the Union. The book will be sure to attract many readers and deepen the disgust and horror already existing in the public mind in respect to Mormonism.—Western Christian Advocate, Cincinnati.

English Hymns; Their Authors and History.

Large 8vo, 683 pp., Cloth, $3.00 net.

This work cites in alphabetical order the first lines of over 1,500 Hymns. Under each is given a brief biographical sketch of the author, circumstances attending its composition, and incidents in connection with its use. Exhaustive indexes to authors, to first lines, and to topics, are appended. To Leaders of Praise-Meetings, Sunday-school Teachers, Parents, Pastors, and the general hymn-loving public, it will be found invaluable. The selection of hymns has been made with great care, and only well-authenticated incidents are given.

A noble volume, a monument to the author's taste, learning, and faithful industry.—E. C. Stedman.

The Aim of This Encyclopedia—What It Is.

This Encyclopedia aims to give, on all the broad range of social reforms the experiences of the past, the facts of the present, and the proposals for the future. It puts side by side, in authoritative statements, the views and theories and utterances of all the schools of economic or social thought. It gives lengthy quotations or direct articles on each reform, from the representative of the reform in question, and then either an analysis of this or a statement of the opposing view. On questions of economic theory it gives quotations from representatives of all the economic schools. On questions of fact it gives careful statements prepared from the best authorities. Articles concerning writers and workers for social reform living in this country, and, so far as possible, those concerning living foreign workers and writers, have been referred to the persons themselves, to avoid all possibility of misrepresentation, while in the case of foreign writers where this has not been possible, the information has been obtained from the most reliable sources. A general bibliography of social and economic bibliographies is also given. The general aim of the whole work has been to be scientific and exact, but not academic. On every subject recourse has been made to the best authorities, so that each statement may be relied upon as authoritative and accurate.

Every effort to what is further on must be based upon a ground-work of ascertained conditions. A volume that gives these conditions renders an invaluable service.—Charles H. Parkhurst, D.D.

It will stand in years to come as an epitome of the social and economic conditions and the state of human progress in the last decade of the nineteenth century.—The Review of Reviews.

Extremely serviceable. This work is a necessity in any well-appointed library.—The New York Times.

Over 7,500 Classified and Discriminated Synonyms with nearly 4,000 Antonyms. The Correct use of Prepositions is indicated by illustrative examples. Practical Helps and Hints on the Correct and Accurate use of Words. 12mo, Cloth, 574 pp., Substantial Binding. Price, $1.50 net.

"Synonyms, Antonyms, and Prepositions," by Mr. Fernald, is a remarkable book. For years I have used Crabb's Synonyms, but here is a book much more valuable. Here is a text-book for every man who would aim to be a master of English.—Bishop John H. Vincent, D.D., Chancellor of Chautauqua.

It should at once supplant both in the schoolroom and in the student's library all other works of the kind. I am familiar with the various treatises on synonyms from Whately's down. I shall keep Fernald's by me for ready and convenient reference.—Geo. C. Chase, Bates College.

The book possesses intrinsic value and will be found useful.—Francis L. Patton, D.D., LL.D., President of Princeton University, N. J.

It belongs among the literary workman's tools, and bids fair to combine the best features of Crabb and Roget.—Literary World, Boston.

It is the best book of its class that I have seen, and will be equally valuable for private study and reference, and for class use in schools and academies.—W. J. Rolfe, M.A., D.L., the Shakespearian Critic.

It is a most excellent book of its kind, and will be of value to the young student, and to the non-professional writer.—Edmund C. Stedman, the Poet.

For clearness, precision, discrimination, and comprehension I do not hesitate to commend "English Synonyms and Antonyms" as superior to anything of the kind within my knowledge.—Herrick Johnson, D.D., McCormick Theological Seminary.

To all students, whether still attending school or mature scholars, this book will prove valuable. The more synonyms and antonyms we know the more flexible our vocabulary will be, and the larger our vocabulary is the more alert and active our minds are sure to be. —The New York Herald.

President Cochran, of the Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn, says: "I do not hesitate to say that there is no book yet offered. . . . which is its equal in imparting a mastery of words. The differences in meaning which are so evident and yet so illusive as to make it very difficult to express in words, Mr. Fernald has succeeded in making with wonderful ability. The discriminations are acute, exact, and expressed in a manner intelligible to the ordinary students in our high schools and colleges. . . . This book will do more to secure rhetorical perspicuity — propriety and precision of expression — than any other text-book of higher English yet produced."

The Economics of Prohibition.

A book for the people, written in a bright, popular style. Full of illustrations, making its arguments plain to any one who can read the English language. It gives the most recent facts and applies them to the latest phases of the great problem. 12mo, Cloth, 515 pp., with an Index of nearly 800 Topical References, $1.50.

This is the best book on Temperance that we have seen. It is unanswerable. In any one wants to aid Prohibition financially, he had better extend the circulation of this book. We go further and say that its temper is good. We have not only to do a great work, but we are to do it in just the right way and with just the right spirit. At this point Prohibitionists sometimes fail. Without hesitation or reserve, we commend the positions taken in this volume — they are true.—The Morning Star, Boston.

The New Womanhood.

A searching study of the best phase of the "Woman Question." Introduction by MARION HARLAND. 12mo, 369 pp., Cloth, $1.25.

Woman as the home-maker is the pivotal idea of the work, and self-control and self-help its mainspring and its inspiration.

We are not acquainted with any book that even approaches this as an outline for girls and women of their true glory and work. If every girl in the land would read it and would take its wise and inspiring truths prayerfully to her heart, we would soon have a vastly better and happier nation. Every page is crowded with good things.—The Golden Rule, Boston.

Final Science; or, Spiritual Materialism.

Being a Strict Application of the Most Approved Modern Scientific Principles to the Solution of the Deepest Problems of the Age. 12mo, 194 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

Agnosticism receives a deadly thrust at the hands of this distinguished writer, who prefers to withhold his name. He writes as a materialist of the most advanced school, and the purpose and scope of the book are to reconcile the established facts of science to his theory of Atheistic Evolution as "The Final Science." He utterly fails in the attempt, but clings to his scientific theory. The lesson is obvious. There is great skill and marked ability displayed.

Without yielding his apparent confidence in his theory, he runs himself at every point into the ground. The satire is well and ably managed.—Zion's Herald, Boston, Mass.

Forbes, Archibald

Chinese Gordon.

A Succinct Record of his Life. 12mo, 172 pp.: Paper, 15 cents; Cloth, 75 cents. (S. Lib., 116.)

The Life of General Gordon is without a parallel in history. He had a will as imperious as Napoleon's; he had a nature as inflexible as Cromwell's; he had Clive's genius for war and fertility of resource; he had Jan Lawrence's capacity for governing semi-civilized races; he had Francis Xavier's overmastering love of humanity.—The Tribune, New York.

Mr. Forbes knows his hero well. . . . The book is exceedingly interesting.—Journal of Commerce, New York.

Frances, Mary

Daddy Dave.

A Charming Story of Southern Home Life. 12mo, 116 pp., Paper, 25 cents.

Apart from the character of Daddy, which is drawn with consummate art, and his lingo, which is genuine negro speech, the description in certain scenes, both in point of pathos and humor, are above the average of the general tale writer.—Sunday States, Louisiana.

French, Prof. C. W.

Abraham Lincoln, the Emancipator.

Vol. V. of "American Reformers" Series. 12mo, 398 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

This book deals with the man rather than with the statesman and the President, and seats us in cosy chat at the fireside, while the subject of its pages seems to tell his own story. Hence this life is unique.

This biography of Abraham Lincoln subordinates all environing conditions to their proper functions of presenting the personality of the subject in its true light, but also furnishes one of the most interesting ideals of the true American manhood.—The Southern Star, Atlanta.

Mr. French's enthusiasm is impressively genuine, his judgments of men and events, notably wise and even-tempered. Nor is any fault to be found with him concerning matters of fact; and author and reader will do well to remember that plain truth about Abraham Lincoln has the charm of romance, and almost the uplift of revelation. — Times, Boston.

Grimke, A. H.

Wm. Lloyd Garrison: The Abolitionist.

Vol. VII. of "American Reformers" Series. With Portrait. 12mo, 406 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

The career of the great apostle of immediate and unconditional emancipation is here traced by a competent and distinguished son of the race he gave his life to free. In this book the tumultuous story of the Anti-slavery reform is traced from beginning to end.

The story is thrilling, and serves to remind us that the "higher education" needed to elevate a people and wean them from ignoble pursuits is to be found in the study of such noble examples of manhood as is afforded by the life of Garrison.—Journal, Indianapolis, Ind.

The author has addressed himself to the work with admirable intelligence and sympathy, and the result is a volume which will be welcomed in the home library, and to circulating and Sunday-school libraries.—The Chicago Evening Herald.

Charles Sumner: The Scholar in Politics.

Vol. VIII. of "American Reformers" Series. With Portrait. 12mo, 415 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

An excellent portrait of an always interesting statesman.—Brooklyn Times.

The book is well calculated to fire the spirit of patriotism in the youth of our country by holding up for their study an American, who, recognizing the evil of his times, became through the exercise of lofty principle, by his self-abnegation and inflexible purpose, largely instrumental in overthrowing it.—Boston Times.

Our Christmas in a Palace.

A Traveller's Story. 12mo, 268 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 103.)

Edward Everett Hale has written nothing better in the way of a story of late years than "Christmas in a Palace." . . . There is no need of our commending the book. Its bare announcement will secure for it a multitude of readers.—The Transcript, Boston.

The Fortunes of Rachel.

12mo, 221 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 115.)

A purely American story, original all through. Rachel is one of the pleasantest and most satisfactory of heroines. She is a girl of the soil, unspoiled by foreign travel and conventionalities. After surfeiting on romances whose scenes are laid abroad, it is delightful to come across a healthy home product like this.—The Journal of Commerce, New York.

Halliday, Rev. S. B., and D. S. Gregory, D.D., LL.D.

The Church in America and Its Baptisms of Fire.

A General Bird's-eye View of the Religious Progress of the Last Two Centuries in This Country, Including an Account of the Principal Religious Bodies; of the Great Eras of Revivals and of the Leading Revivalist, etc. The very best Hand-book on Revival Preaching, Revival Methods, and Methods of Effective Christian Work. Illustrated with 40 Excellent Portraits. Octavo, Cloth, 774 pages, Large Type, $5.00.

PART FIRST includes "The Baptisms of Fire" in the American church, or the Story of the Religious Awakenings in the 18th and 19th Centuries.

PART SECOND includes the Growth and Work of the Various Religious Bodies.

The Methods of Work of the Various Religious Revivalists, the Work of great Lay Organizations, and other auxiliaries, are comprehensively presented and described.

Its pages are liberally supplied with full-face side reference notes, and a full table of contents, such as to facilitate ready reference.

This book is a perfect treasury of vitally important facts in the history of evangelical religion in this country, and enlivened by intensely interesting incidents. To every young minister, it is a book of immense value for its facts, and is full of soul-kindling inspirations. If I were a millionaire, I would send a copy to every minister, and it would be a seed of fire to kindle Christian activities. It ought to have a vast circulation. — *Theodore L. Outlines of the History of Dogma.

By Dr. ADOLPH HARNACK, Professor of Church History in the University of Berlin. Translated by EDWIN KNOX MITCHELL, M.A., Professor of Græco-Roman and Oriental Church History in Hartford Theological Seminary. 8vo, Cloth, 567 pp.; Large Type, Marginal Notes, etc.; $2.50.

CONTENTS.—(PROLEGOMENA.—35 pp.)

PART I.—THE RISE OF ECCLESIASTICAL DOGMA.
Book I. The Preparation.
Book II. The Laying of the Foundation.
Section I. Establishment of Christianity as a Church, and its Gradual Secularization.
Section II. Establishment of Christianity as Doctrine, and its Gradual Secularization.

PART II.—THE DEVELOPMENT OF ECCLESIASTICAL DOGMA.
Book I. History of the development of Dogma as Doctrine of the God-Man upon the Basis of Natural Theology.
A. The Presupposition of the Doctrine of Salvation, or Natural Theology.
B. The Doctrine of Redemption through the Person of the God-Man in its Historical Development.
C. The Temporal Enjoyment of Redemption.
Book II. Expansion and Recasting of the Dogma into a Doctrine Concerning Sin, Grace and the Means of Grace upon the Basis of the Church.
Book III. The Threefold Issuing of the History of Dogma.

Prof. Mitchell's translation of Harnack's "History of Dogma" is sure to command attention. Harnack is the fourth and ablest successor of Neander in the University of Berlin, an inspiring teacher and easily the first living Church historian of Germany.—Philip Schaff, D.D., LL.D.

Hawthorne, Julian

Archibald Malmaison.

12mo, 128 pp.: Paper, 15 cents; Cloth, 75 cents. (S. Lib.,'112.)

It must be admitted that upon the shoulders of Julian Hawthorne has descended, in no small degree, the mantle of his more illustrious father. The climax of this story is so terrible, and so dramatic in its intensity, that it is impossible to class it with any situation of modern fiction.—The London Times.

The Trial of Gideon

And the Countess Almara's Murder. Two Novels. In One Volume. 12mo, 96 pp.: Paper, 15 cents; Cloth, 75 cents. (S. Lib., 140.)

Prince Saroni's Wife

And the Pearl-Shell Necklace. Two Novels. Bound in One Volume. 12mo, 117 pp.: Paper, 15 cents; Cloth, 75 cents. (S. Lib., 129.)

Mr. Julian Hawthorne has written many things that are remarkable, either in conception or execution, but nothing that surpasses "Prince Saroni's Wife" and "The Pearl-Shell Necklace." The character of Agatha is as perfect as the character of any of Shakespeare's women, and the supernatural laugh which haunts the ruins of the old mill-wheel is beyond anything of the kind that we remember. Mr. Hawthorne is a man of genius.—R. H. Stoddard in "The Mail and Express," New York.

It is a book to be read by everybody who loves literary variety, containing much that is witty, humorous, satirical, comical, as well as serious, ethical, religious, and poetical.—Christian Leader, Cincinnati.

Home talent is given an opportunity to score a hit before the most exacting audiences.—Ram's Horn.

These are choice specimens of the finest pieces of oratory the world has ever heard. A fine index places the contents of this casket of cut diamonds at the easy command of any public speaker.—Christian Guide, Louisville, Ky.

Henry, Matthew

Commentary on the Bible.

Six Volumes. Royal Octavo, 4,310 pp. Bound in Fine English Cloth. 100 Illustrations. Per set (6 vols.), $18.00.

Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments.—New York Observer.

First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—Matthew Henry. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trustworthy.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

It has now lasted more than one hundred and forty years, and is at this moment more popular than ever, gaining strength as it rolls down the stream of time.—James Hamilton, D.D.

TABLE OF CHARTS.

The Time of the Southing of the Stars.—The Time of the Rising of the Stars.—The Zodiac (12 charts).

I have examined "The Stars and Constellations," and think its scheme a very good one. I know of no chart better calculated to teach the young observer the names and places of the principal stars. I heartily recommend it.—Professor S. P. Langley, Director of the Allegheny Observatory, Allegheny, Pa.

Hints on Early Education

And Nursery Discipline. 12mo, 96 pp., Cloth, 60 cents.

A better book has seldom been published than this. . . . It should be compulsory upon every young mother in the land to study this book. . . . We cannot speak too strongly in praise. . . . If we should quote from it, we should begin at the beginning and give every word entire to the end.—Chicago Journal.

Hinton, Richard J.

John Brown and His Men.

Volume XII. of "American Reformers" Series. With 22 Portraits. 12mo, 752 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

The volume contains considerable matter never before published, is full of fascinating reading, and is of inestimable historic value.—The Commercial Gazette, Cincinnati.

Holland, Frederic May

Frederick Douglass: The Colored Orator.

Vol. IV. of "American Reformers" Series. With Portrait. 12mo, 428 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

The career of Mr. Douglass out-novels any novel. The slave who was the accredited representative of the Great Republic at Hayti, has run the gamut of human experience.

The book is extremely and strangely interesting. With it once in hand, one will continue for hours when he ought to be sleeping.—Golden Rule, Boston.

A charming volume. . . . Issues of national import are here discussed incident to Mr. Douglass' personnel, which are far reaching and whose trend will be part of the twentieth century interests for the world.—Post-Express, Rochester,

Poems.

A Charming Volume of Poetry. Beautifully Illustrated by W. HAMILTON GIBSON and other Artists. Bound in Colors. Companion Volume to "Sweet Cicely." Square 12mo, 216 pp., Cloth, $2.00.

Will win for her a title to an honorable place among American poets.—Chicago Standard.
Miss Holley has here more than sustained her previous high literary reputation.—Interior, Chicago.

Samantha Among the Brethren.

By "JOSIAH ALLEN'S WIFE." Illustrated. Square 12mo, 452 pp. Cloth, $2.50.

It is irresistibly humorous and true.—Bishop John P. Newman.
It is as full of meat as an egg. . . . Calculated to do immense good in that department of woman's rights which relates to her participation in the great work of the Church of Christ, beyond the scrubbing and papering of the meeting-house.—Ex-Judge Noah Davis.
It abounds in mingled humor, pathos, and inexorable common sense.—Will Carleton.
It is exceedingly entertaining.—New York Observer.

Samantha at the World's Fair.

Octavo, 700 Pages; over 100 Illustrations by Baron De Grimm. Price, by Mail or Agent, Cloth, Elegantly Bound and Stamped with Designs, etc., in Gold and Silver, $2.50; Half Russia, Gilt Edges, $4.00. Sold only by subscription.

Full of human nature and exceedingly droll.—Boston Times.
A welcome visitor to thousands of homes.—Cleveland Plaindealer.
The book is excellent.—The Religious Telescope.
This is indeed a book able to remove the traces of care from the sad countenance and illumine it with the broadest of healthy smiles.—Detroit Journal.

Sweet Cicely;

Or Josiah Allen as a Politician. A Fascinating Story. Square 12mo, 390 pp. Over 100 Illustrations. Cloth, $2.00.

The interest of the book is intense. . . . It would be impossible to find in literature anything more pitiful than this story of the struggle of a gentle-natured woman against the dangers which surround her child and her agony as she realizes her helplessness to avert evil from her fellow-sufferers. . . . Alongside of the fun are genuine eloquence and profound pathos; we scarcely know which is the more delightful.—The Literary World, London, Eng.

Samantha in Europe.

Octavo, 727 pp. 125 Illustrations by Baron C. De Grimm. Price by Mail or Agent, Cloth, Elegantly Bound, and Stamped with Designs, etc., in Gold and Silver, Black and Green, $2.50; Half Russia, Gilt Edges, $4.00. Sold by Subscription.

This book is the best book of travels since Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad."—The Boston Times.

. . . It must not be supposed that the book has no aim but to amuse people during a few hours of pastime. It has good ideas on politics, religion, sociology, and, in fact, all the questions that are of interest to-day. . . . Smiles and tears come from the same sentence, and it is so skilfully written that a proper equilibrium is maintained.—Christian Guide, Louisville.
There is not a dull page in the book, and it is a veritable treat for a reviewer to turn to such a book after having had to do with many that are being offered to the public.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Holy-Days and Holidays.

A New, Great Storehouse of Suggestive Thoughts, Facts, Illustrations for Sermons and Other Addresses on all Fixed Religious and Secular Anniversary Occasions. Octavo, Cloth, —— pp., $5.00. (In Press.)

SOME OF THE DAYS THAT ARE INCLUDED:

Advent Sunday; Christmas; Epiphany; Sundays in Lent; Palm Sunday; Good Friday; Easter; Ascension Day; Trinity Sunday; Pentecost, or Whitsunday; Reformation Sunday; Fast Day; Thanksgiving; New Year; Lincoln's Birtnday; Washington's Birthday; Arbor Day; Decoration Day; Liberty Day; Flag-Raising Day; Fourth of July; Emancipation Day; Labor Day; Forefather's Day. In Canada: Queen's Birthday; Dominion Day.

THE PLAN OF THE BOOK.

Under each anniversary day will be grouped:

1. The most celebrated sermons or other addresses appropriate to the Day; several of these in full, many others in brief.

2. The subjects of all suggestive sermons and addresses appropriate to the Day; this we shall be able to obtain in the great libraries of New York, London, and elsewhere, also in each case a thought or more indicative of the treatment of the subject or text.

3. A world of appropriate quotations, illustrations, incidents, facts, statistics, etc.

In short, the aim is to make the book an Anniversary Day Cyclopedia of the relating literature and thought. Nothing of this kind, as far as the publishers can learn, has ever heretofore been published.

It must prove a most welcome book to preachers, one that will save them much time and thought in the gathering of materials for discourses, the drudgery work of the pulpit and platform. In its sphere it will do what the woodchoppers, the saw-mill hands, the quarrymen, and the hardware-makers do for the architect, who plans a palace or cathedral. It gathers the materials ready to the hands of the architect of sermons and addresses. It brings together the raw materials: he must be the master builder.

Homiletic Monthly, The

Subscribers' copies for six months (January–June or July–December) bound for 90 cents, return carriage prepaid. Covers for respective volumes, suitable for regular binding, 50 cents.

It is constantly the effort to keep this noted religious review abreast, not only of current theological thought, but also of the discussion of social problems which in so marked a degree characterizes the present age. Articles from the pens of the most eminent writers in the theological and scientific world are constantly appearing in its Review Section. The matter found in its Miscellaneous, Sermonic, Exegetical and Expository, the Prayer-meeting Service, and other Sections will be found eminently useful by all pastors.

A first-class help to ministers; the best published.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The life of General Fisk has been one of intense interest, intimately connected, as it has been, with many of the most stirring events of our history. A brave, determined, ambitious boyhood, an honest, patriotic, Christian manhood, such has been General Fisk's life as told in his biography by Prof. Hopkins.

Hoppin, James M.

Homiletics.

By JAMES M. HOPPIN, D.D., Professor of Homiletics in Yale College. New Edition. 8vo, 845 pp., Cloth, $3.00.

CONTENTS.

Literature of Homiletics.	Preparation for a Sermon.	Rhetoric as Applied to Preaching.
History of Preaching.	Analysis of a Sermon.	Invention.
Object of Preaching.	Classification of Sermons.	Style.

Dr. Hoppin was a pupil of the celebrated Neander, and has studied theology at Andover and Berlin. His style is copious without being verbose. It is graceful, pure, and finished, yet free enough to permit him to interject his opinions now and then with refreshing abruptness. Every kind of sermon is described and analyzed. The principles of composition and rhetoric, as applied to the sermons, are laid down and illustrated. —The Independent, New York.

Illustrated with seven full-page photogravures in tints; text illustrations by F. A. CARTER. 12mo, 349 pp., with map; Cloth, elegantly bound, $1.50.

The story of the great Queen is told in a clear and interesting style, the illustrations are of genuine artistic merit, and the handsome volume is worthy of a place in any library.—The Morning Star, Boston.

Hoyt, J. K.

The New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations.

Thirty thousand choice quotations covering a broad field of subjects, with eighty-six thousand lines of concordance accompanied by an appendix containing proverbs from the Latin, French, and German, each invariably followed by its English translation. Also a full list of Latin law terms and their translations. Complete lists and descriptive data of all the authors quoted, and complete indexes of topics and words. Handsome cover design by George Wharton Edwards; 8vo., 1205 pages. Net prices: Buckram, $6; Law Sheep, $8; Half Morocco, $10; Full Morocco, $12. Thumbhole index 75 cts. extra.

The original work has for fourteen years met with unparalleled approval. The present Cyclopedia is almost a new book throughout, being thoroughly revised, enlarged, remodeled, and reset. Compared with the old edition, it contains 13,000 more quotations, 36,000 more lines of concordance, besides other valuable features too numerous to mention here.

Special attention has been paid to its thoroughness and accuracy. It is confidently believed that every familiar phrase and sentence that has currency in the English language will be found among its 30,000 quotations.

I can see that "The New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations" would have great value and usefulness to many persons.—Ex-President Benjamin Harrison.

"The New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations" is a work which will commend itself to all scholars. No library will be complete without it.—General Horace Porter.

"The New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations" is evidently a greatly improved and enlarged edition of the old Encyclopedia of the same name, which I have always found the most complete and useful book of the kind ever published.—Hon. Joseph H. Choate.

I am sure that I shall find "The New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations" of great value. It has been prepared with very great care, and it is very complete.—Pres. Francis L. Patton (Princeton University).

The work, always indispensable to the scholar and the author, appears to me to be incapable of further improvement.—Hon. Abram S. Hewitt.

As an aid to the scholar and as a book of reference it is of rare value.—Judge Albert Haight (Court of Appeals, State of New York).

I am surprised and gratified that it has been so much improved and enlarged.—Gen. Stewart L. Woodford.

The claim of the work to a novelty in the abundance of its matter and to be arranged on a new principle is well founded. I hope the book will meet with the measure of success which the care bestowed on it deserves.—Prof. Goldwin Smith, Toronto.

By long odds the best book of quotations in existence.—New York Herald.

Johnson, Franklin

The New Psychic Studies.

In Their Relations to Christian Thought. 12mo, 91 pp., 75 cents.

What are called Psychic studies now engage the attention of many distinguished minds — some in this country, and more in England. These stories relate to what is commonly known as thought-transference, somnambulism, mesmerism, clairvoyance, spiritualism, apparation of the living, haunted houses, ghosts, and Buddhistic occultism. Many of the phenomena which these scientists are investigating lie in the dim borderland between the spirit and the body. The researches, here carefully noted, have been chiefly carried on under the direction of the British "Society of Psychical Research." In this small volume is presented a great mass of interesting facts, which are made the basis of some important theories and conclusions worth the careful study of the believers in Christianity, as well as of skeptics.

Wall Street in History.

By MARTHA J. LAMB, author of "History of New York," editor of "Magazine of American History." One Volume, Small 4to, Copiously Illustrated, giving the History of this Street from Colonial Times to 1883. Gold Stamped, 4to, 95 pp., $2.00.

CONTENTS.

I. Original Site. Gradual Development, 1647–1774.
II. Revolution. Political, Social Importance, 1774–1830.
III. The Great Money Center, 1830–1883.

This book gives in concise, popular, and authentic form the most notable events which from colonial times have made this locality famous. Its primitive, picturesque, political, social, and monetary aspects are comprehensively and rapidly surveyed. The volume is very handsomely bound, and the illustrations, with the maps and prints, are abundant. The fact that it is written by Mrs. Martha J. Lamb is a guaranty of its historical worth.—The Christian Advocate, New York.

The Jewish Altar.

12mo, 127 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

This little book contains a great deal in the way of sensible comment on the types of the Old Testament. A careful reading of it will do something to cure any tendency to extravagant allegorizing. The author has grasped well the thought that the Bible develops a system of truth.—Apostolic Guide, Cincinnati.

A Hundred Years of Missions.

Or, The History of Missions Since Carey. 12mo, 432 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

There is no single volume in existence which at all covers the ground as does this one. Others are full of dates and names and very dry, good only for reference, or are over-scholarly and intensely German in style. ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF MISSIONS tells enough about all important and characteristic things concerning missions in the four quarters of the world to be interesting and to meet the wants of the multitude of readers.

CONTENTS.

The Christian Life of Missions. Missions in the Early Centuries. Conversion of Northern and Western Europe. The Non-Missionary Centuries. Reformation a Discovery of America. Roman Catholic Missions. Preparation for Modern Missions. Protestant Missions Before Carey. The Carey Epoch in Missions. The Great Missionary Revival. Genesis of Missions in America. The Phenomena of American Expansion. Missions in India. Missions in Africa, Madagascar. The Islands of the Sea. The Turkish Empire, Persia. The Chinese Empire. Korea. Missions in Japan. Missions in Spanish America. Missions Among the American Indians. Land Which Remains to be Possessed.

Biblical Lights and Side-Lights;

Or, Ten Thousand Biblical Illustrations, with Thirty Thousand Cross-References, consisting of Facts, Incidents, and Remarkable Statements for the use of Public Speakers and Teachers; and also for those in every Profession who for Illustrative Purposes desire ready access to the Numerous and Interesting Narratives contained in the Bible. 8vo, 638 pp.: Cloth, $4.00; Sheep, $5.50 net.

Other books are designed to illustrate the Bible. This reverses the order, and furnishes illustrations from the Bible for every purpose. It meets a want which the concordance cannot supply, because the latter is limited in its references to the words in which the Bible is printed.

This work takes topics, such as "ambition," "amusement," and draws from the Bible illustrations and reference applicable to such topics. It is very comprehensive, and is valuable as an aid to centralizing thought.—The Christian Intelligencer, New York.

Cyclopedia of Classified Dates.

It furnishes a complete, accurate, orderly, and readily accessible reference record of the history of every country and every people during nearly seventy centuries, including every important event in every department of human interest. It is at once a Gazetteer, a Dictionary of Names, and a complete Chronology of Literature, the Arts and Sciences, Theology, Politics, etc. This broad survey is untrammeled by racial, religious, or political prejudices, the prime aims having been accuracy and thoroughness. 8vo, 1,400 pp.: Cloth, $10.00; Sheep, $12.50; Half Morocco, $15.00; Full Morocco, $18.00.

CONTENTS ARRANGED UNDER FOLLOWING DEPARTMENTS.

ARMY AND NAVY. Including records of the development of military and naval equipment, organization, tactics, principles, etc. Giving all the great conflicts on land and sea since the earliest battles. The Civil War in the United States is treated with great fulness, 700 actions being recorded, with date, locality, results, etc. The cyclopedia forms a complete war history.

THE STATE. Under this department will be found those events which are intimately connected with the history of government and legislation, such as: The rise and fall of monarchies; the establishment of republican government; the American Congresses, with important votes taken; rise and fall of political parties, with data forming a political history of every country.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS. This classification includes nearly 10,000 names of important persons of all times and places. A brief description indicating profession, office, or position of the person referred to accompanies each name.

ART, SCIENCE, NATURE. It is a most valuable cyclopedia of the arts and sciences, and of the important phenomena of nature. Thus it includes notable events in invention, discovery, drama, music, painting, architecture, etc.; besides giving important and interesting occurrences in nature, such as great storms, astronomical events, floods, earthquakes, sunspots, etc.

SOCIETY. The social conditions, movements, and industries of the various peoples of the world are outlined in a valuable record of progress from the serf to the citizen. It includes records of the establishment and abolition of slavery, temperance and prohibition movements, labor laws, strikes, riots, labor organizations, benevolent and philanthropic schemes, etc.

THE CHURCH. It forms a valuable history of the Church from its earliest conception, and of the religions which preceded the Christian religion. This department includes, among other features, the rise of Church organizations, pioneer churches, dioceses, archdioceses, synods, assemblies, conventions, heresy trials, mission enterprises, religious societies, etc.

LITERATURE, EDUCATION. A complete chronology of literature and education is afforded. Among the important topics included in these records are: The appearance of the first publications; yearly issue of books; notable incidents in the world of literature; first schools and colleges; educational bequests; graduation of eminent men; college presidents; educational laws, etc.

MISCELLANEOUS. In this section are included general topics which would not naturally be looked for under the other classifications, such as railway openings and construction, epidemic diseases, census returns, accidents, etc.

EVERY FACILITY FOR QUICK REFERENCE. The reference facilities are complete and simple. Few cross-references are necessary. A very full index, together with full-face text titles and dates, furnishes abundant reference helps.

Historical Lights;

Or, Six Thousand Historical Extracts, Illustrating Thirty Thousand Topics. Especially arranged for Ministers, Lecturers, Public Speakers, Writers for the Press, Lawyers, and all who have Occasion to use Illustrations drawn from Historical Literature. Compiled by Rev. CHARLES E. LITTLE, author of "Biblical Lights and Side-Lights." 8vo, 964 pp.: Cloth, $5.00; Sheep, $6.50 net.

These lights are a galaxy of quotations taken exclusively from standard histories and biographies. All are arranged in alphabetical order under suitable topics, and each, complete in itself, refers the reader to the author and chapter quoted. They consist of facts, incidents, examples, and precedents selected for illustrative purposes, and chiefly from the histories of the civilized races of antiquity and the American and English people. The subjects relate to religious, social, and political life—to moral and civil government. The book has a general cross-reference index, also an index of personal names. The book is unique in design and admirable for convenience and utility. The historian's name is appended to every quotation. There are no fugitive anecdotes in the work.

I read it with profit and delight. It will be of great service to all public speakers who know how to add illustrations to arguments. There are admirable materials in it for the feathers of a million arrows.—Joseph Cook.

Such a wealth of material as this work contains makes it one of the most useful collections of information that I have ever seen. It is altogether the best historical reference book ever published. It is an intelligent collection of authorities such as a student might have made in the course of twenty years, if he had once a day found an item which he regarded as of value. The indices are particularly commendable, and the system of cross-reference is as useful as it is novel. It seems to me that the book will be essential for reference to every scholar and in every library.—Abram S. Hewitt.

John B. Gough: The Apostle of Cold Water.

Vol. XI. of "American Reformers" Series. Mr. MARTYN here does for Mr. Gough what he does for Mr. Phillips and Mr. Dodge—shows us the Man. The book is bright and interesting to a remarkable degree, with not one dull page, not a single sleepy sentence in it. With Portrait. 12mo, 336 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

Wendell Phillips: The Agitator.

Vol. I. of "American Reformers" Series. Mr. MARTYN, who knew the Great Orator personally, has given a Complete Analysis of his Services to Mankind, and of his style as a Speaker, together with an intensely interesting mass of Anecdotal and Illustrative Matter. In the Volume is included in full, in an Appendix, three of Mr. Phillips' Masterpieces of Eloquence, which have never before been issued in Book Form. With Portrait. 12mo, 600 pp., Cloth Binding, with Frontispiece, $1.50.

William E. Dodge: The Christian Merchant.

Vol. III. of "American Reformers" Series. Though a Prince of Trade, Wm. E. Dodge found time for a thousand interests outside of his Counting-room; and these, instead of interfering with his business, worked into and tempered it. Thus he was as Eminent as a Planter of Schools, Founder of Churches, Patron of Colleges, Helper of Men, and Patriot, as he was well known in Commerce. With Portrait. 12mo, 349 pages, Cloth, $1.50.

Mazzini, Joseph

The Destruction of Gotham.

12mo, 214 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 139.)

This is a most graphic story of the times, showing the conflict between the upper and lower strata of society in New York, ending in a great disaster to the city itself. It is an intensely interesting and powerful story. Joaquin Miller is a writer whose fame is world-wide.

To follow him is like following a keen, swift rider, who rides eagerly, it matters not whither, and who attracts us by a wild grace and beautiful skill as he rushes through scenes of luxuriant loveliness, that would cause a less impetuous horseman to pause and linger.—The London Globe.

Mills, Walter T.

The Science of Politics.

By WALTER THOMAS MILLS, Secretary of the National Inter-Collegiate Association. 12mo, 224 pp.: Paper, 50 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 152.)

This book is an attempt to discover the ways and means by which the common citizen may become an active and effective part of the government under which he lives. It formulates and discusses the underlying principles involved in every conceivable phase of practical politics. It is not a book of day dreams. It deals directly with those daily duties and privileges of worthy citizenship which are of the greatest practical importance. It is not a book of theories divorced from facts, demanding an ideal and impossible social condition for their use. It deals directly with the hard facts of our political history, and never loses sight of the necessary conditions under which men must act if they act together. Its foot-notes are extensive and valuable—establishing that the doctrines here taught are in line with the plain lessons of history and the teachings of great authors on civil government.

Broad in its outlook, hampered by no denominational or national lines, embracing all, it seeks to bind the Brotherhood of Christians together in the one great work of evangelizing the world. It has the cordial endorsement of the leading pastors of all denominations, and of the secretaries of missionary societies in all lands.

The "Missionary Review of the World" has its circulation both in America and England, and is the only complete current review of missionary operations and missionary problems in connection with all Protestant agencies all the world over.—The Rock, London.

The "Missionary Review" is the foremost of missionary magazines. Its articles are full of fire and force, and its editors are not only abreast, but ahead of the church in trumpet-calls to service. The articles of Dr. Pierson are alone worth the price of the magazine many times over. This Review is really in touch with the workers of the mission world, and to read it from month to month is almost equal to a trip around the world of Christian missions.—The Mission Field.

Critical and Exegetical, with a New Translation. New Edition, Unabridged, with Preface and Notes by JOHN HALL, D.D. 232 pp.: 2 vols., Paper, $1.00; 1 vol., Cloth, $1.50.

Thus far nothing has appeared for half a century on the Pentateuch so valuable as the present volume (on Exodus.) His style is lucid, animated, and often eloquent. His pages afford golden suggestions and key thoughts. . . . Some of the laws of interpretation are stated with so fresh and natural a clearness and force that they will permanently stand.—The Methodist Quarterly Review, New York.

A remarkable contribution to American literature.—Current Literature, New York.

Mr. Musick stands in the front rank of prominent American authors.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

This (Vol. 1) is the first of a series of American historical novels, and the library promises to be of exceeding great interest to all readers.—St. Louis Republic.

Imagination enters into the narrative, and reports conversations at courts, at convents, and on shipboard, but it plays no pranks with biography and history, and it takes no liberties with accepted facts. It makes on the mind no erroneous or extravagant impressions. Whatever characters or scenes are the creation of the author, they in no wise discredit the genuineness of the historical annals, which are presented with conscientious fidelity.—Home Journal, New York.

I shall endeavor to make it known where it will be appreciated. The task was a delicate one, and I sincerely congratulate the author on the manner in which he has approached it in both aspects.—Right Hon. William E. Gladstone.

The People's Bible.

Discourses upon Holy Scripture—Expository, Sermonic. Each Volume Complete in Itself. 8vo, Cloth, $1.50 per vol.

The People's Bible is not a commentary in the ordinary sense of the term; it is rather a pastoral exposition, seeking out and applying the spiritual meaning of the Scriptures. In addition to this there is much critical matter collected from the best authorities and made available for ordinary readers. In the People's Bible considerable space is occupied by "Handfuls of Purpose," supplying hints and suggestions upon many unfamiliar texts, which are profitable to preachers and teachers as starting-points for useful lessons. The characteristics of this great work are too well known already to call for repetition. Scholars of eminence and writers of ability have passed favorable judgment upon the work as its successive volumes have appeared. And what is equally pleasant to note, the rank and file of Christian readers are delighted with its freshness and piquancy, and the spiritual, practical element which characterizes its pages.

Dr. Parker's insight, grasp, and power of expression, are of the nature of the poetic gift.—Sunday-School Chronicle.

It (the People's Bible) possesses great homiletic value and strong attractions for home reading.—Western Christian Advocate.

Dr. Parker is the foremost preacher in Europe.—Joseph Cook, D.D.

Dr. Parker has begun a stupendous work in this "People's Bible;" but its accomplishment lies within the possibilities of his fertile mind, should life and health be spared. He condenses wonderfully, and throws a splendor of diction over all that he pours forth. He seems to say all that can be said upon a passage; at times he gives only an outline, and leaves the filling up to the thoughtful reader. One is struck with the singular ability and special originality of Dr. Parker. He is no repeater of old remarks, nor is he a superfluous commentator. He is a man of genius, and whenever he has anything to say he says it in his own striking manner. His track is his own, and the jewels which he lets fall in his progress are from his own caskets; this will give a permanent value to his works, when the productions of copyists will be forgotten.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

And How to Take Care of Him. A Series of Popular Talks on Social and Sanitary Science. By JOSEPH J. POPE, M.R.C.S., Staff-surgeon Army Royal Artillery; Lecturer on the Special Staff of National Health Society, London. 12mo, 160 pp.: Paper, 15 cents; Cloth, 75 cents. (S. Lib., 120.)

This series of talks on the art of preserving the health is marked by sterling common-sense and a mastery of sanitary science. Such subjects as diet, dress, ventilation, exercise, are handled in a manner at once pleasing and full of instruction that is vitally important. A wide circulation of this little book is bound to insure four things: better bodies, better dispositions, better minds, and give inspiration for a clear conscience.—The Interior, Chicago.

It deals in a clever manner with the communistic, socialistic, and anarchistic elements of the time and their final downfall in a great electoral struggle for intelligent American patriotism.

It is a prophecy and an admonition. An interesting statement of one of the problems of our political future.—Senator John J. Ingalls.

I have read it with a good deal of interest. If it interests others as it has me, it should have a large sale.—Senator C. R. Farwell.

MINOR PROPHETS.—By Rev. JAMES WOLFENDALE. 743 pp.

I have examined carefully this "Homiletic Commentary." As a result, I have no hesitation in recording my opinion that the work will be found very useful and helpful to preachers, and especially to those who feel at times severely the strain which the labor of preparation imposes week after week. I wish this work, and the series to which it belongs, all the success it deserves.—Very Rev. R. W. Forrest, Dean of Worcester.

We have critical and explanatory notes, homiletic suggestions, outlines of sermons, and a copious collection of illustrations and telling quotations from many authors. If a preacher cannot find something good to say with such volumes as this on his table, he must be dull indeed; not that he should copy from these pages, but he should be helped and stimulated to think for himself.—Rev. Donald Fraser, D.D.

These outlines are not mere dry suggestions, but are instinct and vivid with life and feeling. It is an invaluable repertory of all the best things.—Christian World.

We have on several occasions called attention to this Commentary, as the several volumes have been issued, and have strongly commended it to our readers, ministerial and lay.—The Record.

Nothing better adapted for usefulness has ever appeared. . . . For all preachers, exhorters, Bible-class leaders, and Sunday-school teachers.—The Baptist Messenger.

The Commentary deserves to rank high. Nothing on the same scale has ever been attempted before. Altogether we have formed a high estimate of this work. It is admirably adapted to serve as aids to preachers, and we cordially recommend it.—The Aberdeen Journal.

It would be useless to attempt giving extracts to show the rich, full varied thoughts, and the anecdotal illustrations. They are to be found everywhere throughout it. This commentary will, we expect, long remain one of the best, if not the best, work for homiletical purposes.—The Leeds Mercury.

It is a commentary much needed, and of great practical use. The suggestions which it contains will awaken thoughts in the preacher who wishes to prepare fresh sermons, and while they furnish him with new ideas, they will not unfrequently increase his confidence in his own ideas, as he will sometimes find them in this Commentary in forms in which he has not met them before.—The Watchman.

Pulpit Commentary, The

On the Old and New Testaments.

Fifty-one Royal Octavo Volumes, Durably Bound in Heavy Cloth, and Printed from Clear Type on Excellent Paper. Thoroughly Indexed. Price per Volume, $2.00.

A colossal work on the entire Bible, representing years of labor by the best scholars of the leading churches, and treating almost every phase of intelligently conservative religious thought. Its aim is to supply scholarly introductions to the sacred books; to divide the text of Scripture into paragraphs, and to supply each paragraph with such expositions as shall meet the wants of the student, and such homiletical suggestions as shall best assist the preparations of the preacher.

The expositions give textual criticism, revised translation where necessary, explanation, apologetics, reference to ancient customs, contemporary history, natural history, geographical research, science, and anything that tends to light up the text, and make it available for practical introduction. These are followed by a comprehensive sermon outline, embracing the salient points of the preceding critical and expository section, and by brief homilies from various contributors, designed to show different modes of treatment, and to bring into relief different aspects of the passages under consideration.

This great library was edited by the very Reverend H. D. M. Spence, D.D., Dean of Gloucester, and the Reverend Joseph S. Exell, Vicar of Dartmouth, together with several hundred eminent collaborators. Among these were: Dean Farrar, Canon Rawlinson, Dr. Spence, the eminent Dean of Gloucester, Dr. De Pressensé, Dr. D. Thomas, the famous homilist, Rev. Prof. W. G. Blaikie, D.D., Rt. Rev. Lord A. Hervey, D.D., Bishop of Bath and Wells, Rev. Canon Hutton, Rev. Prof. R. A. Redford, LL.B.

Charles H. Spurgeon said of the "Pulpit Commentary," shortly before his death (in Sword and Trowel): "As the Book of Numbers has never yet been fully expounded, we all the more heartily welcome this volume. If by any good word of ours we could increase the sale of this noble series of Commentaries, we should count the time and space to be most profitably employed. The publishers deserve to be supported abundantly in an enterprise so daringly planned and so admirably executed. Perhaps the best service we can render both to our readers and the publishers is to quote from the prospectus the following statement as to the design of these volumes upon which the best scholars of the age are employed. . . . We do not know where else the preacher could look for the same aid. . . . Preachers must have mistaken their calling altogether if they could not find it easy to think out a sermon after consulting the "Pulpit Commentary."

"The Commentary" is a model of careful exegesis, aided by an accurate knowledge of the language, manners and customs, and general history of the times.—Methodist Times.

The expositions are fresh and up-to-date, embodying the results of late researches and explorations in the field of scholarship.—Westminster Teacher.

It is unnecessary to speak in detail of the fulness and excellence of this exhaustive commentary, a library in itself, and which every clergyman's library ought to possess. . . . With this commentary in his library, the clergyman is almost free from the necessity of obtaining any other.—Clergyman's Magazine.

. . . The exposition is scholarly, without the slightest trace of pedantry, and is characterized not only, as was to be expected, by great historical knowledge, but by considerable freshness of treatment and spiritual insight.—Literary World.

The introductions are specially able and complete.—British Quarterly Review.

Among the multiplying exegetical and critical works having the same general character, this one has the specific merit and value of rendering assistance and fruitful suggestion to the preacher and teacher. . . . —Bishop F. D. Huntington, of the Diocese of Central New York.

A rapid glance gives me a very favorable impression of the critical work done; and I have been particularly pleased with the introductions, which I regard as the most important part of a good modern commentary. The questions in debate [in the Introductions], as presented, do not concern matters of interpretation, but problems of structure and general credibility. I have found the introductions sober, scholarly, fair, helpful, and quite up to date.—A. J. F. Behrends, D.D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

I prize very highly the "Pulpit Commentary" because of the easy and pleasant access which it gives to the fruits of the wide research and varied scholarship of its editors.—Charles H. Parkhurst, D.D., New York.

I have known the "Pulpit Commentary" from its first publication in England. It is worthy of the largest circulation, and will do good wherever it is read. It is eminently fitted for the use of pastors of churches. —Howard Osgood, D.D., Rochester Theological Sem.

The volumes of this commentary complete an immense work; they are the ripe fruit of leading scholars and homilists. This commentary will be one of the greatest achievements of sanctified learning in the closing years of the nineteenth century. They admirably combine exegetical skill and homiletical application. In publishing this commentary the Funk & Wagnalls Company make the pulpit of America their debtor, and especially as they offer it at a price so much lower than that at which it is sold in England. One is filled with admiration at the wealth of sermonic material furnished in these remarkable volumes.—R. S. MacArthur, D.D., New York.

It is my very decided conviction that this commentary is exceedingly valuable, especially for clergymen and all practical Biblical students.—Bishop W. F. Mallalieu [M. E. Church].

It is the most learned, able, and instructive commentary on that portion of the Scripture.—Prof. Henry Green, Princeton Seminary

It is the best exposition known to me of that section of the Sacred Scriptures. Pusey's Hebrew scholarship was undoubted; his learning was extensive; his acquaintance, particularly with patristic literature, was very large, and his heart was especially devout. His well-known Church views do not obtrude themselves, and alike in his comments on Daniel and the minor prophets, he seems to be on his knees as he studies—seeking only to know God's meaning, and desiring only to do God's will. I have gone through his Daniel chapter by chapter—wondering even more at the reverence than at the learning of the expositor.—William M. Taylor, D.D.

Of JEAN PAUL FRED. RICHTER. Edited by GILES P. HAWLEY. 12mo, 228 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 117.)

Richter has been called an intellectual Colossus. His faculties are of gigantic mould. He has an intellect vehement, rugged, irresistible, crushing in pieces the hardest problems, piercing the most hidden, and grasping the most distant. He has a fancy literally unexampled for exuberance. It pours its treasures with a lavishness which knows no limit. He, moreover, is a humorist from his inmost soul.—Thomas Carlyle.

Dr. Sherwood has an intense sympathy with the person of Christ, and His redemptive work in its broadest relations is his theme. He has carefully studied the existing hindrances of every sort to the progress of that work, and exposes them with incisive directness and force. In his exhibition, both of the positive forms of vital truth and of the obstacles which to-day stand in the way of its effective presentation, there are many weighty and helpful suggestions by which the studies of thoughtful ministers and laymen may be enriched.—J. G. Butler, D.D., author of "Butler's Bible Work."

Memoirs of David Brainerd,

Missionary to the North-American Indians. New and Complete Edition on the Basis of Sereno E. Dwight's (1822). Edited by J. M. This new edition of one of our religious classics is as timely as it is excellent. The notes and introduction by Dr. Sherwood, and the essay by Dr. Pierson, greatly increase its interest and value. I have already urged every member of the class to which I lecture on missions to buy it, and were it in my power, I would put a copy into the hands of every theological student in the land. Smith, Goldwin, D.C L.

The Moral Crusader; William Lloyd Garrison.

A Biographical Essay, Founded on "The Story of Garrison's Life, Told by his Children." With Portrait. 12mo, 200 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

There is sometimes a crisis in the history of a nation when a man is urgently needed to prick the national conscience on a moral question. The man need not be supremely wise after the fashion of earthly wisdom, nor supremely strong ofter the fashion of earthly strength. But he must be himself an impersonation of conscience. Such a crisis was the ascendency of the Slave Power in the United States, and such a man was William Lloyd Garrison.

His character is interesting in its weakness as in its strength, and the contemplation of it is cheering as it shows what a fund of moral force a society sound at the core always possesses, dark as may be the apparent outlook, and how that force may be called forth, perhaps from the most unsuspected quarter, in the hour of need. . . . To the military heroism of the struggle against the Slave Power, literary monuments, as well as monuments of marble, numerous and splendid, are being raised. Let the moral heroism also have its due. The interest of its history, if less thrilling, is not less deep.—From the Author's Introduction.

Each year brings a new book about William Lloyd Garrison, but one of the best stories comes to us from a foreign pen—that of Goldwin Smith.—New York Herald.

This essay is worthy of a place in every American library.—Morning Star, Boston.

It presents him as he was, indomitable, persevering, careless of the opinion of others, believing in the one cause to which he was devoted, and fighting on in immovable self-confidence until the day of his triumph came, and slavery was abolished throughout the land. It is a fine illustration of what one determined will, set to carry out one purpose, can accomplish.—The Presbyterian, Philadelphia.

This is a true biographical essay, reconciling character and conduct as presented in the life and history of the aggressive anti-slavery agitator. The work evinces keen, analytical acumen; and is a highly intelligent estimate of the strength and weakness of a man whose motives and actions were not always easy to judge.—The World, New York.

This book is a series of meditations, to state what the Bible, upon a natural and common-sense construction of its language, says about the Heaven to which it so often refers.

The reader will be surprised at the extent of the information which the Bible gives upon this subject when a common-sense construction is given to its language. The book will be found comforting and refreshing to all who are looking in faith for a better country, even a heavenly.—The Methodist Recorder, Pittsburgh.

Thirty Thousand Thoughts.

Edited by Rev. CANON SPENCE, H.D.M., M.A.; Rev. JOSEPH EXELL, M.A.; Rev. CHARLES NEIL, M.A.; with Introduction by Very Rev. DEAN HOWSON, D.D. Authorized American Edition. Complete in Six Volumes. Royal 8vo, 3,230 pp.: Cloth, per volume, $3.50; per set, $20.00; Sheep, per set, $30.00.

All subjects—theological, philosophical, biographical, practical, ethical, biblical, ecclesiastical. From all sources—patristic, mediæval, puritanic, modern, foreign, scientific, Welsh. With suggestive and seminal headings, and homiletical and illuminative framework; the whole arranged upon a scientific basis. With classified and thought-multiplying lists, comparative tables and elaborate indices, alphabetical, topical, textual, and scriptural.

It is a masterpiece of order and a mine of thought. —Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.

Every chapter and page marks the painstaking and scholarship and orderly methods of the editors. It is the cream of wisdom, the very gems of thought, which have been left as legacies by the wisest men and women, brought side by side and made to bear directly upon the subject under discussion.—Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

It is not a common book of illustrations, but a rare book of choice information. Here we find such a fund of thought-gems, such a massing, analyzing, and orderly arrangement of subjects in the direct line of every biblical and homiletic scholar's study, that by the use of it his work may be greatly simplified.—Christian Intelligencer, New York.

As a guide to what we read, as suggestive of thought, and as affording valuable data on subjects of the highest importance, it will prove a valuable addition to the theological library, and also an equally valuable help in the direction of homiletics. —The Literary Churchman, London.

The Greatest Fight in the World.

Rev. CHARLES H. SPURGEON'S Able Conference Address. From "Fight the Good Fight of Faith"—1 Tim. vi: 12. A Valuable Treatise, Combating the Anti-biblical Spirit of the Times; Declaiming in Favor of Plenary Inspiration of the Scriptures; full of Pith and Point and Wise Counsel for Preachers and Teachers. 12mo, 64 pp., Leatherette, 35 cents.

It is a discourse of remarkable power and maintains the plenary inspiration of the Bible from beginning to end. It will serve as an admirable tonic to all ministers and Christians generally, and especially to any who may have their faith shaken by theories of modern critics. It will doubtless attain an immense circulation in the attractive form in which it is issued.—Lutheran Observer, Phila.

Or, Flowers from a Puritan's Garden. Distilled and Dispensed by Rev. C. H. SPURGEON. 12mo, 285 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 98.)

Thomas Manton, D.D., who died near the close of the seventeenth century, was a voluminous preacher and writer. He received praise from his contemporaries, which has been echoed by every generation since. Mr. Spurgeon has selected the most striking and epigrammatic passages of his writings and appended to each a "meditation."—The Ledger, Philadelphia.

The Salt-Cellars.

A Selected Collection of the best Proverbs and Quaint Sayings with Homely Notes thereon, Collected for Twenty Years from Ancient and Modern Literature and Folk-Lore. Chosen and Preserved with a View to their Usefulness to Teachers and Speakers in Giving Point and Force to Moral Lessons. 8vo, Cloth, 733 pp. Price, $3.00.

"The Salt of Proverbs is of great service if discreetly used in sermons and addresses; and I have hoped that these 'Salt-Cellars' of mine may be resorted to by teachers and speakers, and that they may find them helpful.

"My homely notes are made up, as a rule, of other proverbial expressions. They are intended to give hints as to how the proverbs may be used by those who are willing to flavor their speech with them.

"A line may strike where a discourse may miss. Godly sentiments sandwiched in between slices of wit and common sense, may become nutriment for the soul, although they may be almost unconsciously received. Under this belief, I have therefore placed, not only moral precepts, but gospel instructions in the midst of these common maxims. Thus has the salt itself been salted.—Spurgeon in his Preface.

Stall, Sylvanus, D.D.

Bible Selections for Daily Devotion.

This book, a little Bible in itself, presents the most spiritual and helpful portions of the entire Bible arranged in the order of the original text. The mere statistical or descriptive portions have been omitted. The result is an attractive volume of the choicest Scripture, especially suitable and desirable for readings in the home circle or in other general gatherings. The contents comprise about one-third of the contents of the entire Bible. 12mo, Cloth, 686 pp., $1.00. Elegant Presentation Edition, richly bound in full flexible Morocco, Divinity Circuit, Gold on Red Edges, $2.50.

Any one who has felt the need of a volume that can be opened at any point with the assurance of finding a well selected passage of Scripture suited in length and character for devotional reading, will greatly appreciate this valuable and helpful book.—Christian Leader, Cincinnati.

The merits which make this book helpful and valuable, when known, are sure to secure for it an immense circulation.—The Arena, Boston.

This volume meets a felt want among good people generally, who look with great apprehension upon the apparent decay of daily family worship.—The Lutheran Observer.

The work has been done with care and will commend itself to those who think that such compilations are superior to the Bible itself.—The Congregationalist, Boston.

That there has been a great failing off in the good old custom of daily family worship, there can be no doubt. Just how much of this deplorable condition is due to the difficulty of hastily selecting Scriptural passages suited to the service, it might be difficult to determine. But finally persuaded that this is an obstacle of considerable moment, Dr. Stall after some three years' work has selected a series of 365 devotional readings from Genesis to Revelation.—Christian Advocate, Pittsburg.

Talks to the King's Children.

A New Series of Short Object-Sermons after the order of the Author's "Five-Minute Object Sermons to Children." 12mo, Cloth, 249 pp., $1.00.

The author's sermonettes are such as children are sure to appreciate, and must be suggestive to pastors who aim to benefit the young of their flocks.—The Christian Inquirer, New York.

I wish to thank you in behalf of my school children for having your short sermons to children published. I read them to my school children as a part of our devotional exercises, and I often hear remarks like these: "I wish the author would come to Moose Meadow. I wish I could hear him. I wish I could see him and thank him for writing those sermons. Can't we write to him and thank him?" etc. And so I have been led to write you, thinking you in their behalf. Have you published any other books along the same line?

Moose Meadow is a small country place in eastern Connecticut, and I wished you to know that the country children enjoy your sermons equally well as city children, and I am very thankful that a copy of your book was put into my hands. I feel very grateful to God for putting it into the heart of some one to write such interesting sermons and beautiful object lessons. —Mrs. A. B. Dawe, Moose Meadow, Conn., Town of Willington, in letter to the author.

Five-Minute Object-Sermons to Children.

Preached before the main sermon on Sunday mornings, Through Eye-gate and Ear-gate, into the City of Child-soul, by SYLVANUS STALL, D.D., whereby to solve the Perplexing Problem: How to Preach to the Children at Home, How to Afford them Increased Edification and Instruction at the Sunday-school, and How to Secure the Attendance of the Children upon the Regular Services of the Church. 12mo, 256 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

These forty-three brief sermons to children were preached by Doctor Stall, the author of the well-known "Methods of Church Work," with much success, while pastor of the Second English Lutheran Church at Baltimore. With some object of every-day life presented to the eye, the author after the manner of the parables, presents the important truths of the gospel to the easy comprehension of both old and young.

Delightful sermons . . . bright, crisp, and plain . . . models of point and brevity.—The Christian Observer, Louisville.

There are many parents who will welcome this book as a great help in their Sunday talks to their own children, and will find in the Five-Minute Object-Sermons suggestions for their use.—The Boston Times.

Methods of Church Work.

Religious, Social, and Financial. A Practical Work for the Clergy and Laity. 8vo, 304 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

This is the most comprehensive and practical work treating on this subject that has appeared. It covers the whole ground, and covers it wisely and effectively. It is the outcome of a long and broad experience and observation. It treats the subject in all its varied practical relations, religious, social, and financial.

Standard Dictionary of the English Language, Funk & Wagnalls

Embodies many New Principles in Lexicography. 247 Editors and Specialists, and 500 Readers for Quotations. Cost nearly One Million Dollars. Contains more than 5,000 Illustrations, made expressly for this Work; 301,865 Vocabulary Terms, nearly Two and One-half Times the Number in Any Single-volume or Two-volume Dictionary, and about 75,000 More than in Any Other Dictionary of the Language; also a Complete Appendix of Proper names, Foreign Phrases, etc. Complete in One Volume. Handsomely Bound in Full Sheep. Price $12.00. With Denison's Thumbhole Reference Index, 75 cents extra.

ITS DISTINGUISHING FEATURES.

INITIAL CAPITALS are here given for the first time in any single-volume dictionary by using Capitals only with proper names, or proper terms derived from them. This enables the writer or proof-reader to consult the dictionary with absolute confidence, never requiring the loss of a single moment in having to think or decide whether or not an initial capital is to be used.

SYLLABICATION is most conveniently designated by the single hyphen (-), so as clearly to distinguish such from compound words, which are invariably indicated by the double German hyphen (=). The value of this device will readily be perceived on using the book.

THE SPELLING of this work is conservative, and yet aggressively positive along the lines of reform agreed upon almost unanimously by all the leading philologists of England and America. It notes the preferences of each of the leading dictionaries where they do vary, so the difference can instantly be seen. All disputed spellings and pronunciations were referred to a committtee of over fifty leading authorities in English, Canadian, Australian, East-Indian, and American universities. In the Appendix, the tally of over 179,000 votes, or preferences, are recorded, showing the individual preference of each member of the committee on each word submitted.

FOR PRONUNCIATION each word is respelled with the Scientific Alphabet. This insures the highest possible accuracy with the greatest simplicity that the combined ingenuity of the American Philological Association, in harmony with the accepted principles of the Philological Society of England, was able to devise. By this clear and unmistakable method, both a native and the intelligent foreigner can correctly pronounce each English word at sight. As to disputed pronunciations the same remarks as above on spellings apply.

THE DICTIONARY SYSTEM of this work in unique. A scientific system is introduced that enables the student to consider words in their true relation to all kindred subjects. By this system a word of any science or art furnishes a clue by which one may easily trace the subject, backward or forward, in all its branches, and when so collected, their definitions and unfoldings may be found to furnish a comprehensive and harmonious exposition of that entire subject, in accordance with the latest and best scientific light. Such a system has never before been attempted in an English Dictionary.

THE DEFINITIONS of this work are distinguished, viz.: (1) Nothing intervenes between the vocabulary term and the definition. The etymology is placed after the definition. (2) Where there are two or more meanings of a word, the most common meaning is given first. (3) Definitive statement is the important factor of the definitions in this work. The crude and loose method of using synonymous words is avoided. (4) All the terms of any Art, Creed, Handicraft, or Science were submitted to scholars particularly qualified for such special work. The entire range of human knowledge was accordingly considered, and the result is a dictionary that stands alone; beyond comparison; unrivaled as a defining dictionary. (5) Quotations are more modern; old "stock quotations" were avoided; and to enable the student to verify and consult the context, each quotation is located. (6) The 5,000 illustrations are given expressly to aid in definitions. They were especially drawn by our own artists, and many of them are in colors, which are gems of art. (7) An ingenious system of tables is incorporated with the definitions, each under the proper vocabulary term, expressly for definitive purposes. (8) As collateral aids in defining and word-finding, words peculiar to an art or handicraft, are given along with the definitions. Thus under architecture are given all the terms peculiar to the art; under carpenter are given the terms peculiar to the handicraft.

THE ETYMOLOGY is placed after the definition.

THE COMPOUNDING OF WORDS is for the first time reduced to a practical system and consistently carried out in the work.

SYNONYMS are illustrated to an extent never before found in a dictionary.

ANTONYMS are given for the first time in a dictionary.

AS A RHETORIC this dictionary is invaluable. The correct use of each of the prepositions is plainly given under its proper vocabulary place, and a department of Faulty Diction, as given, has been characterized as the practical grammar of the XX. century.

THE APPENDIX of 47,468 proper names in Biography, History, Mythology, Fiction, The Bible, The Classics, etc., are given all in one alphabetical order. This affords a convenience so obvious that "the wonder is no one ever discovered it before," as a Reviewer puts it.

Students' Standard Dictionary, The Funk & Wagnalls

The latest, most ample, and most accurate academic dictionary. Designed to give the Orthography, Pronunciation, Meaning, and Etymology of over 60,000 Words and Phrases in the Speech and Literature of the English-speaking peoples, with 6,593 Synonyms, 2,000 Antonyms, and 1,000 Prepositions; containing also, an Appendix of Proper Names, Foreign Phrases, Faulty Diction, Disputed Pronunciations, Abbreviations, etc., etc.; 1,225 Pictorial Illustrations; Abridged from the Standard Dictionary of the English language by JAMES C. FERNALD, Editor; Francis A. March, LL.D., Consulting Editor; Associate Editors—John W. Palmer, M.D., Francis A. March, Jr., Ph.D., William R. Cochrane, Emma Fiske Roberts, M.A., Frank H. Vizetelly. Large 8vo, Cloth Sides, Leather back, 915 pages. Price, $2.50 net. Bound in Tan Sheep, $4.00 net; Denison Thumb Index, 50 cents extra. Prospectus sent upon application.

ITS DISTINGUISHING FEATURES.

THE VOCABULARY, which is comprehensive and of unequaled richness, preserves the distinguishing features of the parent work and aims to meet the combined needs of teachers and students. It exceeds by many thousands of terms the vocabulary of any other similar English work. Only such words as should be written with capital initial letters are capitalized.

ENGLISH CLASSICS. The meanings of all words used in the sixty volumes of English Classics which were selected by the Commission of Colleges for study preparatory to admission to the principal colleges and universities in the United States, have been incorporated in this dictionary. This is a feature never before attempted in any other school dictionary. It is an invaluable addition for all students who are engaged in preparatory work, and also for the general reader.

THE SPELLINGS AND PRONUNCIATIONS were under the supervision of the Standard Dictionary committee of fifty leading philologists and educators. The pronunciation is accurately indicated by the Scientific Alphabet which was prepared and promulgated by the American Philological Association.

MOST OF THE 1,225 ILLUSTRATIONS are wholly new, prepared expressly for this work or redrawn on a reduced scale, from the Standard Dictionary. Their definitive character is especially noticeable, each introduced for a purpose, and telling the meaning to the eye, as no mere words can do.

THE DEFINITIONS are clear and exact and are made as thorough as possible by presenting accurate meanings and distinctions; by giving a definitive clue to the great departments and divisions of knowledge; and by making the general definitions comprehensive and exhaustive. The system of compounding words adopted by the Standard Dictionary has been carefully followed in the Students' Standard. Synonyms, antonyms, and prepositions are given with great fulness.

THE ETYMOLOGIES are far more numerous than those given by other academic dictionaries, and being invariably placed after the definitions do not impede consultation. It has been the constant purpose in this work to avoid extremes and meet the needs of the student. The meaning of each word has been traced back in a direct line, avoiding mere guesses at derivations and the temptation to make incursions into cognate languages.

AS A RHETORIC it contains many of the valuable features incorporated in the Standard Dictionary, such as the correct use of prepositions, disputed spellings, pronunciations, etc.

THE APPENDIX covers 100 pages and includes: A Language Key; Principles and Explanations of the Scientific Alphabet; Proper Names in Bibliography, Bibliology, Biography, Fiction, Geography, History, and Mythology, together with Pen-names, Prænomens, etc., in one alphabetical order; Glossary of Foreign Words, Phrases, etc., in English Literature; Faulty Diction: A Brief Statement of the Principles Deciding Correctness of Usage, etc.; Disputed Pronunciations; Abbreviations and Contractions; University Degrees; Chemical Elements; Pilgrim Fathers and Signers of the Declaration of Independence; Presidents of the United States, and Sovereigns of England; Systems of Shorthand, and Calendars of the World; Weights and Measures, Common and Metric Systems; Arbitrary Signs, Symbols, etc., etc.

COMMENDATIONS.

I believe that it will prove to be the best students' dictionary of the English language in existence.—William Hayes Ward, D.D., Editor N. Y. Independent.

The book is sure to meet a hearty welcome everywhere—not only from teachers and students, but from thousands of others.—W. J. Rolfe, M.A., D.L., the Shakespearian Scholar, Cambridge, Mass.

Concerning the "Students' Standard Dictionary" I am glad that you have decided to take this most popular step.—Bishop John H. Vincent, D.D., LL.D.

The suggestions are good, and the students will appreciate the material you thus embrace in one volume. The name, the "Students' Standard," is good.—Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard, LL.D., Burlington, Vt.

Your plan can not but be approved by any one who knows the excellence of your "Standard Dictionary."—Wm. Hand Browne, Professor of English Literature, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, M.D.

. . . The "English classics" feature, will be an immense attraction to actual or would-be students of Chaucer, Spenser, Shakespeare, etc., at school, academy, and college.—Henry A. Todd, Ph.D., Professor of Romance Philology, Columbia College, New York.

I see nothing to suggest by way of improvement, and I predict great success for the new book.—Montg. R. Hooper, Principal Yeates Institute, Lancaster, Pa.

I have examined the pages sent me with some care and believe the claims you make in its favor are fully substantiated.—Frederick Starr, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Anthropology, and Curator of the Museum, University of Chicago, Chicago.

The Webster and Worcester works do not shine in comparison. . . . Carries its sufficient recommendations on its face.—F. Horace Teall, Author of "English Compound Words and Phrases," etc.

Brooklyn Tabernacle.

A Collection of 104 Sermons. One vol., Crown 8vo, 406 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

Dr. Talmage's discourses lay hold of my inmost soul. The Lord is with this mighty man of valor. So may he ever be till the campaign closes with victory! I am indeed glad of his voice. It cheers me intensely. He loves the Gospel, and believes in something, which some preachers hardly do. There are those about who use the old labels, but the articles are not the same. May the Lord win armies of souls to Jesus by this man! I am astonished when God blesses me, but somehow I should not be so much surprised if He blessed this man.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Persian Queen,

And fifteen other bright and edifying readings, "illustrative, suggestive, attractive." 8vo, 68 pp., Paper, 10 cents. (S. Ser., 63.)

The Persian Queen (Esther) is very bright, genial, sparkling. It is admirable to read by the fireside on Sunday evenings, or at the prayer-meetings; very illustrative, suggestive, and attractive.—E. Paxton Hood, D.D.

Preacher's Cabinet.

A Handbook of Illustrations. In three small volumes. 12mo, 222 pp., Paper, 25 cents each. Cloth, bound in one volume, $1.00.

These three small books contain many rare illustrations. They are printed in parallel columns, in good type, and, where known, the author of each quotation is given.

Serviceable and instructive.—Prof. C. A. Young.

Tinling, J. F. B., B.A.

Fifteen Hundred Facts and Similes.

For Sermons and Addresses. Large 12mo., 477 pp., Cloth, $2.00.

This is a handy volume in good type and good binding, with incidents and quotations on almost every conceivable subject, well indexed, so that what is wanted can be readily found; will be appreciated by thousands of busy pastors. A timely illustration is an argument. The illustrations are the best remembered part of a sermon. For the preacher, too, an apt illustration always suggests new ranges of thought, so that the usefulness of such a book is almost unlimited.—The Religious Herald, Hartford, Conn.

Townsend, Prof. [illegible] Tracy

The Story of Jonah in the Light of Higher Criticism.

16mo, Cloth, 120 pp. Price, 50 cents.

The Book of Jonah is considered from the standpoint of the Higher Criticism, and the author completely turns the tables upon adverse critics and vindicates the book from every standpoint. He follows scientific methods most rigidly.

The summing up of the argument appears to be unanswerable, and to the Christian will be inspiring. The book will be interesting to scholars, as it suggests the methods that are doubtless to be employed in the future while answering the critics.—The Christian Work, New York.

Turgenieff, Ivan Sergeyevitch

Mumu, and the Diary of a Superfluous Man.

Two Novels. Translated from the Russian by HENRY GERSONI. 12mo, 131 pp.: Paper, 15 cents; Cloth, 75 cents. (S. Lib., 107.)

"Mumu" shows the great artist's power to transfigure to our eyes the tenderness, passion, agonies, which lie beyond speech, and almost beyond sign, in the silent heart of a strong, simple man.—Lippincott's Magazine, Philadelphia.

An Unfortunate Woman, and Ass'ya.

Two Novels. Bound in one volume. 12mo, 190 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 142.)

He is an artist of the first order. His style is bright, picturesque, intensely human, and irresistibly fascinating.—The World, London.

Van Doren, W. H., D.D.

Commentary on St. Luke's Gospel.

Edited by PROFESSOR KERNAN, London. Two volumes. 8vo, 1090 pp., Cloth, $3.75.

It teems and swarms with homiletic hits.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Van Dyke, Joseph S., A.M.

From Gloom to Gladness.

Illustrations of Life from the Biography of Esther. 16mo, 269 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The author has taken one of the most peculiar and interesting stories of the Old Testament, and given a forcible, affluent, and richly practical exposition of it. It is sound and healthy in its teachings. Dr. W. P. Breed gives a terse introduction, which is a valuable addition of the volume.—The Presbyterian Journal, Philadelphia.

Giving or Entertainment, Which?

A Clear, Concise Discussion on Church Entertainments in Contrast to Giving. 12mo, 27 pp., Paper, 25 cents.

This book takes a strong position against modern methods of raising money in churches. It is a clear, plain, pungent protest against fairs and other entertainments for this purpose. The author's arguments are sound and unanswerable.—The Christian Intelligencer New York.

Popery.

Popery the Foe of the Church and of the Republic. 8vo, 304 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

CONTENTS.

Popery the Predicted Enemy of Christ's Kingdom.
The Papacy Predicted as the Foe of the True Church.
Romanism an Apostasy.
Formalism an Old Enemy of Christianity.
Popery. Paganism.
Arrogance of Popery.
Infallibility.
Despotism.
Fraud—Relics.
Fraud—Miracles.
Idolatry.
Will-worship.
Credulity.
Persecution.
Popery the Enemy of Our Liberty.
The Papacy a Foe to Religious Liberty.
Popery and Morality.
Popery Unchanged.

It is an excellent summary of the principles and facts bearing upon the controversy with the Papal Church. The arguments and appeals are sound and strong. It is a timely contribution to the cause of true religion and civil liberty.—Joseph T. Duryea.

Through the Prison to the Throne.

Illustrations of Life from the Biography of Joseph. 16mo, 225 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The biography is given with great minuteness in a style both graceful and forcible, and with constant reference to the usefulness of the story as suggestive of practical truth. The practical element is really the strong point of the book. Many of the lessons drawn from the narrative reveal not a little ingenuity and spiritual insight, and yet they are all fairly deducible from the history, and are at once seen to be both natural and impressive.—The Christian Intelligencer, New York.

Vincent, Frank, and Lancaster, A. E.

Lady of Cawnpore.

A Novel. 12mo, 420 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

. . . It is not a meditative work for a quiet nook n the summer holidays, but a stirring romance to oe read by those who wish to break away from all that is real and visible about them, and to enter another field where they may become so wholly absorbed as to lose all thought of present cares and anxieties.—The Journal of Commerce, New York.

Collaborated novels are not common, nor are they usually successful. In this instance, however, the result is perfectly satisfactory. Mr. Vincent made his mark twenty years ago by his "Land of the White Elephant," and his keen observation and retentive memory, and great knowledge of the Orient, combined with Mr. Lancaster's charming style and brilliancy, have evolved a really picturesque and delightful romance. — The Standard-Union, Brooklyn.

This is a romance highly dramatic and romantic in its incidents, and profoundly interesting in its leading characters. . . . The beauty and attractiveness of the writing is that it is out of all ruts. We will leave our readers to enjoy the story.—The Daily Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

Vincent, Bishop John H.

Better Not.

By the Chancellor of the Famous Chautauqua University. An Epigrammatic and Convincing Hand-book, Dealing with the Dance, Theatres, Card-playing, and Kindred Topics. 16mo, 86 pp., Cloth 50 cents; Presentation Edition, $1.00.

Wise and dispassionate. . . . The book contains a candid, fair, and, we believe, an unanswerable arraignment of these customs.—The Chautauquan.

Studies in Young Life.

A Series of Word-pictures and Practical Papers. 12mo, 254 pp., Cloth, $1.25.

An attractive and valuable book. . . . A book particularly worth reading.—The Advance, Chicago.

Voice, The

A National Prohibition Party and Family Newspaper. Published every Thursday. Eight pages, size 22x16 inches. Among its excellent features are the Household Department including Health Hints, Suggestions for the Table, Weekly Dress Patterns, Correspondence, and articles and suggestions pertinent to the management of a successful household; Comments and illustrative anecdotes on the Christian Endeavor and Epworth League Topics; choice stories, poems, sketches, etc.; general news of the world, including brief accounts of the more significant events in many lands and in all fields of activity. Timely Editorial comments on leading topics, also, the fullest Prohibition, Temperance and Evangelical news. Good type, well printed. Per Year, $1.50; per copy, 3 cents. Specimen copy sent on request. Subscriptions begin with the issue current at the time remittance is received. Advertisements of an unobjectionable character inserted. Rates sent on application.

I heartily sympathize with the good work which THE VOICE has been doing in reference to the great moral questions of the age.—Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, ex-Mayor of New York.

Permit me to express my hearty appreciation of the several characteristics of THE VOICE.—R. S. MacArthur, New York.

My admiration for THE VOICE as a temperance paper is beyond expression. . . . It is accomplishing a work that will never be realized this side of the judgment day.—Bishop H. M. Turner, D.D., LL.D. (M. E. Church).

I read THE VOICE with avidity and zest for its originality, variety, piquancy, directness, and courage. —Bishop John P. Newman, D.D., LL.D.

It is conducted with remarkable energy and ability. Its statistical temperance information has never been surpassed.—Chief Justice Noah Davis.

THE VOICE is a very valuable mine of information. —Lyman Abbott, D.D. (Pastor of Plymouth Church, and Editor of "The Outlook").

In courage, information, timeliness, high principle, and general effectiveness, THE VOICE appears to me to be the best temperance newspaper in the world.—Joseph Cook.

Its methods command attention and respect. It is able, fearless, honest, and vigorous. What better can be said of any newspaper?—C. H. Jones (Editor of "The St. Louis Republic").

I admired THE VOICE long before I became its political ally. . . . In my opinion, THE VOICE is to-day stronger and more valuable than ever before. No citizen who wants to do his duty can afford to be without THE VOICE no matter what party he affiliates with.—Henry B. Metcalf.

The prohibition of the liquor traffic is the supreme necessity of the hour. The destruction of this traffic, or the American nation, is the issue. Let THE VOICE hold to this, let come what will, and then let the rank and file of Prohibitionists see to it that the paper goes to every preacher in the land, and into hundreds of thousands of homes besides.—Rev. C. H. Mead.

THE VOICE has become the leading temperance journal of the world. I felt compelled to declare it the ablest agitator of the drink question ever published. —Axel Gustafson, the Great English Temperance Reformer.

THE VOICE utters no uncertain sound. It advocates a cause second to none in importance. I send my copy regularly to a college reading-room, where it does good among our students.—The Late President McCosh, of Princeton College.

THE VOICE is entitled to rank among the best family newspapers in the land. Its corps of able, trained editors and assistants present, in admirably condensed form, in every issue, not only the most important current news at home and abroad, but terse essays upon almost every topic of interest to readers of every class — literature, art, science, history, biography, sociology, fiction.—Benson J. Lossing, LL.D. (the distinguished historian, shortly before his death).

There is no way in which busy Prohibitionists can advance their convictions more rapidly than by increasing the circulation of THE VOICE.—President Bashford.

I have for years repeatedly said that if any one wished to be thoroughly posted on the various phases and facts of the great temperance issues, he must be a constant reader of THE VOICE, as he will find nowhere else such a fund of information and inspiration as is there furnished. I should be glad if every voter in America could be brought under the influence of a weekly visit from THE VOICE.—C. H. Payne, D.D., LL.D., Corresponding Secretary, Board of Education of the M. E. Church.

Waldron, George B., A.M.

A Handbook on Currency and Wealth.

This little book is a complete Monetary Cyclopedia, containing Concise Presentations of the Money Systems and Finances of the World, with Impartial Statements on both Gold and Silver gathered from Trustworthy Sources, together with Complete Data on Wealth, Wages, etc. All the Information is Absolutely Unbiased. Knowledge of the Facts it Contains is Necessary to an Understanding of the Financial Questions Now before the Country. Every Campaign Speaker and every Voter will find it of Inestimable Value. It is Compactly Arranged and of a size not inconvenient to Carry in one's Pocket. 16mo, Flexible Cloth, 150 pp., 50 cents: Leather, $1.00; post free.

It is a very useful handbook and compendium of statistics that every person who is likely to be called upon to make a speech ought to have for reference. It is valuable and convenient, and I trust it will have a wide circulation.—Senator John Sherman.

. . . The table giving each kind of currency in use and telling the date of first authorization; the limit of its denomination; the fact whether it is a legal tender and to what extent; the class of dues for which it is receivable; the kind of currency for which it is exchangeable, and the kind of money in which it is redeemable, compiled from the currency laws of the United States, is one of the most convenient statistical presentations with which we are acquainted.—Bradstreet's, New York.

It is a compact collection of facts and figures which public men, public writers, and public-spirited citizens should be familiar with.—Edward Bellamy.

It is full of matter worthy of study and convenient for reference.—Pres. John Bascom.

In view of the widespread discussion on the financial question, such a handbook is both timely and valuable. It is a bird's-eye view of the subject, from the whole wide field, very admirably condensed, and yet so full as to make the subject clear and intelligible.—Inter Ocean, Chicago.

. . . Contains a vast amount of statistical material and other information without apparent bias.—Plain Dealer, Cleveland.

The Prohibition Handbook.

The book presents in compact and accessable form the Latest and Most Telling Facts on the Drink Question and the Proposed Methods for its Settlement. "The Author does not seek to draw conclusions from the Facts given; he generously leaves that to the readers." 16mo, Flexible Cloth, 158 pp., 50 cents.

Among the topics considered in this valuable little book are the following: Production, Consumption, and Cost of Intoxicating Liquors. Effects of the Traffic on Industry. Effects on Mind and Body. Relation to Vice and Crime. Such Non-Partizan Opposition to the Saloon as Law and Order Leagues, the W. C. T. U., Saloon Substitutes, and the Churches. The Gothenburg System. Walter, Robert, M.D.

The Nutritive Cure.

A Statement of its Principles and Methods. Introduction by JOEL SWARTZ, D.D. 8vo, 70 pp., Paper, 15 cents. (S. Ser., 59.)

The nutrive cure has already attained a decided reputation among physicians. It is adapted to the treatment of acute diseases as well as chronic ailments. It has this advantage over all other methods—its process may be graduated to the feeblest conditions and most complicated ailments.—Extract from the Preface.

Warren, Israel P., D.D.

The Book of Revelation.

An Exposition Based on the Principles of Prof. Stuart's Commentary, and Designed to Familiarize those Principles to the Minds of Non-professional Readers. 12mo, 300 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The author names his plan of work as the "common-sense method," and maintains his position throughout the entire book. His arguments and interpretations are to show that the prophecies of the Book of Revelation were given for a practical purpose to those to whom they were addressed; that they were designed to be understood, and that they were, in fact, understood by them in their essential import; also that by the application of well-known canons of interpretation—guides in all languages and fields of literature—the people of to-day may as fully understand and as practically use them for doctrine, reproof, instruction, etc.

Weiss, Prof. B., Ph.D.

Introduction to the New Testament.

By Prof. B. WEISS, Ph.D., of the University of Berlin. Translated by A. J. K DAVIDSON. The author is now recognized as the first New Testament Scholar in Germany, and this book is the matured result of many years' study. Two Volumes. Crown Octavo, 871 pp., Cloth, $4.00.

Prof. Weiss is well known by his "Life of Christ" and his "Theology on the New Testament;" but his later work, "Introduction to the New Testament," is generally considered his masterpiece, showing equal acuteness and learning, and representing fairly the critical scholarship of to-day.—Dr. Talbot W. Chambers, D.D.

Weymouth, Richard Francis, D.Lit.

The Resultant Greek Testament.

This Work Exhibits the Text in which the Majority of Modern Editors are Agreed, and contains the Readings of Stephens (1550), Lachmann, Tregelles, Tischendorf, Lightfoot, Ellicott, Alford, Weiss; the Bale Edition (1880), Westcott, and Hort, and the Revision Committee. By RICHARD FRANCIS WEYMOUTH, D.Lit., Fellow of University College, London. With an Introduction by the Bishop of Worcester. 8vo, 653 pp., Cloth, $3.00.

Vast judgment and acute discrimination characterize the entire work.—The Watchman, Boston.

It is superior, for present day purposes, to anything else that is obtainable.—Review of Reviews, New York.

It exhibits great accuracy, and it can be confidently recommended.—National Baptist, Philadelphia.

We unhesitatingly advise students, if they can own but one Greek Testament, to make this one their possession.—Apostolic Guide, Louisville, Ky.

Wilkinson, Prof. W. C.

Epic of Saul.

An Epic Poem. 8vo, 390 pp., Cloth, Gilt Top, $1.50

It is a poem to be read and re-read—a poem that will live a century hence.—Bishop J. H. Vincent.

It seems to me that the book will secure the claim of Prof. Wilkinson in the front rank of poets.—The late Dr. Howard Crosby.

"The Epic of Saul" is a noteworthy and praiseworthy poem. Its proportions are fine, its lines show large curves of power.—The Independent.

"The Epic of Saul" is a study of the struggle of Judaism against the innovation of Christianity. By a keen analysis of Hebrew conservatism and of that popular sentiment which would naturally be roused by an unwelcome person of the Messiah, his doctrine, miracles, and mysterious end. Professor Wilkinson has differentiated the thoughts, emotions, perplexities, attitudes, and forms of antagonism which must have been developed in certain prominent men, who, withal, must have represented the several dispositions of temperament in society throughout Jerusalem, soon after the ascension of our Lord and the descent of the Holy Spirit upon his followers. It is the great success of the poem to put the reader in the place of those who opposed the rising and rapidly spreading faith in Jesus, and to unfold a marvellous insight into the reasonings, motives, intrigues, and action of those actually engaged in trying to suppress the new movement; and thus, it helps to form a remarkably vivid conception of the crisis and to gain a deeper understanding of the conflict. Professor Wilkinson's idea and purpose are very happy ones; his verse is never without elegance, beauty, or interest; and it is an uncommon excellence for such an effort to be perfectly true to the physical features both of the Holy City and of the country northward to Damascus.—Prof. John A. Paine.

The Epic of Paul.

An Epic Poem detailing the life of Saint Paul with all the grandeur and beauty of poetic diction. A companion volume, and similar in style to "The Epic of Saul." 8vo., 722 pages, Cloth, Gilt Top. Price, $2.00. (Price of "Epic of Paul," and "Epic of Saul," if ordered together, $3.00.)

It is of the highest order of poetry. It excels both in grave and meditative discourse and rapid action and intricate plot. It blossoms out often into figures which stand before the reader in their proper forms for the author so uses his language as to lead the reader to forget the language and see the things it depicts. No American poet before him has been so picturesque in the best sense of the word. I sometimes think as I read, that his genius is dramatic as well as epic, but it is certainly successful in the creation of a high order of epic poetry. I have repeatedly spoken to my classes of his "Epic of Saul," as one of the finest pieces of sacred poetry in our language, and have counseled them to read it, not only for its own beauty, but for its accurate conception of Saul of Tarsus and other historic characters. I do not doubt that the "Epic of Paul" will exceed even this great achievement.—Prof. Franklin Johnson, D. D., Divinity School, University of Chicago.

The Dance of Modern Society.

12mo, 78 pp., Cloth, 60 cents.

PARTIAL CONTENTS.

Its Bearing upon the Health.	Its Influence upon Intellectual Improvement.	Its Moral and Religious Aspects.	Its Social Tendency.

The most pungent attack on the modern dance we have ever read.—Harper's Magazine.

We do not hesitate to say that this little essay entitles him (Mr. Wilkinson) to a front rank among American essayists. He is quite as sparkling and more sententious than Parton. He is immeasurably stronger and more vigorous than Timothy Titcomb. His earnestness is not surpassed by that of Mrs. Stowe. We know no writer who equals him in the courage with which he handles the most delicate and difficult of subjects.—Independent, New York.

Containing an Examination of "The Light of Asia" for its Literature and for its Buddhism. 12mo, 177 pp.: Paper, 15 cents; Cloth, 75 cents. (S. Lib., 131.)

Mr. Wilkinson strikes his foe with a smile and a bow, and with true knightly good nature, but his rapier is sharp both at the point and along the edge. As to the historic truth and the wholesome quality of Arnold's poem. . . . His examination is all the better for the excellent spirit in which it is conducted, the good-natured humor and wit it brings into play, and the nice and even playful turn given to many of his hardest hits.—The Independent, New York.

Analytical Concordance to 8,000 Changes in Revised New Testament.

Analytical Concordance †

To the Bible on an Entirely New Plan. Containing Every Word in Alphabetical Order, arranged under its Hebrew or Greek Original, with the Literal Meaning of each and its Pronunciation. Exhibiting about 311,000 References, Marking 30,000 Various Readings in the New Testament. Designed for the Simplest Reader of the English Bible. Latest Edition (revised), printed on heavy paper. This is the only authorized edition in America. One large volume, 4to, 1,108 pp. Cloth, $5.00; Tan Sheep, $7.50; Half Morocco, $9.00; Full Morocco, $12.00. These prices are net. With the Denison Patent (thumbhole) Reference Index, 75 cents extra; on either binding.

Points of Superiority over Cruden's Concordance.

1. Young's exceed's Cruden's unabridged by over 118,000 references.

2. Young's contains over 70,000 Greek and Hebrew original words—all analytically arranged under their English title. Cruden's has not one—a lack greatly lessening its usefulness to the critical scholar.

3. Young's is analytical in character, giving the various shades of meaning of several related words which in English are represented by one word. Cruden's is synthethical, and makes, as the basis of its parallel reference, the English word only,

Worthy of the lifetime of labor spent upon it.—John Hall, D.D.
By far the most complete concordance in the English or any other language.—Philip Schaff, D.D.
Cruden's Concordance is child's play compared with this gigantic production.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon,

Bible Translation.

The Holy Bible, Consisting of the Old and New Covenants. Translated According to the Letter and Idioms of the Original Languages. A New and Valuable Translation. Octavo, 780 pp., Cloth, net, $4.00. Second Edition Revised.

The style throughout is strikingly picturesque, and frequently dramatic, while many of the emendations are peculiarly felicitous.—Rev. Adam Stuart Muir, D.D., Leith.

A Concise Commentary on the Holy Bible.

Being a Companion to the New Translation of the Old and New Covenants (see "Bible Translation" above). Especially Designed for those Teaching the Word of God, whether Preachers, Catechists, Scripture Readers, District Visitors, Sabbath-school Teachers, or Heads of Families. 8vo, 802 pp., Cloth, $3.00. Net.

This book is just what its name implies—a "concise commentary." There is a brief historic and critical introduction to each book in the Bible, stating when, where, and by whom written, with other particulars of interest. Each book is taken up, word by word, in order; the exact meaning of every prominent word in Greek or Hebrew is given, with reference to other passages where it is used, explaining Scripture by Scripture

"A Book Which Hath Been Culled

"By long odds the best book of Quotations."—N. Y. HERALD.

By J. K. HOYT.

AN INVALUABLE BOOK FOR TEACHERS, STUDENTS, AUTHORS, SPEAKERS, MINISTERS, AND ALL INTELLIGENT MEN AND WOMEN WHO WISH TO BEAUTIFY AND STRENGTHEN THEIR SPOKEN OR WRITTEN WORDS BY APT QUOTATIONS. ADOPTED AS A REFERENCE BOOK IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF NEW YORK AND ELSEWHERE.

COPIOUS REFERENCE HELPS

Every facility is afforded for finding either a familiar or an unfamiliar Quotation. There are three Distinct Reference Keys: The Topics, The Entry of Each Significant Word in the Concordance, and the Name of the Author with the numbers of pages containing his quotations. The Quotations of Eight Leading Authors, such as Shakespeare, Milton, Longfellow, are denoted by special symbols. Foreign quotations can be found under the Topic, some word in the Original, or some word in the Translation.

MARVELOUS THOROUGHNESS

Special Attention has been paid to the Accuracy and Authority of every quotation. Not only is the Author of each given, but the Book, Page, and Line where the Quotation is found is invariably indicated. In the Appendix is a List of All the Authors quoted, with their full names, nationality, date of birth, and if dead, date of death. Each is also described in a few words. Every familiar phrase and quotation that has currency in the English language has been incorporated in this new and greatly enlarged edition.

UNEQUIVOCAL PRAISE FROM EMINENT MEN.

Ex-President Benjamin Harrison says:

"I can see that 'The New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations' would have great value and usefulness to many persons."

Hon. Joseph H. Choate says:

"'The New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations' is evidently a greatly improved and enlarged edition of the old Encyclopedia of the same name, which I have always found the most complete and useful book of the kind ever published."

Prof. Goldwin Smith, Toronto, says:

"The claim of the work to a novelty in the abundance of its matter and to be arranged on a new principle is well founded. I hope the book will meet with the measure of success which the care bestowed on it deserves."

Hon. Abram S. Hewitt (ex-Mayor of New York City) says:

"The work, always indispensable to the scholar and the author, appears to me to be incapable of further improvement."

General Horace Porter says:

"'The New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations' is a work which will commend itself to all scholars. No library will be complete without it."

General Stewart L. Woodford says:

"The former edition of 'The Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations' was useful and valuable. It has been to me a practical help, and I am surprised and gratified that it has been so much improved and enlarged."

President Francis L. Patton (Princeton University) says:

"I am sure that I shall find 'The New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations' of great value. It has been prepared with very great care and it is very complete."

Judge Albert Haight (Court of Appeals, State of New York) says:

"As an aid to the scholar and as a book of reference it is of rare value."

Large 8vo, 1205 pp. Net Prices: Buckram (Cover Design by George Wharton Edwards), $6.00; Law Sheep, $8.00; Half Morocco, $10.00; Full Morocco, $12.00.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY, Publishers, 30 Lafayette Place, NEW YORK.

Books by Dr. Louis Albert Banks.

Christ and His Friends.

A Collection of Revival Sermons, simple and direct, and wholly devoid of oratorical artifice, but rich in natural eloquence, and burning with spiritual fervor. The author has strengthened and enlivened them with many illustrations and anecdotes. 12mo, cloth, 390 pages. Price, $1.50 ; post-free.

National Presbyterian, Indianapolis : "One of the most marked revivals attended their delivery, resulting in hundreds of conversions. Free from extravagance and fantasticism, in good taste, dwelling upon the essentials of religious faith, their power has not been lost in transference to the printed page."

Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu, D.D., LL.D., Buffalo : "These sermons are fresh, vivacious, breezy, spiritual, and very practical. . . . They abound in hints, suggestions, and illustrations that will be helpful to preachers in revival work."

The Fisherman and His Friends.

A Companion Volume to "Christ and His Friends," consisting of Thirty-one Stirring Revival Discourses, full of Stimulus and Suggestion for Ministers, Bible Class Teachers, and all Christian Workers and Others who desire to become proficient in the supreme capacity of winning souls to Christ. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, 365 pages. Price, $1.50 ; post-free.

Bishop John F. Hurst : "It is a most valuable addition to our devotional literature."

New York Independent : "There is no more distinguished example of the modern people's preacher in the American pulpit to-day than Dr. Banks. This volume fairly thrills and rocks with the force injected into its utterance."

Hero Tales from Sacred Story.

The Romantic Stories of Bible Characters, retold in graphic style, with modern parallels and striking applications. Richly illustrated with nineteen full-page, half-tone illustrations from famous paintings. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, 295 pages. Cover design by George Wharton Edwards. Price, $1.50.

Christian Work, New York : "One can not imagine a better book to put into the hands of a young man or young woman than this."

David Gregg, D.D.: "This is Dr. Banks's masterpiece."

Sermon Stories for Boys and Girls.

Bright and Attractive Stories in which are simple and attractive character lessons for young folks. Of value in the nursery, Sunday-school, pastor's study, and school-room. 12mo, cloth, artistic cover design, 218 pages. Illustrated. Price, $1.00 ; post-free.

The Burlington Hawk-Eye : "He catches the eyes and ears of his hearers by bright little stories about animals, events in current life, and interesting features of nature, and then with rare skill makes each of these stories carry a helpful message."

Seven Times Around Jericho.

Seven Strong and Stirring Temperance Discourses. Pathetic incidents and stories are made to carry most convincingly their vital significance to the subjects discussed. 12mo, 134 pages, handsomely bound in polished buckram. Price, 75 cents ; post-free.

The Lever, Chicago : "Every pastor in the land should read this book, and preach a similar series of temperance sermons."

The Saloon-Keeper's Ledger.

The Business and Financial Side of the Drink Question. Among the items treated are : The Saloon Debtor to Disease ; Private and Social Immorality; Ruined Homes ; Lawlessness and Crime ; and Political Corruption. 12mo, cloth, 129 pages. Price, 75 cents ; post-free.

The Christian Herald, Detroit : "This is one of the most notable contributions to temperance literature of recent years. The discourses are the masterpieces of an expert, abounding in apt illustrations and invincible logic, sparkling with anecdote, and scintillating with unanswerable facts."

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY, Publishers, 30 Lafayette Place, NEW YORK.

The Christ Dream.

12mo, cloth, 275 pp., $1.20.

A series of twenty-four sermons in which illustrations of the Christ ideal are thrown upon the canvas, showing here and there individuals who have risen above the selfish, and measure up to the Christ dream. In tone it is optimistic and sees the bright side of life.

White Slaves; or, The Oppression of the Worthy Poor.

Fifty illustrations. 12mo, cloth, 327 pp., $1.50.

The Rev. Dr. Banks has made a personal and searching investigation into the homes of the poorer classes, and in the "White Slaves" the results are given. The work is illustrated from photographs taken by the author; and the story told by pen and camera is startling. It should be borne in mind that the author's visits were made to the homes of the worthy poor, who are willing to work hard for subsistence, and not to the homes of the criminal and vicious.

The Honeycombs of Life.

A Volume of Sermons. 12mo, cloth, 397 pp., $1.50.

Most of the discourses are spiritual honeycombs, means of refreshment and illumination by the way. "The Soul's Resources," "Cure for Anxiety," "At the Beautiful Gate," "The Pilgrimage of Faith," and "Wells in the Valley of Baca" are among his themes. The volume is well laden with evangelical truth, and breathes a holy inspiration. This volume also includes Dr. Banks's Memorial tribute to Lucy Stone and his powerful sermon in regard to the Chinese in America, entitled "Our Brother in Yellow."

Revival Quiver.

A Pastor's Record of Four Revival Campaigns. 12mo, cloth, 254 pp., $1.50.

This book is, in some sense, a record of personal experiences in revival work. It begins with "Planning for a Revival," followed by "Methods in Revival Work." This is followed by brief outlines of some hundred or more sermons. They have points to them, and one can readily see that they were adapted to the purpose designed. The volume closes with "A Scheme of City Evangelization." It seems to us a valuable book, adapted to the wants of many a preacher and pastor.

Common Folks' Religion.

A Volume of Sermons. 12mo, cloth, 343 pp., $1.50.

Boston Journal: "Dr. Banks presents Christ to the 'common people,' and preaches to every-day folk the glorious every-day truths of the Scripture. The sermons are original, terse, and timely, full of reference to current topics, and have that earnest quality which is particularly needed to move the people for whom they were spoken."

The People's Christ.

A Volume of Sermons and Other Addresses and Papers. 12mo, cloth, 220 pp., $1.25.

New York Observer: "These sermons are excellent specimens of discourses adapted to reach the masses. Their manner of presenting Christian truth is striking. They abound in all kinds of illustration, and are distinguished by a bright, cheerful tone and style, which admirably fit them for making permanent impression."

Heavenly Trade-winds.

A Volume of Sermons. 12mo, cloth, 351 pp., $1.25.

From author's preface: "The sermons included in this volume have all been delivered in the regular course of my ministry in the Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal Church, Brooklyn. They have been blessed of God in comforting the weary, giving courage to the faint, arousing the indifferent, and awakening the sinful. They are given to the printer with an earnest prayer that, wherever they go, they may indeed be Heavenly Trade-winds, bringing benediction of spiritual help and blessing."

Immortal Hymns and Their Story.

The Narrative of the Conception and Striking Experiences of Blessing Attending the Use of some of the World's Greatest Hymns. With 21 Portraits and 25 full-page half-tone illustrations by NORVAL JORDAN. 8vo, cloth, gilt top, 313 pp., $3.00.

THE LATEST EDUCATIONAL MASTERPIECE.

"I believe that it will prove to be the best Students' Dictionary of the English language in existence."
William Hayes Ward, D.D., Editor New York Independent.

THE

Students' Standard Dictionary

Carefully edited by JAMES C. FERNALD,

Editor of Synonyms, Antonyms, and Prepositions in the New Standard Dictionary.

Assisted by a large corps of experienced and skilled collaborators

The latest, most ample, and most valuable academic dictionary in existence. Its vocabulary is of extraordinary richness, containing nearly double the number of terms found in the largest academic dictionaries heretofore in use. In its surpassing definitive excellence, in the thoroughness of its etymologies, and in its rhetoric and educational features it contains the concentrated value of its parent work, the Standard Dictionary.

FEATURES OF UNSURPASSED EXCELLENCE.

62,284 Vocab. Terms	6,593 Synonyms	2,000 Antonyms
1,000 Prepositions	1,225 Illustrations	915 8vo. Pages

ITS SCOPE AND EDUCATIONAL VALUE.

A RICH VOCABULARY The Vocabulary, which is comprehensive and of unequaled richness, preserves the distinguishing features of the parent work and aims to meet the combined needs of teachers and students. It exceeds by many thousands of terms the vocabulary of any other similar English work.

SPELLINGS PRONUNCIATIONS The Spellings and Pronunciations were under the supervision of the Standard Dictionary committee of fifty leading philologists and educators. The pronunciation is accurately indicated by the Scientific Alphabet which was prepared and promulgated by the American Philological Association.

COMPLETE DEFINITIONS The Definitions are clear and exact and are made as thorough as possible by presenting accurate meanings and distinctions; by giving a definitive clue to the great departments and divisions of knowledge; and by making the general definitions comprehensive and exhaustive.

THOROUGH ETYMOLOGIES The Etymologies are far more numerous than those given by other school dictionaries, and being placed after the definitions do not impede consultation. The meaning of each word has been traced back in a direct line, avoiding mere guesses at derivations and the temptation to make incursions into cognate languages.

COMPARISON SHOWS ITS VAST SUPERIORITY.

THE LATEST VALUABLE CONTRIBUTION TO THE LITERARY AND EDUCATIONAL WORLD.

ITS SPECIAL FEATURE Scarcely any two words called synonyms have exactly the same meaning. Heretofore in collections of synonyms, only the list of words have been furnished, and the user has been obliged to make his own discriminations. In this book, the different shades of meaning in all the 7,500 synonyms are compared and contrasted and the differences of meaning and usage explained. The great value of synonyms as contributing beauty and effectiveness to expression depends upon this discrimination.

A DOUBT CLEARER Mistakes in the use of prepositions are frequent. The average writer requires a means of quick and easy information, such as is afforded by the valuable method used in this book. Of this method the following illustration serves as an example: Under "Plead"—prepositions: Plead with the tyrant for the captive; plead against the oppression or oppressor; plead to the indictment; at the bar; before the court; in open court.

CLEAR, SHARP DISTINCTIONS In comparison and contrast the choice of many opposite words is essential to the strength, clearness, and beauty of the syntax. A list of antonyms is given with almost every group of synonyms, supplying direct contrasts and furnishing the most effective aid for antithesis or negation. There are about 4,000 antonyms, the number seeming to be less than that of synonyms, simply because in many cases the synonyms of one group are also the antonyms of another.

VALUABLE EDUCATIONAL FEATURES

This is the first book of synonyms which has been expressly prepared to meet the wants of a text-book. A series of practical exercises is supplied in which are included questions accompanied by quotations from the best authors with blanks to be filled by the students. Special directions are furnished to the teacher. The work is particularly useful also to the individual student.

Prof. T. W. Hunt, Princeton University: "It will be of practical service to students of English in the forming of a concise and discriminating diction. It will do much to correct the growing looseness of style in speech and writing. The discussion of antonyms is especially timely, while the frequent references to authors and the extracts from them serve to add variety to a volume necessarily didactic."

Geo. P. Merrill, M.S., U. S. National Museum, Washington: "It is brief, concise, easy of reference, and at the same time sufficiently explicit to meet all ordinary demands. The introduction of illustrative matter showing that synonyms are by no means identical in meaning is an excellent feature of the work; one that cannot fail to add greatly to its value, particularly with students and younger writers."

Dr. Herrick Johnson, McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago: "For clearness, precision, discrimination, and comprehension I do not hesitate to commend 'English Synonyms, Antonyms, and Prepositions,' as superior to anything of the kind within my knowledge."

LATEST AND COMPLETEST INFORMATION ON SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC QUESTIONS

The Review of Reviews says: ". . . It will stand in years to come as an epitome of the social and economic conditions and the state of human progress in the last decade of the nineteenth century."

Encyclopedia of Social Reforms

Edited by W. D. P. BLISS,

With the Cooperation of many Eminent Specialists.

It is unsurpassed in its field and is the only work published that contains the most recent and authoritative information on all the principles underlying the social, industrial, and economic movements of the whole world. Not merely a compilation of tables or statistics, altho it contains these in the richest abundance, it presents concise expert statements by the most eminent authorities on sociological subjects. It is at once an encyclopedia of Sociology, Political Economy, Political Science, Wealth and Wages, etc., etc.

POINTS OF INDISPUTABLE SUPERIORITY.

IT'S WIDE SCOPE It puts side by side in authoritative statements the views, theories, and utterances of all schools of sociological and economic thought. Thus the reader is enabled to closely and clearly analyze both sides of all the important topics treated.

HIGHEST AUTHORITIES It is largely the work of the highest authorities, and thus brings together a wider collection of accurate facts than has ever before been concentrated on questions of social reform. Biographical portions are limited to authorities having national recognition

OTHER INVALUABLE POINTS

APPENDIX FEATURES Its appendix contains a complete chronology of Social Reforms by subjects and countries, charts showing distribution of wealth in the United States; wages and hours of labor in Gt. Britain; rise and fall of wages in the United States; Platforms of Political Parties, etc.

REFERENCE FACILITIES Besides the extraordinary advantage of its cyclopedic arrangement, it is rendered still more valuable for ready reference by the use of black-face reference notes on nearly all the pages. Every facility for ready consultation has been afforded.

HIGHLY COMMENDED.

The New York Times: "This work is a necessity in any well-appointed library."

Commercial Advertiser, New York: "Contains the most recent and authoritative information on all the principles underlying the social, industrial, and economic movements of the world."

Charles H. Parkhurst, D.D.: "Every effort toward what is further on must be based upon a groundwork of ascertained conditions. A volume that gives these conditions renders an invaluable service."

Large Octavo, 1447 pp. Net Prices: Cloth, $7.50; Sheep, $9.50; Half Morocco, $12; Full Morocco, $14.

The Homiletic Review.

An International Monthly Magazine of Religious Thought, Sermonic Literature, and Discussion of Practical Issues of Vital Importance to Clergymen of all denominations. 8vo, 96 pages.

NOW IN ITS TWENTY-FIRST YEAR.

Philip Schaff, D.D., LL.D.: "It is the best periodical I know of its kind. One need only look at the variety of contents and the names of writers, including some of the ablest American and foreign pulpit orators and divines, to be convinced of its practical value to preachers of the gospel."

Joseph Parker, D.D. (author of Parker's People's Bible), London, England: "THE HOMILETIC REVIEW is month by month acquiring larger circulation and influence in this country. I look upon it as the best periodical of its kind."

The Central Baptist, St. Louis, Mo.: "One of the problems that we have never yet been able to solve is how a pastor can get along without THE HOMILETIC REVIEW. . . . It is a theological seminary in miniature."

Subscription, $3.00 per year; to Clergymen and Theological Students, in Advance, $2.50; Single Copies, 30 Cents.

The Missionary Review of the World

A Monthly Magazine of Missionary Intelligence and Discussion, covering every mission in every country of the world. Undenominational and broad in its scope. It furnishes from month to month a bright and authentic record of the progress, statistics, and stirring events of the world-wide mission field. It has special staff correspondents in every country where there are Christian Missions, and its various departments, edited by eminent specialists, comprehend every feature of home and foreign missions. 8vo, 80 pages illustrated.

The Rock, London, England: "THE MISSIONARY REVIEW OF THE WORLD has its circulation both in America and England, and is the only complete current review of missionary operations and missionary problems in connection with all Protestant agencies the world over."

The Review of Reviews, London, in a critical estimate of the missionary periodicals of the day, written by the editor of the Missionary News, says: "THE (American) MISSIONARY REVIEW OF THE WORLD is far away the best thing out. In every respect—literary style, breadth, news, get-up, right; but of course, such a big thing as Britishers have not dreamed of in missions."

Subscription, $2.50 per year; to Clubs of Ten or more, $2.00 per year; Five Subscriptions, two of which may be renewals, $11.00; Per Copy, 25 cents. For Addresses to Foreign Countries outside of the Postal Union, $1.00 extra must be added for postage; inside the Postal Union, 50 cents extra. No extra postage to Canada or Mexico.

The Voice.

A Weekly Family Newspaper of 48 Columns, published every Thursday and containing News, Editorial, Household, and Fiction Departments of great value and interest in every home. THE VOICE ranks among the best family newspapers. Its corps of able, trained editors and contributors present in admirably condensed form, not only the most important current news at home and abroad, but terse essays upon almost every topic of interest to readers of every class—literature, art, science, history, biography, and fiction.

Ex-Judge Noah Davis: "It is conducted with remarkable energy and ability."

Herrick Johnson, D.D., Chicago: "THE VOICE is terse, vivid, varied, pungent, versatile, honest."

Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, ex-Mayor of New York: "I heartily sympathize with the good work which THE VOICE has been doing in reference to the great moral questions of the age."

Subscription, $1.50 per year. SAMPLE COPIES ON APPLICATION.

A. G. WILKINSON, Ph.D., a Principal Examiner in the United States Patent Office since 1869; formerly Professor of Languages, University of Missouri, says: "The high authority of the Standard Dictionary is one of the most important features. Being several years later than any other similar publication, and more distinctively the work of specialists in all departments of the language, its superiority in this respect is unquestioned. I should give it the preference on all disputed points. . . . It is the most perfect dictionary ever made in any language, and I have them and consult them in six different languages almost daily."

The Funk & Wagnalls

STANDARD DICTIONARY

OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

Also, Cyclopedia and Atlas of the World. 247 Editors and Specialists, and 533 Readers for Quotations; 301,865 Vocabulary Terms; 5,000 Illustrations, and 14 Superb Color Plates; A Complete Appendix; Cost nearly $1,000,000.

For Special Features, etc., see page 65 of Catalog.

THE ST. JAMES'S BUDGET (weekly edition of the St. James's Gazette), London, says: "The Standard Dictionary should be the pride of Literary America, as it is the admiration of Literary England."

Prof. SAYCE, of Oxford University, England, the Eminent Philologist, says: "The Standard Dictionary is truly magnificent, and worthy of the great continent which has produced it. It is more than complete. . . . It is certain to supersede all other existing dictionaries of the English language."

THE NEW YORK HERALD says: "It is a triumph in the art of publication. . . . It is the most satisfactory and most complete dictionary yet printed."

THE SATURDAY REVIEW, London, says: "The scheme and execution of the book are alike admirable. . . . In substantial merit we think the Standard Dictionary decidedly preferable to the much-advertised Century."

THE EDITOR OF THE ARENA, Boston, says: "Without desiring to disparage the excellent Century, the International, or Worcester's, I feel it simple justice to the Standard to say that in this case the latest is unquestionably the best Dictionary of the English Language."

E. J. PHELPS, ex-Minister to England, and Prof. of Law in Yale, says: "The work is extremely well done throughout. I have no doubt that for general and practical purposes it is the best American Dictionary now available."

Pres. E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Brown University, says: "I believe that the Standard Dictionary essentially fulfils the high ideal of its projectors. It is an out-and-out new product, and not, like our old dictionaries, the result of patching and amendment, little by little, the different pieces often added by many, many minds."

Judge TOWNSEND, Yale University, Professor of Law, says: "I have carefully compared the Standard with the Century and the Webster's International Dictionaries and as a result have already purchased two copies of the Standard Dictionary, and take pleasure in giving an order for a third copy. The plan, the execution, and the scope of the work make it indispensable."

NEW YORK OBSERVER says: ". . . It must be conceded a place before undreamed of and until now unfilled."

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES OF THE SUBSCRIPTION EDITION.

MISTAKES IN ORDERING

May easily be avoided by observing the following suggestions:—

(1) Always give full titles.

(2) State whether you wish editions with vocabulary or without.

(3) State what style of binding you wish, — paper, boards, or cloth.

(4) State whether you wish us to forward by Mail, Express, or Freight; if by express or freight, state by what Line.

☞ NOTE. — Our nominal introduction prices are now the same as our wholesale prices.

To a dealer ordering books for introduction, we give 10 per cent. from wholesale for handling, and pay transportation. But whenever the regular rate of discount to a dealer is more favorable to him than the above rate, we shall always give him the benefit of the better discount.

Terms for exchange will be given on application.

PLEASE REMEMBER

That all goods sent as ordered are not returnable, except by previous agreement.

That all claims for deduction should be made on receipt of goods.

That books sent by mail are at Purchaser's Risk.

That remittances can be made by Post Office Order, Registered Letter, Draft on Boston or New York, or by the money-order system of some responsible Express Company.

TERMS: Cash on the 15th of month following date of invoice, subject to sight draft if not sooner paid.

Walt Whitman, The Man

By Thomas Donaldson

Illustrated by (13) Portraits and fac-similes of rare documents, letters and manuscripts. Elegantly printed on fine deckle-edge book paper, and tastefully bound in cloth, gilt, gilt top, post 8vo, 300 pages. - - - - - $1.75

CHAPTER HEADINGS.

I. Mr. Whitman in Washington, 1862-73.
II-V. Mr. Whitman in Camden, 1873-92.
VI. Walt Whitman as a Lecturer.
VII. Walt Whitman's Literary Aims, Hopes, Expected Literary Results and Religious Views.
VIII. Mr. Whitman's Services to the Union, 1862-65.
IX. Mr. Whitman's Horse and Buggy, 1885.
X. Mr. Whitman's Friends and Correspondents, 1872-92.
XI. Mr. Whitman's Last Illness, Death and Burial, 1891-2.

A more readable volume of personal reminiscences it would be hard to produce. Mr. Donaldson was Mr. Whitman's friend for 30 years, and for the last 20 years of the latter's life, was in the closest and most constant intimacy with him.

Was General Thomas Slow at Nashville?

By General Henry V. Boynton

With a description of the Greatest Cavalry Movement of the War, and General James H. Wilson's Cavalry Operations in Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia. 12mo, cloth, uncut. 95 pages - - - - - - - $1.25 net
Edition limited to 450 copies, printed on hand made paper.

One of the most brilliant chapters in our war history—in fact in the history of cavalry in any war.
These movements are but little known to the general reader, for the reason that they were performed out of sight in Alabama and Georgia, while the attention of the country was fixed upon the Fall of Richmond and the great events immediately following it.

The Story of Nell Gwyn

BY PETER CUNNINGHAM

With the sayings of Charles II. With the author's latest corrections, edited with notes, life and introduction by Henry B. Wheatley, F.S.A., with all the illustrations, to which are added Four rare Portraits of Nell Gwyn, printed on Japan paper. Post 8vo, ornamental cloth, 288 pages. - - - - - - - $1.25

Cunningham's Story of Nell Gwyn is a standard, as the success of all the early editions testifies. This new edition at a popular price is sure to give satisfaction. It is beautifully printed from large, clear type, and makes a very handsome volume. The new portraits are from rare original engravings.

Poker Stories

BY J. F. B. LILLARD

As told by Statesmen, Soldiers, Lawyers, Commercial Travelers, Bankers, Actors, Editors, Millionaires, the Talent and Members of the Ananias Club. Embracing the most remarkable games from 1845-1895. Illustrated with comic tail pieces. 12mo, 250 pages, in cloth, with attractive color design - - - $1.00

Paper with color design. - - - - - - - - - - .50

The volume is divided into the following chapters: Told of Statesmen; Mississippi River Stories; Stories from the Effete East; Stories from the Wild and Woolly West; Pacific Coast Stories; Stories of War Times; Stories of High Stakes; Superstition and Hoodoos; Told at the Ananias Club; Told by the Kitty.

In Jail with Charles Dickens

BY ALFRED TRUMBLE

With interesting description of Newgate Without, Newgate Within, Fleet Prison, King's Bench, New York Tombs and Philadelphia Bastile. Folding plate of the Burning of old Newgate together with views of New York Tombs and Philadelphia Bastile, specially drawn for this work from photographs. 12mo, ornamental cloth, 149 pages - - - - - - - - - - $1.25

The author has been a student of Dickens from the days when the publication of his novels in serial form was a periodical event. Penology was one of Dickens's hobbies, and some of the most powerful passages in his books are those which have the scenes of action laid within the shadow of the jail. It was this fact which led to the writing of the volume.

Reminiscences of Literary London, 1779 to 1853

BY DR. THOS. REES AND JOHN BRITTON, F. S. A.

With interesting anecdotes of Publishers, Authors, and Book Auctioneers of that period. Edited by a book-lover. Illustrated by frontispiece on India Paper, and appropriate tail pieces. Square 12mo, cloth, gilt, 175 pages. - - $1.00

This charming volume, well printed on fine antique laid book paper, appropriately bound, is one of absorbing interest to every publisher, bookseller and book lover. All the familiar literary figures of that day, including authors, publishers, artists, illustrators and booksellers, are described with anecdote and reminiscences, told in the most readable style that holds the interest from cover to cover.

Among the men mentioned are Rivington, Longmans, Southey, Bohn, Walpole, T. F. Dibdin, Cruikshank, Murray, Wm. Hone, Chas. Lamb, Pierce Egan, and many others.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL EDITION OF

W. M. Thackeray's Complete Works

THIS NEW AND REVISED EDITION COMPRISES ADDITIONAL MATERIAL AND HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED LETTERS, SKETCHES, AND DRAWINGS, DERIVED FROM THE AUTHOR'S ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPTS AND NOTE-BOOKS.

ALREADY PUBLISHED:

April 15: VANITY FAIR June 15: YELLOWPLUSH PAPERS
May 17: PENDENNIS July 15: BARRY LYNDON

The edition is one which appeals peculiarly to all Thackeray lovers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Although we are not to have an authorized life of Thackeray, we are to have the next best thing, in the notes that his daughter, Mrs. Richmond Ritchie, has supplied to the biographical edition of her father's works.—Chicago Tribune.

The biographical introductions, which promise no little personalia fresh to most readers or not before collected, will together invest this edition with unique interest and give it a value which will easily place it at the head of editions of the great English novelist.—Literary World, Boston.

No one living could possess so intimate a knowledge of Thackeray as his own daughter, Mrs. Ritchie. Out of the opulence of this knowledge she is enriching the introductions to each novel with biographicalana which show how the raw material of experience was transmuted by Thackeray into the pure ore of imaginative literature.—N. Y. Herald.

Lovers of Thackeray will be delighted with "Vanity Fair," and will immediately get rid of any other edition which they possess and buy this one, and set it up on their shelves to be a delight to their eyes so long as they read anything.—Washington Times.

In this new edition of his works, which begins with "Vanity Fair," the lover of Thackeray will find ample cause for delight. First, as to the look of the volume itself—how could it be better at so moderate a cost? The type is clear, the paper good, the margins are sufficient, and the binding has a solid and comfortable appearance. . . . As for the portion contributed by Mrs. Ritchie—well, there is nothing we could spare.—Providence Journal.

To say that it fulfils all the expectations of the lover of Thackeray is to indulge in only slight praise. In outward and visible seeming, in type, printing, and binding, the book leaves little to be desired. If "Vanity Fair" is a sample of what is to come in the future volumes, this edition will surely be something for which it was worth while to wait. It will lend a fresh charm to the works of this brilliant genius, and will make his memory and his writings doubly precious and attractive.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Subsequent Volumes will be Issued in the Following Order:

5. Sketch Books, Etc. (To be published August 15).
6. Contributions to Punch.
7. Esmond, Etc.
8. The Newcomes.
9. Christmas Books, Etc.

HARPER'S LIBRARY OF SELECT NOVELS. 8vo, Paper.

☞ HARPER & BROTHERS will supply their "Library of Select Novels," in half binding [leather backs and pasteboard sides], suitable for Public and Circulating Libraries, at 25 cents, net, per volume in addition to the prices named below for the respective works in paper.

Novels are sweets. All people with healthy literary appetites love them—almost all women; a vast number of clever, hard-headed men. Judges, bishops, chancellors, mathematicians, are notorious novel readers, as well as young boys and sweet girls, and their kind, tender mothers.—W. M. THACKERAY.

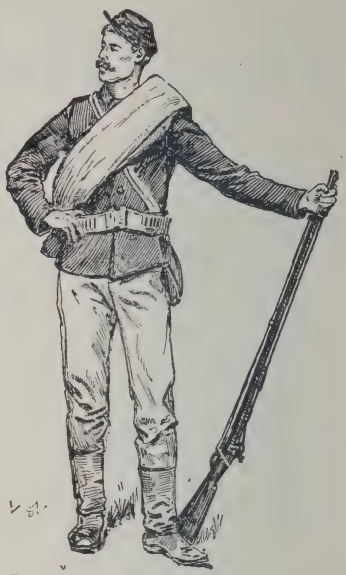
Books on the United States Army



From "Horse, Foot, and Dragoons."
Copyright, 1887, by Harper & Brothers.

By FREDERIC REMINGTON

Pony Tracks. With Illustrations by the Author. 8vo, Half Cloth, Ornamental, $1 75.

Mr. Remington, mounted on his pony, tracks around in many unknown places. You get quick and vivid pictures of Mexican ranches, you have hunting adventures, episodes of military devotion, and all the bright pictures of the far-West life. . . . This rapid pen work is none the less able because there is no premeditation about it. If that were not sufficient, we have added Mr. Remington's brightest and most telling sketches.—N. Y. Times.

Those who love the adventurous will find a rare charm in these inimitable sketches by Mr. Remington. — Boston Advertiser.

By ELIZABETH B. CUSTER

Boots and Saddles; or, Life in Dakota with General Custer. With Portrait of General Custer. 12mo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

A book of adventure is interesting reading, especially when it is all true, as is the case with "Boots and Saddles." . . . Mrs. Custer does not obtrude the fact that sunshine and solace went with her to tent and fort, but it inheres in her narrative none the less, and as a consequence "these simple annals of our daily life," as she calls them, are never dull nor uninteresting.—Evangelist, N. Y.

We have no hesitation in saying that no better or more satisfactory life of General Custer could have been written. Indeed, we may as well speak the thought that is in us, and say plainly that we know of no biographical work anywhere which we count better than this. . . . It is enriched in every chapter with illustrative anecdotes and incidents, and here and there a little life story of pathetic interest is told as an episode.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

By RUFUS FAIRCHILD ZOGBAUM

Horse, Foot, and Dragoons. Sketches of Army Life at Home and Abroad. With Illustrations by the Author. Square 8vo, Cloth, $2 00.

Every military man, regular or volunteer, will be delighted with the book. And persons unfamiliar with encampments and battles will relish its light-hearted but instructive contents.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

All who have served in the army of the United States, both during the Civil War and since, will be delighted with "Horse, Foot, and Dragoons."—Christian Advocate, N. Y.

The illustrations are equal to the text, and both convey striking pictures of military life in the United States.—Evangelist, N. Y.

Books on the United States Navy

By RUFUS FAIRCHILD ZOGBAUM

"All Hands." Pictures of Life in the United States Navy. Large 4to, Cloth, Ornamental, Full Gilt, $5 00.

The whole poetry, romance, hardship, excitement, pleasure, pain, and peril of naval life are exposed to view in these large-scale and striking pictures, which succeed one another, in great number and variety, with the rapidity of a quick-firing gun.—Literary World, Boston.

The series is both instructive and entertaining. It deals with every phase of life aboard the modern man-of-war, ranging from grave to gay, from peace to war, from cabin to forecastle. . . . Mr. Zogbaum's lively pictures afford us an excellent means of studying the life on board of "Uncle Sam's" new ironclads, and the publishers have grouped them conveniently in one of the season's handsomest gift-books.—Dial, Chicago.

One of the most noteworthy and fascinating of this season's rich array of art-books. This tall folio, hinting in the richness and harmony of its outward garb of the beauties within, is a striking revelation of how fairly Mr. Zogbaum has won his spurs as one of the foremost modern delineators of naval and military life. . . . No better mode of story-telling can be fancied than is given in this series of full-page and double-page drawings, each of which is as full of life and spirit as it is accurate in detail.—Literary News, N. Y.

By JAMES BARNES

Naval Actions of the War of 1812. With 21 Full-page Illustrations by CARLTON T. CHAPMAN, printed in tint or color, and 12 Reproductions of Medals. 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, Deckel Edges and Gilt Top, $4 50.

To revive the memories of the great deeds of our forefathers by land and sea is to foster patriotism, and this Mr. Barnes has done with admirable taste and spirit here. . . . We commend the volume earnestly to young and old.—Hartford Courant.

If one were to quaff the invigorating airs of the sea and feel like living in the midst of a genuine naval battle without the danger of intercepting shell or shot, it is only necessary to spend an hour or so over the new book of James Barnes.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

By J. D. JERROLD KELLEY

The Ship's Company, and Other Sea People. Illustrated. 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, Uncut Edges and Gilt Top, $2 50.

An interesting, discursive volume of nautical lore based on a long acquaintance with ships and the sea, and brought skilfully up to date. . . . The illustrations are many and are all first rate.—N. Y. Tribune.

Mr. Kelley is by no means inferior to his distinguished predecessors in delineating with vigor and force all that relates to the modern ship's company. He finds in them ample material to compose a volume which, from the point of view of contrast and literary merit, elevates him to a high level as a writer on sea topics.—N. Y. Evening Post.

ALBERT LEE

By Albert Lee

Four for a Fortune. A Tale. Illustrated by F. C. YOHN. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 25.

A lively book, and a good clean story of adventure for boys to read.—Washington Times.

One of the best stories of adventure published in a long time—a book that older people, as well as the younger generation, will find readable.—Baltimore Sun.

Tommy Toddles. Illustrated by PETER S. NEWELL. 16mo, Cloth, $1 25.

There is plenty of droll fun in this book. . . . We pity the person who can refuse to grin at some of the jocund surprises, sprung like steel-traps by the story's comical turns, preposterous as it is.—Independent, N. Y.

Certainly one of the most delicious children's books since the advent of "Alice in Wonderland." Any child, of large growth or small, who would not be heartily amused and interested by it is not worthy of consideration. . . . Every child in the land should have this book.—Interior, Chicago.

CATALOGUE OF BOOKS

PUBLISHED BY

H. L. HASTINGS,

47 Cornhill, Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

"I am much interested in all that H. L. Hastings writes."—Canon Wilberforce.

FAITH SERIES.

Four large attractive volumes, uniform in price and style of binding, but independent in matter, containing probably the fullest collection extant of remarkable and authentic answers to prayer. These books are worthy of a place in every household.

THE GUIDING HAND. Providential Direction, illustrated by authentic instances of relief and deliverance, etc., in times of trouble, direction through dreams and impressions, and guidance resulting in conversion. Recorded and collected by H. L. HASTINGS. This is a volume worthy the careful perusal of every one who desires to learn more of the Divine care over those who love God and seek to do his will. Crown 8vo. pp. 382. Paper, 50 cts.; fine cloth, $1.50

It would be well if Pantheists and other deniers of Divine Providence would only take the trouble to read the authentic instances in illustration of this doctrine, given by Mr. Hastings in his beautiful work bearing the title of The Guiding Hand.—Leeds Mercury.

This is a religious work of great value and should be in the home of every Christian in the land. In it they read of the Lord and how he assists his people with a Guiding Hand.—Southern World.

TALES OF TRUST. Instances of God's care and faithfulness in providing for his people, providential direction in the events of life, and especial guidance in the ministry of the Word of God. Recorded and collected by H. L. HASTINGS. Crown 8vo. pp. 382. Paper, 50 cts.; fine cloth, $1.50

A capital compilation, and we most heartily commend it to the favorable notice of our readers.—Amblerside Herald.

An excellent volume to pick up at odd moments, and seize upon an incident in the life of some child of God which beautifully illustrates the loving kindness and faithfulness of God to all who implicitly put their trust in him.—St. Louis Evangelist.

EBENEZERS; Or Records of Prevailing Prayer; including prayers for rescue, relief and blessing, the healing of bodily diseases, and conversion of the impenitent. Written and collected by H. L. HASTINGS. Crown 8vo. 382 pp. Paper, 50 cts.; fine cloth, $1.50

The volume before us cannot be read without exciting a very deep interest. It is packed full of thrilling personal experiences of answers to prayer, ... and should quicken Christian faith, and lead to more earnestness in public and private intercession. This book is well made, and is in every way worthy of careful examination.—Golden Rule, Boston.

PEBBLES FROM THE PATH OF A PILGRIM. Personal Reminiscences, of answers to prayer, of providential guidance and interposition, and of mission work among the freedmen of the South after the close of the Civil War. By Mrs. H. L. HASTINGS. A book that interests all who read it. It makes a handsome gift book, one that will be appreciated by the recipient. Fourteenth thousand. Crown 8vo. 319 pp. Paper, covers, 50 cts.; fine cloth, illustrated, with a fine portrait of Mrs. Hastings, $1.50

A member of Congress writes: "Pebbles has been read by me with great interest. The introductory chapter has followed me into my dreams. My copy is read to pieces by the family and borrowed to death by the neighbors." An editor says: "Surely the faith that 'wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions,' must have been given in large measure to the author of this truly remarkable book." "More fascinating than any romance."

The spirit of the volume is earnestly evangelical, while unsectarian to an exceptional degree.—The Graphic, London, England.

Marshall Brothers, Agents, 5a Paternoster Row, London, E. C., England.

Publications of H. L. Hastings, 47 Cornhill, Boston, Mass.

HOME SERIES.

The tone of this series of books is good and they will be, we trust, helpful to many and in leading the young aright.—GOLDEN RULE, Boston. We have often been at our wits' end to find something to read at our mothers' meetings. These volumes just meet our requirements.—E. W. BULLINGER, D. D., London, England.

Three attractive, large volumes, uniform in price and size, but independent in matter.

READINGS FOR LEISURE MOMENTS. A collection of Miscellanies, earnest, sensible, devout, and practical; applying Divine truth to daily duty, and encouraging to all good works. By H. L. HASTINGS. Crown 8vo. pp. 382. Paper, 50 cts.; fine cloth, with author's portrait, $1.50

Every line and word in its right place.—The Sword. Keenly pointed.—Michigan Christian Advocate. Sure to be blessed.—Northern Christian Advocate. Instructive and entertaining . . . . Nothing dull in a single figure.—Christian Union, London, England. We have no hesitation in commending it to our readers.—Episcopal Recorder, Philadelphia. They are short, readable articles on religious life and experience, full of vitality and anecdote. A fine portrait of the venerable author serves as frontispiece.—Morning Star.

FIRESIDE READINGS FOR HAPPY HOMES. Written and selected by H. L. HASTINGS. A collection of tales, sketches, incidents, and earnest words; instructive, stirring, and healthfully stimulating to young and old. Crown 8vo. pp. 382. Paper, 50 cts.; fine cloth, illustrated, $1.50

THE FAMILY CIRCLE. A collection of anecdotes and incidents adapted to interest, instruct, and profit all members of the family; furnishing delightful and useful reading for the home and abounding in facts and illustrations useful to ministers, teachers, evangelists, etc. By H. L. HASTINGS. Crown 8vo., pp. 318. Paper, 50 cts.; fine cloth, illustrated, $1.50

JUVENILES.

THE BABE OF BETHLEHEM. A Children's Rhyme of the Olden Time. By H. L. HASTINGS. Revised and enlarged. This is a beautiful book, and is prepared especially for the little ones. It brings the Christ story before them in a simple manner, easy to understand, and very attractive. It will make an appropriate gift for any child. Handsome paper covers, 25 cts.; fine cloth, with numerous illustrations, 50 cts.

The old story of the Babe of Bethlehem is told in simple rhyme, and presented in a form likely to be attractive to children.—House and Home. The wonderful story, which children love to hear, and for which wise men adore God, is here told in rhyme, with good illustrations. It is altogether a charming thing, and mothers are sure to buy it for their darlings.—Rainbow. Bold, clear type and good paper make this scripture narrative, cleverly told in rhyme, but printed in prose, attractive to the little ones.—Reformatory and Refuge Journal, London, England. Written in a simple and and attractive style and copiously illustrated with pictures. A most suitable gift for children.—Bournemouth Observer. The book is printed in large, clear type, has numerous engravings, and is well bound in handsome covers.—Berwick Warder.

HOW THE BABY WAS SAVED, and other Stories. By J. K. Hastings. With 23 illustrations. Bright covers. 15 cts.

BIBLE RHYMES AND BIBLE LESSONS for Sunday Schools and Families. By Anna Bell and H. L. Hastings. Numerous illustrations, 96 pages, manilla covers, 15 cts.: a doz., 1.35; 50, $5.00

A NEW LEAF, and What Was on It; with other Stories and Bible Picture Lessons, written by Mrs. Marie L. Seymour, and illustrated with thirty pictures. Bright covers, 15 cts.

THE UGLY GIANT. By J. K. Hastings. Illustrated with 27 pictures. Suitable for any boy who thinks a cigar will make a man of him. 15 cts.

GATHERED GEMS OF SONG AND STORY. Two hundred stories and poems for boys and girls, written and selected by H. L. HASTINGS, editor of THE CHRISTIAN. A new edition, plenty of pictures. Sunday-school teachers and superintendents will find this book especially useful, containing as it does such a large number of short, telling stories, which may be used to illustrate Scripture teachings, temperance talks, etc. Paper, 35 cts.; cloth, 75 cts.

This is a book which we should think any boy or girl would be glad to read. The pieces are mostly prose; all are brief; all teach generally by anecdote, and in a pleasant way, the simpler lessons of morality and religion. The author has evidently striven to produce a book that will be of real service in influencing the young to pursue those courses that tend to a noble manhood and womanhood. It is a good book for the Sunday-school library and the home circle.—Morning Star, Dover, N. H. The finish of this little volume is exquisite.—Pioneer-Press, St. Paul, Minn. You can hardly find a neater, more acceptable, or more useful present for your boy or girl. We shall take our copy home and read it to boys and we recommend all who have children to do the same.—Indiana Farmer.

BOOKS FOR STUDENTS.

Whatever comes from the consecrated heart and mind of this Christian editor, (H. L. Hastings) we think entitled to careful attention.—CONTRIBUTOR.

Six volumes that are indispensable for the library of any thorough student of Bible topics.

HUDSON'S GREEK-ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. A Critical Greek and English Concordance of the New Testament. Prepared by CHARLES F. HUDSON, B. A., under the direction of H. L. HASTINGS, Editor of THE CHRISTIAN. Revised and completed by EZRA ABBOT, D. D., LL. D., late Professor of New Testament Criticism and Interpretation in the Divinity School of Harvard University, to which is added GREEN'S GREEK-ENGLISH LEXICON to the New Testament. (See description of Lexicon below). Crown 8vo. 742 pages. Cloth, $2.00; half leather, $2.50

Hudson's Concordance is of especial value for the work of revision.—Dr. Phillip Schaff. An invaluable help in our revision.—Dr. B. F. Westcott, Cambridge, England. One of the few books regularly carried by me to our monthly revisers' meeting, and is always kept on hand on my study table.—Dr. J. H. Thayer. Every student must and will have it.—Zion's Herald. I have been so much helped by that handy and excellent book. Hudson's Concordance, that I feel constrained to mention it often to those for whom I have special regard. Every minister that can use the Greek New Testament should own this book.—Editor of The Academy News. The best and most interesting commentary on the changes the revisers have sanctioned. —Notes and Queries. For most scholars will supersede all others that occupy this field.—The Independent, New York.

A GREEK-ENGLISH LEXICON to the New Testament. Revised and enlarged by THOMAS SHELDON GREEN, M. A., with a preface by H. L. HASTINGS, Editor of THE CHRISTIAN, Boston, Mass., and a supplement prepared under supervision of J. H. THAYER, Professor of N. T. Criticism and Interpretation in the Divinity School of Harvard University, containing additional words to be found in one and another of the Greek texts in current use, especially those of Lachmann, Tischendorf, Tregelles, Westcott and Hort, and the Revisers of 1881. Paper. 240 pp., 35 cts.; cloth, 85 cts.

THE REIGN OF CHRIST ON EARTH, or the Voice of the Church in all Ages, concerning the Personal Reign of Christ on the new earth. Extracts from the writings of more than five hundred of the most eminent preachers and writers. By Daniel T. Taylor; edited with an elaborate preface, by H. L. HASTINGS. 600 pp. Cloth, $1.00

A very elaborate and well arranged statement of authorities upon that highly important subject. I doubt not that it is well adapted to be eminently useful and acceptable.—John H. Hopkins. D. D., Bishop of Vermont. A collection of authorities which will enable the reader to grasp the whole subject, without collating from many sources.—Philadelphia Methodist.

MURDOCK'S MOSHEIM'S CHURCH HISTORY. Institutes of Ecclesiastical History from the birth of our Saviour to the eighteenth century. By JOHN LAWRENCE MOSHEIM, D. D., Chancellor of the University of Göttingen; translated with a preface, and enriched by thousands of critical and biographical notes, by JAMES MURDOCK, D. D., late Professor of Ecclesiastical History, at Andover Theological Seminary. A new edition, with portrait of the translator, and biographical sketch by H. L. HASTINGS. Three volumes in one, large 8vo., pp. 1500, strongly bound in half morocco, $4.00

Dr. J. A. ALEXANDER, in his Notes on New Testament History and Ecclesiastical History, pp. 185–186, speaks thus of Dr. Mosheim:

The works of Mosheim are distinguished by a thorough knowledge of the subject, rare acuteness and sagacity in critical conjecture and historical combination, great completeness and exactness as to the essential facts of history and especially by classical elegance of Latin style.

MURDOCK'S SYRIAC NEW TESTAMENT. Translated into English from the Peshitto Version New Testament by JAMES MURDOCK, D. D., late Professor of Learned Languages in the University of Vermont; and of Sacred Rhetoric and Ecclesiastical History in Andover Theological Seminary; Member of the American Oriental Society, etc.; with a portrait of translator, and a biographical sketch, with a historical introduction, by H. L. HASTINGS, Editor of THE CHRISTIAN, and a bibliographical appendix, by ISAAC H. HALL, Ph. D., Litt. D., late Curator of the Metropolitan Art Museum, New York. One volume, 8vo., pp. 525. Half leather, $2.50

Your new edition of Murdock's Translation of the Peshitto Syriac New Testament into English came to hand. . . . I find the version most faithful. Taken as a whole, remarkably well executed and deserves a wide circulation. Your introduction . . . . and the account of the Syriac translations, by Dr. Hall greatly enhance the book's value.—Henry M. Harman, Dickinson College, Carlisle, Penn.

The Historical Introduction by HORACE L. HASTINGS reads like a romance, and ISAAC H. HALL'S Appendix will remain useful to all students . . . It is now a companion to the Syriac New Testament like that of Schaff to the Greek and English; two books which our German students of divinity must envy their English and American fellows.—Prof. Dr. E. Nestle, of Tübingen, Germany.

THE ERRORS OF EVOLUTION. An examination of the Nebular Theory, Geological Evolution, the Origin of Life, and Darwinism. By Robert Patterson, D. D., with an introduction by H. L. HASTINGS. 267 pages, cloth, $1.00

THE ANTI-INFIDEL LIBRARY.

I do not know of anything in the English tongue that meets the current skepticism so well as these.—ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D. Mr. Hastings is doing a public service in issuing his Anti-Infidel Library.—CHRISTIAN EVANGELIST. These works can be confidently commended as able and conclusive.—THE ROCK, London.

All five-cent numbers may be had at 50 cents a dozen; $2 a hundred; $15 a thousand.

14. NUMBER IN NATURE: An Evidence of Creative Intelligence: Giving Proof of Divine Wisdom in the Unseen Contriver and Creator of all things, as seen in astronomy, in chemistry, in the laws of planetary motion, in chemical proportions, in crystallization, in vegetation, in animal life, in the plumage of birds, in relation to light and air, in mathematics in the insect world, the septenary system of the Pentateuch, etc. A lecture delivered at New College, London, by EDWARD WHITE. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

15. ATHEISM AND ARITHMETIC: Or Mathematical Law in Nature, Disclosing the Existence of God: The Universe as an Invention, The Reign of Law, Arithmetic in a Corn-field, Arithmetic in Plants and Planets, The Law of Leaf Arrangement, Celestial Time-keeping, Chemical Science, Mathematics and Music, Arithmetic in Vital Action, The Law of Sevens Ruling All Life, Sabbaths, Jubilees, Tokens of an Omnipresent God; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 15 cts.; cloth, 35 cts.

16. ISRAEL'S MESSIAH: Or Why the Jews Reject Christ. An argument for the Messiahship of Jesus of Nazareth, taking up the objections to his genealogical record, and showing that Jesus is the true Messiah, and should be received by both Jew and Gentile; by H. L. HASTINGS. Published in English, in Hebrew, and in Hebrew-German Jargon. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

17. ISRAEL'S GREATEST PROPHET: A compact and forcible argument addressed to skeptics, and especially to those of Jewish birth, showing the fulfillment of prophecy in the case of the Jews, the predictions of the overthrow of Jerusalem, the dispersion of the Jewish nation, the oppressions inflicted on the Jewish people, the deceptions of the nation by false Messiahs, the treading down of Jerusalem by their enemies,—all of which prove conclusively that Jesus of Nazareth was the great successor of Moses the Prophet of Israel, and that through rejecting Him calamities have come upon the nation from which they can only escape by looking on Him whom they have pierced, and turning to know the Lord. By H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla covers, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

18. THE WONDERFUL LAW: An Examination of the Law of Moses: Demonstrating its righteousness, humanity, and its Divine origin, and showing it to be superior to any other code of laws; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 30 cts.; fully illustrated, fine cloth, $1.

One of the most practical answers to the cavils of skeptics as to Mosaic Code that has ever been written. —Evangelical Messenger.

19. THE SEPARATED NATION: The Jews; giving a sketch of their character and training, their persecutions, their longevity, their morality, the reasons for their dispersion, and their hope of the true Messiah; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla covers, 35 cts.; fine cloth, with numerous portraits and illustrations, (In press.) $1.25.

20. FOURTEEN NUTS For Skeptics To Crack: A series of single leaf tracts, which may be circulated separately or together, comprising: A Healthy Religion, The Skeptical Shoemaker, Infidelity in a Timber Camp, Nature and God, The Old Woman's Question, Going Without a Religion, Man Overboard, Random Readings, A True Book, A Big Contract, Believing and Understanding, The Lawyer's Sunday School, The Hen and the Egg, etc.; by H. L. HASTINGS. Second hundred thousand. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

The author fully sustains the reputation he has long had as a fair, logical, racy, and pungent writer in defense of the holy Scriptures.—Free Methodist.

21. A WARNING WORD Concerning the Spread of Infidelity in Christendom and Heathendom: The substance of an address delivered before the Ministerial Association at Saratoga, N. Y., showing the prevalence of Infidelity in Christendom and Heathendom, the dangers resulting from it, the importance of resisting it, and the best methods of dealing with this increasing evil; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

22. SPIRITUAL MANIFESTATIONS: Their Nature and Significance; by WILLIAM RAMSEY, D. D., edited with additions by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

26. THE DEPTHS OF SATAN: A Solution of Spirit Mysteries; by WILLIAM RAMSEY, edited with additions by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

27. IS THE BIBLE A TRUE BOOK? A Lecture delivered in Hope Hall, Liverpool, England, Canon Taylor in chair, giving the evidences of the truthfulness of the Holy Scriptures; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

28. TRYING THE SPIRITS: An Examination of Modern Spiritualism; giving tests by which we may know whether spirits can be depended upon; by H. L. HASTINGS, being Part VI. of a series of essays on Spiritualism. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

29. REACHING THE MASSES: An Address before the Methodist Preachers' Meeting in Wesleyan Hall, Boston; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

Boston, Mass., U. S. A., H. L. Hastings: London, E. C., 5a Paternoster Row, Marshall Brothers.

THE ANTI-INFIDEL LIBRARY.

There is no question of their mighty power for good, wherever circulated.—G. F. PENTECOST, D. D. I am acquainted with them and think well of them.—BISHOP RYLE, of Liverpool. So far as I have seen the best thing there is for answering the questions of our skeptical friends.—LORD RADSTOCK. Admirable.—GOLDEN RULE, Boston.

All five-cent numbers can be had at 50 cents a dozen; $2 a hundred; $15 a thousand.

30. ANCIENT HEATHENISM and Modern Spiritualism: A collection of facts extending over 2,500 years, showing that Modern Spiritualism is identical with the Heathenism of ancient times; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

31. PRIMITIVE CHRISTIANITY and Modern Spiritualism: A comparison between the two, showing that Spiritualism is not identical with Primitive Christianity, but was ever opposed to it; by H. L. HASTINGS, being Part VIII. of a series of essays on Spiritualism. A very valuable series for investigators. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

32. WITNESS OF SKEPTICS to the Truth of the Bible: An array of Scripture prophecies with their fulfillments shown by extracts from Infidel writers; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

33.* THE TESTIMONY OF HISTORY to the Truth of Scripture: Historical Illustrations of the Old Testament, gathered from Ancient Records, Monuments and Inscriptions; by GEO. RAWLINSON, M. A., with additions by PROF. H. B. HACKETT, and a preface and index by H. L. HASTINGS. This valuable work surveys the whole field of Biblical History, notes the points of contact between profane history and divine revelation, and answers a host of infidel cavils and objections. Manilla, (Not sold in Great Britain.) 35 cts.; cloth, 80 cts.

34. WITCHCRAFT: Is it a Reality or a Delusion? A sketch of the History of Witchcraft, and the witch-hunts of other times; showing that witchcraft is as prevalent now as in ages past; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

35. NECROMANCY: Or the Consulting of the Dead: Showing what the Scriptures say concerning this practice; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

36. WAS MOSES MISTAKEN? Or Creation and Evolution: An exposition of the folly and absurdity of Atheistic evolutionary theories; by H. L. HASTINGS. Illustrated edition, 64 pages, with covers, 15 cts.; 1 dozen, $1.20; 100 copies, $7.50. Edition for distribution, without illustrations, 32 pages, 5 cts., 100 copies, $2; 1000 copies, $15. Also bound in fine cloth, with "Remarks on the Mistakes of Moses," and "A Volley of Grape Shot," with illustrations, $1.

The best thing I have heard in ten years.—Ira D. Sankey. I have not been so moved and entertained in an age.—Joseph Cook. In this exquisite tract, the author strikes some telling blows at infidelity. His masterly presentation of incontrovertible facts clearly shows the utter fruitlessness of the objections which skeptics oppose to Moses. This excellent Anti-Infidel tract richly deserves an extensive circulation.—Methodist Recorder. An excellent antidote to the theory of evolution.—Woman's Voice. An effective and masterly popular refutation of evolution as opposed to Genesis. Good reading for everybody.—Evangelical Messenger.

37. THE HIGHER CRITICISM: A Review of the methods and conclusions of some of the Higher Critics of the present day, showing their inconsistencies and contradictions, the uncertainty, both of their premises and conclusions, and their unreliability as guides in the study of the Word of God; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; pa., 5 cts.

Wisdom and wit—keen-edged and far-reaching—these are what I find in Mr. Hastings' Higher Criticism. I wish it a world-wide circulation, like that of his essay on the Inspiration of the Bible.—Joseph Cook. We have nothing popular on the subject half so good. I shall order some and spread them.—Rev. Edward White, London, England.

38. JESUS OF NAZARETH As a Higher Critic: A statement of the reasons why, from a human point of view, Jesus of Nazareth was a better judge concerning the authenticity and truthfulness of the Old Testament records than any modern critic can possibly be; so that in accepting and endorsing the Old Testament Scriptures, He laid a foundation for our faith on which we may safely rest; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

39. THE PENTATEUCH: Its Origin and Authorship: An argument for the antiquity, authenticity, and truthfulness of the Books of Moses; including an account of the Samaritan Pentateuch; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

"There are a very large number of persons who would like to get the Pentateuchal controversy in a nutshell, but have no time to read octavos on the subject. To all such this pamphlet is recommended."—Western Christian Advocate.

40. THE MORAL ASPECTS of the Higher Criticism: An Examination of the Distinction between Truth and Falsehood, as laid down in the Scriptures; with an enquiry as to the development of character to be expected under the teachings, that the law of Moses was a forgery, that the prophets were deceived and mistaken, and that large portions of the Scriptures were simply frauds and false prophecies spoken in the Lord's name; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

41. SPECIMEN BRICKS from the Babel of the Higher Critics: An examination of some of the statements of Higher Critics, theological professors, and religious editors who claim that the prophets were mistaken, and that the Scriptures swarm with errors; containing samples of their so-called "errors" and "discrepancies," and solutions of the difficulties; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

42. CHRISTIANITY AND SCIENCE: By DANIEL T. Manilla, 10 cts.; pa., 5 cts.

Boston, Mass., U. S. A., H. L. Hastings: London, 5a Paternoster Row, E. C., Marshall Brothers.

THE ANTI-INFIDEL LIBRARY.

We unhesitatingly recommend these books and pamphlets as most helpful to those who would be most thoroughly furnished to meet the skepticism of the age.—ZION'S HERALD, Boston.

Admirable in every particular.—Rev. J. H. BROOKS, D. D.

All five-cent numbers can be had at 50 cents a dozen; $2 a hundred; $15 a thousand.

43. MORE BRICKS from the Babel of the Higher Critics: A detailed examination of some of the accusations and assertions of the Higher Critics to the discredit of the Sacred Scriptures; by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

Though small in size this pamphlet is weighty in argument, and the reasoning is incisive.—Herald of Life. Just what is needed by the clergymen and the laymen who would be intelligent in the controversy between inspiration and the so-called Higher Criticism. —Free Methodist.

44. PLAIN TRUTHS FOR PLAIN PEOPLE: by H. L. HASTINGS; Second Hundred Thousand. Contains Twelve Plain Truths, plainly stated, proved by seventy-three passages of Scripture, and confirmed by 140 quotations from the writings of eighty of the most noted fathers, reformers, theologians, critics, evangelists, and poets the church has known. The last page contains a Pictorial Outline of the Prophetic Coast—the great image of Daniel ii. being represented by a seacoast, with landmarks, light-houses, etc.,—and a little ship rounding the last point and making for the harbor. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

45. SKEPTICAL OBJECTIONS and How to Meet Them: A Lecture by H. L. HASTINGS; delivered before the Open Air Mission, in the Wesleyan Mission Rooms, Bishopsgate Street, London, discussing such subjects as: The Origin of Woman, Where Did Cain Get His Wife? Christianity and Persecution, Were Christ's Teachings Borrowed from Buddha or Confucius? Is the Bible Contradicted by Science? The Deluge, Does the Bible Countenance Cruelty? The Man After God's Own Heart, and other skeptical objections, with practical hints, and suggestions as to methods of dealing with skeptics. Manilla, 10 cts.; pa., 5 cts.

46. A VOLLEY OF GRAPE SHOT for the Armies of the Aliens: By H. L. HASTINGS and others. Illustrated, manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts. Also bound together with "Remarks on the Mistakes of Moses," and "Was Moses Mistaken?" fine cloth, illustrated, artistic cover designs, $1.00. The seventeen leaflets comprising this pamphlet also published separately under the general title of Grape Shot, are very valuable for distribution at slight outlay. By the pound, 50 cts.; 1000 copies, $1.00. Sample packet, assorted, 10 cts.

A series of leaflets which contains the substance of many volumes, and may be well termed a condensed library of Christian Evidences.—Field Record.

47. A FAMOUS YOUNG MAN and the Secret of His Greatness. Being the address of H. L. HASTINGS, before the Fourteenth International Convention of the United Societies of Christian Endeavor, Boston, '95. Manilla, 10 cts.; pa., 5 cts.

48. A STUDY OF THE PENTATEUCH for Popular Reading: By RUFUS P. STEBBINS, D. D. A clear and forcible analysis of the fallacies of the Higher Critics in relation to the Pentateuch. Manilla, 40 cts. Also in "Higher Critics Criticised," fine cloth, $1.50.

49. THE BOOK OF DANIEL in the Light of the Higher Criticism: By I. D. STEELE, Nashville, Tenn. Edited with additions by H. L. HASTINGS. Manilla, 10 cts.; paper, 5 cts.

50. THE CREDIBILITY OF THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION: Or, Thoughts on Modern Rationalism. By SAMUEL SMITH, M. P. Cloth, 35 cts.; manilla, 25 cts.

Prices not marked with a star are wholesale. The discount for introduction will be quoted on request. Starred prices are retail, from which an extra discount is given.

In ordering books for introduction, please name the school into which they are to be introduced.

Please give full titles, and when ordering from a series, state explicitly which numbers in the series are desired, also state whether with or without a vocabulary, whether in paper or cloth binding, and whether the books ordered are for introduction or for regular supply.

Shipping directions should be given with great care, and it should be distinctly stated whether books are to be sent by mail, express or freight.

Small orders should be accompanied by remittance. This will avoid delay and relieve the publishers of keeping many small accounts.

Remittances should be made in stamps, post-office orders, express orders, or checks on New York, Boston, or Chicago.

Copies for examination. Any book in this list intended for regular class use will be sent for examination, with view to introduction, prepaid on receipt of the price given in this catalogue, or for twenty per cent less in case of starred prices. Upon receipt of an order for ten or more of the books for introduction, we will return the price paid for sample copy or enclose a free copy for the teacher's desk. A teacher applying for specimen copy for examination should give the name of his school and the subject taught by him.

Or, books will be loaned for examination with view to introduction.

Books not intended for class use are sent at regular rates only.

If the local booksellers do not keep our books for sale, we shall be glad to send them by express or freight to any part of the United States on receipt of the wholesale prices, or of 80 per cent. of the retail prices, given in this catalogue.

CONTAINS

A SERIES OF EXCLUSIVE ILLUSTRATIONS

of recent Archaeological Discoveries in Babylonia, Egypt, and Asia Minor. Showing Excavations, Sarcophagi, Obelisks, Tablets, and other Objects with Inscriptions, and Works of Art dating back to the Early History of the Human Race, and in a most remarkable manner confirming many of the Historical Statements of the Scriptures.

From originals in the possession of the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia; Imperial Ottoman Museum, Constantinople; Egyptian Museum, Gizeh; British Museum, London; Royal Museum, Berlin, and from Photographs taken on the spot by the Babylonian Expedition of the University of Pennsylvania.

Arranged and Described by

Professor H. V. HILPRECHT, Ph.D., D.D., LL.D.,

Professor of Assyrian and Comparative Semitic Philology, Curator of Babylonian Antiquities in the University of Pennsylvania, Assyriologist in charge of the Babylonian Expedition of the University of Pennsylvania, Editor in Chief of the great Babylonian excavation work, etc., etc.

SPECIMEN OF THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

PLATE— RUINS OF NIPPUR IN NORTHERN BABYLONIA.

(From a Photograph taken by the Babylonian Expedition of the University of Pennsylvania on the spot.)

Nos. 1, 2, 3: Three stages of the Temple of Bêl. No. 4: Excavated rooms separated from the Temple by a street. No. 5: Entrance of the Temple on the S. E. side. According to a Talmudic tradition, ancient Nippur is identical with the Biblical "Calneh, in the land of Shinar" (Genesis, 10: 10). The enormous excavations carried on there by the University of Pennsylvania since 1889 have proved that Nippur was indeed one of the earliest cities of the world. Its original foundations now lie buried about twenty feet below the present level of the surrounding desert. The ruins of the Temple rise nearly ninety feet above the plain. The city was inhabited from the remotest antiquity down to about A. D. 1000, one city being built on the ruins of another in successive strata.

The New Pictorial Edition

HOLMAN SELF-PRONOUNCING S. S. TEACHERS' BIBLE

EMBELLISHED WITH

OF

DISTRIBUTED THROUGHOUT THE TEXT.

THE ONLY PICTORIAL TEACHERS' BIBLE PUBLISHED.

THE Photographs from which these Views were made were taken but recently, and they therefore give correct representations of the present appearances of places made memorable by the sacred and historic associations of Bible times.

Each View is followed by a clear yet concise description of the scene which it portrays. The series begins with Photo-Views of places that we read of in the book of Genesis, and proceeds to show in an orderly arrangement panoramas of various cities and localities in Bible lands as they come into prominence from time to time throughout the entire period covered by the Old and New Testament narrative.

In addition to the foregoing series of superb Photo-Views, these Bibles also contain all the popular Aids and Helps to the Study of the Bible described on page 10.

CHAPTER 1.

1 The genealogy of Jesus Christ: 18 Mary's miraculous conception; 21, 23 his names, with their interpretation.

THE book of the generation of Jē′şus Chrīst, the son of Dā′vid, the son of Ā′brā-hăm.

2 Ā′brā-hăm begat Ī′şaac; and Ī′şaac begat Jā′cob; and Jā′cob begat Jū′das and his brethren;

3 And Jū′das begat Phā′rēş and Zā′rā of Thā′mar; and Phā′rēş begat Ĕs′rom; and Ĕs′rom begat Ā′ram;

17 So all the generations from Ā′brā-hăm to Dā′vid are fourteen generations; and from Dā′vid until the carrying away into Băb′y-lon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Băb′y-lon unto Chrīst are fourteen generations.

18 ¶ Now the birth of Jē′şus Chrīst was on this wise: When as his mother Mā′ry was espoused to Jō′şeph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Hō′ly Ghōst.

Unconquered land. JOSHUA, 13. Balaam slain.

20 The king of Shĭm'rŏn-mĕ'rŏn, one; the king of Ăch'shăph, one;
21 The king of Tā'a-năch, one; the king of Mĕ-gĭd'dō, one;
22 The king of Kĕ'dĕsh, one; the king of Jŏk'ne-ăm of Căr'mel, one;
23 The king of Dŏr in the coast of Dŏr, one; the king of the nations of Gĭl'gāl, one;
24 The king of Tĭr'zah, one: all the kings thirty and one.

CHAPTER 13.

2 Bounds of the land not yet conquered. 15 The two tribes and half, and tribe of Levi, excepted. 22 Balaam slain.

NOW Jōsh'u-à was old and stricken in years; and the LORD said unto him, Thou art old and stricken in years, and there remaineth yet very much land to be possessed.
2 This is the land that yet remaineth: all the borders of the Phĭ-lĭs'tĭnes, and all Gĕsh'u-rĭ,
3 From Sĭ'hŏr, which is before Ē'gўpt, even unto the borders of Ek'rŏn northward, which is counted to the Că'năan-ite: five lords of the Phĭ-lĭs'tĭnes; the Gā'zath-ites, and the Ăsh'doth-ites, the Ĕsh'ka-lon-ites, the Gĭt'tites, and the Ĕk'ron-ites; also the ā'vites:
which reigned in Ăsh'ta-rŏth and in Ĕd're-ī, who remained of the remnant of the giants: for these did Mō'ses smite, and cast them out.
13 Nevertheless the children of Ĭs'ra-el expelled not the Gĕsh'u-rites, nor the Mā-ăch'a-thites: but the Gĕsh'u-rites and the Mā-ăch'a-thites dwell among the Ĭs'ra-el-ites until this day.
14 Only unto the tribe of Lĕ'vi he gave none inheritance; the sacrifices of the LORD God of Ĭs'ra-el made by fire are their inheritance, as he said unto them.
15 ¶And Mō'ses gave unto the tribe of the children of Reu'ben inheritance according to their families.
16 And their coast was from Ăr'o-ēr, that is on the bank of the river Ăr'nŏn, and the city that is in the midst of the river, and all the plain by Mĕd'e-bā;
17 Hĕsh'bŏn, and all her cities that are in the plain; Dĭ'bŏn, and Bā'mŏth-bā'al, and Bĕth-bā'al-mĕ'on,
18 And Jā-hā'zà, and Kĕd'e-mŏth, and Mĕph'a-ăth,
19 And Kĭr-jath-ā'im, and Sĭb'mah, and Zā'reth-shā'hăr in the mount of the valley,
20 And Bĕth-pē'ŏr, and Ăsh'dŏth-pĭs'gah, and Bĕth-jĕsh'i-mŏth,
21 And all the cities of the plain,

Genealogy of Reuben, EXODUS, 7. Simeon, and Levi.

12 And Mō'sĕs spake before the LORD, saying, Behold, the children of Is'ra-el have not hearkened unto me; how then shall Phā'raōh hear me, who am of uncircumcised lips?

13 And the LORD spake unto Mō'sĕs and unto Aär'on, and gave them a charge unto the children of Is'ra-el, and unto Phā'raōh king of Ĕ'gўpt, to bring the children of Is'ra-el out of the land of Ĕ'gўpt.

14 ¶ These be the heads of their fathers' houses: The sons of Reu'ben the firstborn of Is'ra-el; Hā'nŏch, and Pāl'lu, Hĕz'rŏn, and Cär'mi: these be the families of Reu'ben.

15 And the sons of Sīm'e-on; Jĕmū'el, and Jā'min, and ō'hăd, and Jā'chin, and Zō'här, and Shā'ul the son of a Cā'năan-ĭt-ish woman: these are the families of Sīm'e-on.

16 And these are the names of the sons of Lē'vī according to their generations; gēr'shŏn, and Kō'hăth, and Mĕ-rā'rī: and the years of the life of Lē'vī were an hundred thirty and seven years.

17 The sons of gēr'shŏn; Lĭb'nī, and Shĭ'mī, according to their families.

18 And the sons of Kō'hăth; Ăm'thers of the Lē'vites according to their families.

26 These are that Aär'on and Mō'sĕs, to whom the LORD said, Bring out the children of Is'ra-el from the land of Ĕ'gўpt according to their armies.

27 These are they which spake to Phā'raōh king of Ĕ'gўpt, to bring out the children of Is'ra-el from Ĕ'gўpt: these are that Mō'sĕs and Aär'on.

28 ¶ And it came to pass on the day when the LORD spake unto Mō'sĕs in the land of Ĕ'gўpt,

29 That the LORD spake unto Mō'sĕs, saying, I am the LORD: speak thou unto Phā'raōh king of Ĕ'gўpt all that I say unto thee.

30 And Mō'sĕs said before the LORD, Behold, I am of uncircumcised lips, and how shall Phā'raōh hearken unto me?

CHAPTER 7.

1 Moses is encouraged to go to Pharaoh: 10 his rod turned into a serpent: 11 the sorcerers do the like. 13 Pharaoh's heart is hardened. 19 The river is turned into blood.

The kings of Edom. I. CHRONICLES, 2. The sons of Israel.

37 The sons of Reu'el; Nā'năth, Zē'rah, Shăm'mah, and Mīz'zah.
38 And the sons of Sē'ĭr; Lō'tan, and Shō'bal, and Zĭb'e-on, and A'nah, and Dī'shon, and Ē'zär, and Dī'shan.
39 And the sons of Lō'tan; Hō'rī, and Hō'mam: and Tĭm'nā was Lō'tan's sister.
40 The sons of Shō'bal; Ăl-ī'an, and Măn'a-năth, and E'bal, Shē'phī, and Ō'nam. And the sons of Zĭb'e-on; A-ī'ah, and A'nah.
41 The sons of A'nah; Dī'shon. And the sons of Dī'shon; Ăm'răm, and Ĕsh'băn, and Ĭth'ran, and Chē'ran.
42 The sons of Ē'zēr; Bĭl'hăn, and Zā'van, and Jā'kan. The sons of Dī'shan; Ūz, and A'răn.
43 ¶ Now these are the kings that reigned in the land of E'dom before any king reigned over the children of Ĭs'ra-el; Bē'là the son of Bē'or: and the name of his city was Dĭn'hă-bah.
53 Duke Kē'năz, duke Tē'man, duke Mīb'zar,
54 Duke Măg'dĭ-el, duke Ī'ram. These are the dukes of Ē'dom.

CHAPTER 2.

1 Sons of Israel. 3 Posterity of Judah. 18 Children of Jesse. 18 Posterity of Caleb, 21 of Hezron, 25 of Jerahmeel, 34 of Sheshan.

THESE are the sons of Ĭs'ra-el; Reu'ben, Sĭm'e-on, Lē'vī, and Jū'dah, Ĭs'sa-char, and Zĕb'u-lun,
2 Dăn, Jō'seph, and Bĕn'ja-min, Năph'ta-lī, Găd, and Ash'ēr.
3 ¶ The sons of Jū'dah; Ēr, and Ō'nan, and Shē'lah: which three were born unto him of the daughter of Shu'à the Cā'năan-īt-ess. And Ēr, the firstborn of Jū'dah, was evil in the sight of the LORD; and he slew him.
4 And Tā'mar his daughter in law bare him Phā'rĕz and Zē'rah. All the sons of Jū'dah were five.
5 The sons of Phā'rĕz; Hĕz'rŏn, and Hā'mūl.

47 The son of Mäh'lī, the son of Mū'shī, the son of Mĕ-rā'rī, the son of Lē'vī.
48 Their brethren also the Lē'-vītes were appointed unto all manner of service of the tabernacle of the house of God.
49 ¶But Aâr'on and his sons offered upon the altar of the burnt offering, and on the altar of incense, and were appointed for all the work of the place most holy, and to make an atonement for Ĭs'ra-el, according to all that Mō'şeş the servant of God had commanded.
50 And these are the sons of Aâr'-on; Ē-le-ā'zar his son, Phĭn'e-has his son, Ā-bīsh'u-ä his son,
51 Bŭk'kī his son, Ŭz'zī his son, Zĕr-a-hī'ah his son, this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I come in peace.

28 And Mi-cā'iah said, If thou return at all in peace, [q]the LORD hath not spoken by me. And he said, Hearken, O people, every one of you.

29 So the king of Is'ra-el and Je-hŏsh'a-phăt the king of Jū'dah went up to Ra'moth-gil'e-ăd.

30 And the king of Is'ra-el said unto Je-hŏsh'a-phăt, I will disguise myself, and enter into the battle; but put thou on thy robes. And the king of Is'ra-el [r]disguised himself, and went into the battle.

31 But the king of Sȳr'i-ă commanded his thirty and two captains that had rule over his chariots, saying, Fight neither with small nor great, save only with the king of Is'ra-el.

32 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Je-hŏsh'a-phăt, that they said, Surely it is the king of Is'ra-el. And they turned aside to fight against him: and Je-hŏsh'a-phăt [s]cried out.

33 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Is'ra-el, that as these which are of the daughters of the land, what good shall my life do me?

CHAPTER 28.

1 Jacob is blessed, and sent to Padan-aram: 10 his vision, and God's promise in a dream. 18 The stone at Beth-el. 20 Jacob's vow.

AND Ī′ṣaac called Jā′cob, and blessed [a]him, and charged him, and said unto him, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Cā′năan.

2 Arise, go to Pā′dan-ā′ram, to the house of Bĕth-ṳ′el thy mother's father; and take thee a wife from thence of the daughters of Lā′ban thy mother's brother.

circumcised keep the law; but desire to have you circumcised, that they may glory in your flesh.

14 But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jē'sus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world.

15 For in Chrīst Jē'sus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature.

16 And as many as walk according to this rule, peace be on them, and mercy, and upon the Is'ra-el of God.

17 From henceforth let no man trouble me: for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jē'sus.

18 Brethren, the grace of our Lord Jē'sus Chrīst be with your spirit. Ā-mēn'.

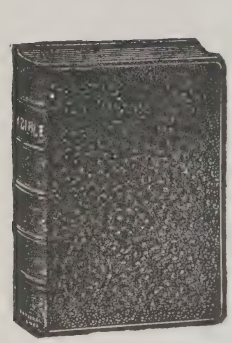
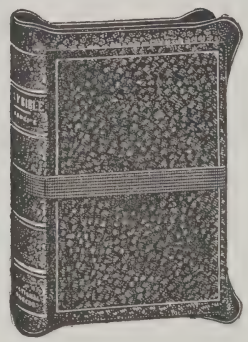
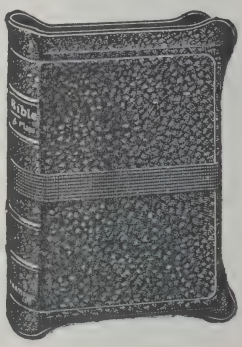
"International" German Bibles.

REFERENCE AND TEACHERS' BIBLES.







RECOGNIZING the demand for a series of GERMAN TEACHERS' BIBLES to correspond with the English lines, we have had made an entirely new set of German Bible plates in Bourgeois type. This page is a convenient size, and the book may be easily carried. The references are especially full. The Bibles have a very COMPLETE SET OF HELPS and the BEST MAPS, prepared by men of high scholarship. These Bibles have all the excellent qualities of the English Bibles, in paper, printing, and manufacture. THIS WILL BE THE ONLY LINE OF GERMAN TEACHERS' BIBLES IN THE WORLD. They are made with and without the Apocrypha. There are four series in the line, with thin and India paper editions. They will be found to answer all the requirements of the general trade.

In addition to the Teachers' Bibles, we have also prepared a line of GERMAN REFERENCE BIBLES, with the Apocrypha, and printed on thick and on India paper. An examination will show this to be an exceptionally good line.

ANY OF THESE BIBLES MAY BE HAD WITH INTERNATIONAL PATENT INDEX AT 35 CENTS ADDITIONAL.

REFERENCE AND TEACHERS' BIBLES.

RECOGNIZING the demand for a REVISED BIBLE WITH REFERENCES, we have prepared a line of LONG PRIMER SELF-PRONOUNCING REFERENCE REVISED BIBLES, both in verse and paragraph form, with and without the Teachers' Helps. They are published in a variety of neat and durable bindings. The page and book is of convenient size, although in large, clear type. We are confident of the quick response of the trade and the public. They are printed on special paper, combining the requisites clearness, opacity, and strength.

ANY OF THESE BIBLES MAY BE HAD WITH THE INTERNATIONAL PATENT INDEX AT 35 CENTS ADDITIONAL.

was exceeding glad because of the gourd.
7 But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd, that it withered.
8 And it came to pass, when the sun arose, that God prepared a sultry [f]east wind; and [g]the sun beat upon the head of Jō'nah, that he fainted, and requested for himself that he might die, and said, It is better for me to die than to live.
9 And God said to Jō'nah, Doest thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he said, I do well to be [h]angry even unto death.
10 And the LORD said, Thou hast had pity on the gourd, for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow; which came up in a night, and perished in a night:
11 And [i]should not I have pity on Nĭn'e-veh, that great city; wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons [j]that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and [k]also much cattle?

15(1) But it came to pass after a while, in the time of wheat harvest, that Samson visited his wife with a kid; and he said, I will go in to my wife into the chamber. But her father
2 would not suffer him to go in. °And her father said, I verily thought that thou hadst utterly hated her; therefore I gave her to thy companion: is not her younger sister fairer than she? take her, I pray thee, instead
(3 of her. °And Samson said ‖unto‖ them, ‖This time‖ [3]shall I be blameless ‖in regard of‖ the Philistines,
4 ‖when‖ I do them a ‖mischief‖. °And Samson went and caught three hundred [4]foxes, and took [5]firebrands, and turned tail to tail, and put a firebrand in the midst between ‖every‖ two tails.
5) °And when he had set the brands on fire, he let them go into the standing him, saying, No; but we will bind thee fast, and deliver thee into their hand: but surely we will not kill thee. And they bound him with two new ‖ropes‖, and brought him up from the (14 rock. °When he came unto Lehi, the Philistines shouted ‖as they met‖ him: and the spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and the ‖ropes‖ that were upon his arms became as flax that was burnt with fire, and his bands [6]‖dropped‖ from off his hands.
* 15 °And he found a new jawbone of an ass, and put forth his hand, and took it, and ‖smote‖ a thousand men there-

The saints' resurrection. 1 CORINTHIANS, 16. The manner of it.

25 For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet.
26 The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.
27 For he hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith, All things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted which did put all things under him.
28 And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all.
29 Else what shall they do which are the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.
50 Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.
51 Behold, I show you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed,
52 In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.
53 For this corruptible must put on in-

13 There shall not an hand touch it, but he shall surely be stoned, or shot through; whether it be beast or man, it shall not live: when the l trumpet soundeth long, they shall come up to the mount.

14 ¶ And Moses went down from the mount unto the people, and sanctified the people; and they washed their clothes.

15 And he said unto the people, Be ready against the third day: n come not at your wives.

16 ¶ And it came to pass on the third day, in the morning, that there were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud; so that all the people that was in the camp trembled.

"CLEAR TYPE MAKES EASY READING."

COMMENDATIONS.

Sunday School Times.
"This Teachers' Manual, as the helps are called, is deserving of high praise. It is up to date, well selected, full of life. The arrangement is simple and clear, the illustrations and maps new and admirable. . . . . The portion of the manual devoted especially to the New Testament is decidedly better than the similar portion in the 'Aids' appended to other Teachers' Bibles up to the present time. . . . In Part III. Dr. Plummer contributes the 'Summary of Books for the New Testament.' This monograph may be regarded as one of the best popular treatises on New Testament introduction. . . If faithfully used, it will do much to increase accurate knowledge of the Word of God. . . It marks progress toward the true ideal."

Rev. Harlan P. Beach, Superintendent School for Christian Workers, Springfield, Mass.
"In a word, it is a PRACTICAL and SPIRITUALLY helpful Bible, and especially adapted to SUNDAY-SCHOOL workers, and it is one which in the TEXT itself, which is read far more than the Helps, furnishes the LARGEST, CLEAREST TYPE that can be found in similar compass."

Rev. A. E. Dunning, D.D., Boston, Mass.
"The various contributed articles appear to have been written by men who are thoroughly familiar with recent investigation, and who, at the same time, have a devout evangelistic spirit. The maps especially are excellent."

Rev. J. P. Sankey.
"I have examined with care and pleasure the 'INTERNATIONAL' TEACHERS' edition of the Bible, and am free to say it is complete, scholarly, and, to my mind, the most satisfactory of all the teachers' Bibles."

Professor James Strong, S.T.D., LL.D., late of Drew Theological Seminary.
"Of all the teachers' Bibles now current, those of the 'INTERNATIONAL' SERIES . . . seem to be the most elegant and serviceable. The PRINT is remarkably CLEAR and DISTINCT, and the COLLATERAL HELPS for STUDY are ADMIRABLE."

Bishop W. X. Ninde, Detroit.
"The 'INTERNATIONAL' TEACHERS' BIBLE is admirably adapted to the general reader as well as to the class for whom it is especially designed. Its cheapness is such that every one can now afford a Bible durable and beautiful in form; in fact, in the best form of the typographical art, and containing an invaluable literary apparatus in the Manual appended."

Bishop John H. Vincent.
"I am very much pleased with the copy of the Bible. It is, for so small a PAGE and so THIN a book, printed in remarkably CLEAR and SATISFACTORY TYPE. The MAPS and HELPS are admirable."

Rev. H. L. Hastings, Boston, Mass.
"The 'INTERNATIONAL' series of Bibles is superior to all others as regards the type, which is very plain and bold, giving an unusually CLEAR and READABLE PAGE. . . . The references are arranged to economize space, and at the same time are sufficiently full. Consequently the 'INTERNATIONAL' Bibles, while more readable, are yet smaller and more convenient to handle and carry than any other."

Rev. J. Zimmerman, D.D., in "The Young Lutheran."
"Of the many different teachers' Bibles, the most recent one surpasses all others. I cannot commend it too highly to all those seeking a Bible that has a CLEAR, PLAIN, and BOLD TYPE. I regret that it was not in the field earlier, for no teachers' Bible of the same size has so LARGE and SO CLEAR TYPE as the 'INTERNATIONAL' TEACHERS' BIBLE. This is a most important feature to be considered in buying a Bible for a lifetime."

The New York "Independent."
"The type is clear and black. There is absolutely no waste room on the page, and every detail of manufacture seems to be well carried out. The helps in the teachers' Bibles are new, practical, and scholarly. The map series is large as well as new."

Rev. J. M. Frost, D.D., in "The Teacher."
"The 'Teachers' Edition' of the 'INTERNATIONAL,' as the name indicates, is for a specific class and is especially adapted to their use. Its new helps, new maps, clear print, abundant references and marginal readings, convenient size, fine and durable binding, will give it great favor with teachers and others who wish a beautiful and helpful edition of the Word of God."

"The Chautauquan."
"Among the different desirable editions of the Bible NONE HOLDS a HIGHER PLACE in ALL PARTICULARS than the 'INTERNATIONAL' BIBLE. With its fine pliable covers, its light India paper, its large, clear type, it meets all the requirements of a book for convenient use."

"Christian Advocate," Nashville.
"The 'INTERNATIONAL' TEACHERS' BIBLE is destined to be a sharp competitor for the public favor. We shall be surprised, in fact, if it does not take the lead. Considered simply as a specimen of bookmaking, it has all the points in its favor which are likely to meet the taste of purchasers. No expense has been spared by the publishers to make a perfect book. . . . THE BIBLE READER'S MANUAL, which is appended, is exceedingly full. . . . The General Editor is the Rev. C. H. H. Wright, D.D., Bampton Lecturer for 1878 in the University of Oxford, a man in every way fit for the task."

"The Standard."
"Besides a concordance and biblical gazetteer, it contains an unusually full supply of maps, prepared by Major Conder, perhaps the most distinguished Palestinian explorer now living. . . . We notice with pleasure the remarkable clearness of the type. . . . Readers will notice that this edition in hand bears the name of the 'Teachers' Bible.' It represents not only the most skilled mechanical execution in the line of bookmaking, but also, in its helps, the best scholarship on both sides of the sea."

"Cumberland Presbyterian."
"Before recommending this Bible to our Church and friends we submitted it to a committee composed of able and scholarly men. After a careful, painstaking, and unprejudiced examination the Bible was recommended in the strongest words of praise."

Amy E. Blanchard

Kittyboy's Christmas. By Amy E. Blanchard, author of "Thy Friend Dorothy," "A Dear Little Girl," etc. Illustrated by Ida Waugh. Square 12mo. With decorative cover design. Price, 50 cents.

"Kittyboy's Christmas" tells how a small kitten, by following an old bachelor to his comfortable home, brought about a romance; it also tells how Dr. Brewster played Santa Claus, through inadvertently catching sight of a few lines in a newspaper, this too on account of Kittyboy's influence.

Thy Friend Dorothy. By Amy E. Blanchard, author of "Taking a Stand," "A Dear Little Girl," etc. 12mo. Illustrated by Ida Waugh. With appropriate cover design. Price, $1.25.

This story tells of an English girl, Dorothy James, whose mother becomes impressed by the Quaker doctrines and preaching, and who, after enduring some persecutions, resolves to emigrate to America with Penn's colony. The influences which brought about this emigration are hereby shown. Dorothy clings to her mother, and is willing to leave her pleasant home near Bristol, and share her mother's fortunes in the new world. Her adventures and experiences are the theme of the story. The landing of William Penn; the making of the City of Philadelphia; the early life of the settlers among the already arrived Swedes and the Indians are incidentally referred to. There is a little plot which underlies the whole, which relates to the heirship of the James' estates and Dorothy's share in such inheritance.

Patterson Du Bois

The Point of Contact in Teaching. By Patterson Du Bois. 12mo. About 100 pages. Bound in fine cloth. Price, 60 cents.

The ideal point at which a child's attention is to be engaged, or his instruction is to begin, is an experience or point of contact with life. One who understands this truth need never have any great difficulty in getting an entry into the child's mind. In order to make it effective for the Sunday-school teacher, Mr. Du Bois wrote and issued a little tract on this subject two years ago. It was not only immediately appreciated by Sunday-school workers, but some of the secular normal schools, discovering its universal educational value, quickly absorbed a large part of the edition. It is now republished with considerable amplification for the sake of greater explicitness, and with numerous illustrations showing how the principle has been, and therefore can be, applied in dealing with individual scholars, with classes, and with schools.

Beckonings from Little Hands. Eight Studies in Child-Life. With designs and drawings by the author and with process-work copies from photographs. By Patterson Du Bois. The "Beckonings" are a subtle revelation, not only of child-nature, but of the significance of many a common-place incident in the life of the child. 16mo. pp. 182. Price, $1.25.

To me it is one of the most touching and helpful volumes in my bookcase. I do not tire of the lovely faces in it, and the consecrated vision of parenthood it unveils to me is ever fresh and inspiring.—KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN.

It is such a tender and subtle study of real little souls and hearts.—FRANCIS HODGSON BURNETT.

Episcopal Prayer and Hymnal

Episcopal Prayer. Bourgeois. Imperial 32mo. Black cloth. White edge. Net, 15 cents.

Episcopal Hymnal. Bourgeois. Imperial 32mo. Black cloth. White edge. Net, 20 cents.

The publishers have taken particular care in the selection of paper and in the durability of the binding of these two books, making them most desirable for Sunday-school and pew use.

Alfred C. Fleckenstein

The Prince of Gravas. A story of the past. By Alfred C. Fleckenstein, A. B., B. S. 12mo. Cloth. Illustrated, with appropriate cover design. Price, $1.25.

For a strange mixture of war, revenge, hate and love, "The Prince of Gravas" has no equal. It is peculiarly weird and spectral in effect, yet withal most vivid and realistic. The story is intensely interesting, one which holds the reader's attention as if by enchantment, and urges him on to discover what unexpected thing will happen next.

It would be difficult to find another combination of such oddly varying characters—the Queen, haughty, dignified, queenly, yet intense, passionate, loving; the two Princes, cruel, hard, selfish, planning and acting in concert, yet working only to gratify their hatred of each other; the Duke, fiery, ardent, revengeful, but loyal and loving through all. It is such a tale as one does not meet with every day; a tale unusual in the extreme, as fascinating as it is extraordinary.

Mary A Gilmore

Katie, a Daughter of the King. By Mary A. Gilmore. 12mo. Cloth. With decorative cover design. Price, 50 cents.

Messrs. Jacobs & Co. have taken this delightful and charming little story and bound it in a new and attractive cover, which will make it more popular than ever.

John Habberton

Author of "Helen's Babies"

With the Dream-Maker. By John Habberton, author of "Helen's Babies," "The Worst Boy in Town," etc. Square 12mo. Illustrated by J. C. Claghorn. Price, 50 cents.

The newest thing by the author of "Helen's Babies" is a humorous whimsicality, entitled "With the Dream-Maker." Between bedtime and daylight a small boy somehow finds his way into the establishment of an old man who provides dreams for every one in North America and the neighboring islands. The old man is quite a busy person, yet he finds time between contracts to answer many questions of the kind that any small boy would ask, and to volunteer a lot of information on the why and wherefore of dreaming, and discloses wonders that never were dreamed of in our philosophy, to say nothing of the boys. He is a reminiscent old chap, too, and some of his stories of dream-making for the Pilgrim Fathers and Christopher Columbus and for King Alfred of England, whom he served with an experimental dream that caused the experimenter to be banished to the New World, are quite unnatural enough to startle readers of all ages.

Humor Books

English Wit and Humor. With handsome cover design in gold, and frontispiece of Sydney Smith. 16mo. Cloth. Price, 50 cents.

A compilation of some of the best specimens of wit and humor contained in the English language, by such noted humorists as Sydney Smith, Douglas Jerrold, Theodore Hook, Dr. Johnson, etc.

Irish Wit and Humor. With handsome cover design in gold and frontispiece of Thomas Moore. 16mo. Cloth. Uniform with English Wit and Humor. Price, 50 cents.

In some of its qualities "Irish Wit and Humor" is second to no nation on earth. Judging by its average specimens it manages to convey an idea fully; but, in its haste to express itself, the metaphors get mixed, and the thoughts transposed or reversed.

Scotch Wit and Humor. With handsome cover design in gold and frontispiece of Thomas Campbell. 16mo. Cloth. Uniform with English and Irish Wit and Humor. Price, 50 cents.
The three above books, neatly boxed, $1.50.

"Scotch Wit and Humor" is a fairly representative collection of the type of wit and humor which is at home north of the Tweed—and most everywhere else—for are not Scotchmen to be found everywhere? A book that will be found entertaining to every one, young and old.

Mary E. Ireland

An Obstinate Maid. Translated from the 21st edition of the German of Emma Von Rhoden by Mary E. Ireland. Illustrated by Ida Waugh. With striking cover design. 12mo. Cloth. Price, $1.25.

A pretty story of life at a German boarding-school. Ilse, the heroine, is a wilful, headstrong girl, unused to any restraint, happy and light-hearted in the free out-door life she leads on her father's large estate, and openly rebellious at any attempt to interest her in study or more womanly pursuits. In spite of her wilfulness, she has a warm, loving disposition, and passionately loves her father; while she is scarcely less fond of the dogs and horses, with whom she passes most of her time. When Ilse is about sixteen, her father is brought to see the necessity of curbing her wilful spirit, and decides to send his "wild bird" to a distant pension. Her life here is the theme of the greater part of the story; her rude manners and obstinate will caused her much trouble at first, but under the gentle guidance of Fräulein Bulow, and the loving advice of sweet English Nellie, Ilse's room-mate, her wild ways gradually disappear. There are the usual boarding-school scrapes, wherein Ilse always figures; and several delightful musicales, in which the students of a neighboring academy join the girls. When the year is up and Ilse returns home, her father finds, instead of his wild, wilful daughter, a charming young girl, refined and lovable; and Leo, the young lawyer whom Ilse meets on her journey home, is quite as much pleased with the lovely maiden as is her father.

Rev. J. Courtney Jones

A Concordance to the Book of Common Prayer According to the Use of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America; together with a Table of the Portions of Scripture found or referred to in the Prayer Book, and a Topical Index of the Collects. By the Rev. J. Courtney Jones, A. M. Cloth. Net, 1.75.

Every churchman who knows the value of concordances and how they help one to attain a fuller knowledge of the works to which they refer, must be interested in this work. The design and execution are admirable. It is complete—every word in the Prayer Book from the first on the title page to the last in Article XXXIX is recorded, and every instance in which it occurs is given, making in all about 27,000 references. It is accurate, being the work of a painstaking and careful scholar. Its system of references is simple and clear, the page and portion of page (whether first or second half) and the part of the Prayer Book (whether title, preface, morning prayer, or other office) in which occurs the word or phrase sought for are given. A valuable portion of the work is the Table of Passages from Holy Scripture. By consulting this table, it can be seen at a glance the particular use or uses which the church makes of any given passage of Scripture in the Prayer Book, and whether a like use was made of those passages in the earlier editions (both English and American) of the Prayer Book. Though there have been several concordances to the English Book of Common Prayer published, as far as we are aware, this is the first to the American book that has been issued.—The Living Church.

Archibald Campbell Knowles

Turning Points. Practical talks to young men. By Archibald Campbell Knowles, with an introduction by the Right Rev. Leighton Coleman, S. T. D., Bishop of Delaware. 16mo. Cloth. Net, 35 cents.

Practical talks to those who are on the threshhold of active life in the world. It points out the great responsibility in choosing one's career in a profession or business, indicates some of the great dangers and temptatious that await all, exhorts to Christian manliness and bravery, and points out the fundamental need of religion and religious worship.

Joscelyn Vernon. By Archibald Campbell Knowles, author of "Turning Points," etc. 12mo. Cloth. Price, 75 cents.

A fascinating story transporting the reader to the days of King Charles I, with their accompaniment of romance and adventure. The scene is mostly laid amid the hills and vales of Monmouthshire; the characters are full of life; King Charles and Cromwell are truthfully represented; and Joscelyn is a stanch royalist, brave and gallant. The book is altogether well worth reading.

Andrew Murray

The Spiritual Life. By Andrew Murray. 12mo. Cloth. With decorative cover design. Price, 50c.

This is a series of lectures, delivered before the students of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, setting forth the reasons given in the New Testament for the higher spiritual life, and the means of attaining to that life through prayer and faith. All the references are taken directly from the teaching of the Apostles.

Fannie E. Newberry
Author of "The Wrestler of Philippi," etc.

Everyday Honor. By Fanny E. Newberry, author of "The Wrestler of Philippi," etc. Illustrated by Ida Waugh. 12mo. Cloth. With handsome cover design. Price, $1.25.

A bright interesting story, full of life and spirit, one which holds our close attention from beginning to end. The Pemberton children are real children, just such as we meet everyday, with good principles and high ideals, but having many faults as well. Conway is a bright boy, whose high spirits cause him much trouble, but whose strong attachment to his sister Prue helps him through safely. The sweetness and tact of both Adele and Selma form a strong contrast to Vic's sarcasm and discontent; while baby Glen is a sober, thoughtful child, and the pet of the whole household. They are a happy, affectionate family, and form a loving circle about their kind father and good Aunt Deb.

Rose Porter

Looking Towards Sunrise. By Rose Porter, author of "In Quietness and Confidence," etc. New edition. 16mo. Cloth. Price, 30 cents.

A beautiful little volume in the author's best vein of thought—full of strength and comfort, and will help many a weary one over the rough places that come to all in life's pilgrimage.

A Year of Blessing. By Rose Porter, author of "In Quietness and Confidence," etc. New edition. 16mo. Cloth. Price, 30 cents.

A capital compilation of Bible beatitudes and promises with subjoined sentiments from various choice writers so happily collected and placed as to look very like comments on the text above. Of the innumerable books of this kind, this is one of the very best.

Resting in His Love. By Rose Porter, author of "A Year of Blessing," etc. New edition. 16mo. Cloth. Price, 30 cents.

Rest in suggestive thoughts to troubled minds, and pervaded throughout by a quiet but strong Christian faith.

Rose Porter

In Quietness and Confidence. By Rose Porter, author of "A Year of Blessing," etc. New edition. 16mo. Cloth. Price, 30 cents.

A beautiful manual of devotion. Refreshing springs where the weary traveler may stop to rest and find some truths so strong the tired heart will surely rest in Him.

Open Windows (being Part II of "In Quietness and Confidence." By Rose Porter, author of "In Quietness and Confidence," etc. New edition. 16mo. Cloth. Price, 30 cents.

Written in tender and excellent style and full of the sweetest thoughts.

Rev. James S. Stone, D. D.

Woods and Dales of Derbyshire. By Rev. James S. Stone, D.D., author of "The Heart of Merrie England," etc. Eighteen illustrations, including one of the author. 4to. Cloth. Price, $1.00.

A most agreeable addition to the literature of this region. It recalls the beautiful scenery of Derbyshire, its storied monuments, sacred and secular, the legends and proverbs of the countryside, the local inns (some of them famous hostelries), and the quiet, old-time gardens, swift-flowing brooks and shaded roads. The illustrations in "The Woods and Dales of Derbyshire" have conspicuous merit. In almost every instance the subjects were brought by Dr. Stone from Derbyshire. Most of the book was written while Dr. Stone was abroad, and it preserves this freshness still in the printed form. An appendix contains a selection from the popular ballads of Derbyshire, reflecting the jovial merriment and rough lives of the village folk at the period when they were composed. The book is extremely handsome in every respect.—Public Ledger.

Charles M. Taylor, Jr.

Vacation Days in Hawaii and Japan. By Chas. M. Taylor, Jr. With over 100 half-tone illustrations. Crown, 8vo. About 350 pages. With unique cover design. Price, $2.00.

Mr. Taylor is a Philadelphia business man who spent between three and four months on a trip through Hawaii and Japan, and whose terse but interesting descriptions of all he saw betoken that his observing faculties have been fully developed. Mr Taylor made quite an extended excursion into the interior of Japan and depicts the real life of this most interesting people in the most charming style.

The Presence of Christ. By Anthony W. Thorold, D.D., author of "Gospel of Christ," etc. New edition. 12mo. Cloth. Price, 50 cents.

A volume of lectures on the Twenty-third Psalm preached at St. Giles, in the fields, and here recast into a permanent form.

Anthony W. Thorold, D. D.

The Gospel of Christ. By Anthony W. Thorold, D. D., author of "The Presence of Christ." New edition. 12mo. Cloth. Price, 50 cents.

A series of talks on "Life," "Grace," "Forgiveness," etc , written in the author's attractive style, which, with its dainty binding, makes a most acceptable gift-book.

The Yoke of Christ. By Anthony W. Thorold, D. D., author of "The Presence of Christ," etc. New edition. 16mo. Cloth. Price, 50 cents.

The third volume, by Dr. Thorold, in this series, is fully as popular as the foregoing, and will be welcomed by all in its new dress.

H. Clay Trumbull

Teachers'-Meetings: Their Necessity and Methods. By H. Clay Trumbull. 12mo. Cloth. 60 pages. Price, 30 cents, net.

Dr. Trumbull believes that a Sunday-school is not a Sunday-school without a teachers'-meeting. He not only shows that this is true, but he tells, with practical illustrations, how such meetings may be conducted successfully even under difficulties which are commonly supposed to be prohibitive of this essential exercise.

George L. Weed

A Life of Christ for the Young. By George L. Weed, author of "Great Truths Simply Told," etc. 16mo. Cloth. About 250 pages. Fully illustrated with numerous full-page half-tone illustrations. Price, 50c.

In this series, Messrs. Jacobs & Co. intend to include only notable Christian characters. The second volume will be a life of St. Paul for the young. Lives of other prominent Biblical characters, as well as noted missionaries, will be added from time to time. It is hoped that in this way an instructive and interesting series of volumes will be obtained. Mr. Weed has, perhaps, no superior in this country for ability to write such biographies. For thirty years he has been instructor in the Philadelphia Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, and the whole trend of this portion of his life has been constantly to simplify and make plain to the comprehension of these people. This long experience, it is believed, eminently fits him for such an undertaking.

Barbara Yechton

A Little Turning Aside. By Barbara Yechton, author of "We Ten; or, the Story of the Roses," "Derrick," etc. With numerous text and full-page illustrations, by Wilhelmina and Jessie B. Walker. 12mo. Cloth. With decorative cover. Price, $1.00.

A story about a girl and for girls. It is written with a clear understanding of girl nature, with strong sympathy and much tenderness. The story is in three parts, entitled respectively "Work," "Strife" and "Victory." The first opens in a little country village where Hetty, the heroine, lives with her well-meaning but severe and narrow-minded great uncle and aunt. In this same part we learn how Hetty puts aside a duty to go to New York to study drawing at the Art Students' League, how she improves in her studies, meets with and is overcome by a temptation, and enters a competition for the Paris prize. We learn, too, of her high hopes and of the sudden bitter disappointment which comes to her, cutting her off completely from the fulfilment of her overweening ambition. In part II, we see Hetty ill, unhappy, rebellious, still so full of herself that she has no thought, no care for anyone else, believing that no one could have so great a trial as hers. We make the acquaintance of merry, kindly Dr. Dennis, and of unselfish Cara; we follow Hetty in her groupings around in her little bare room and down the shaky stairs to the stoop, we go with her to the hospital, sympathize in her terror in the old courtyard, and rejoice at her meeting with sweet-faced Mrs. Dennis, whose many years of blindness have added to her patience, her Christian faith, her tenderness and tact, and taken nothing from her happy cheerfulness. In part III, we get a glimpse of another side of Hetty's nature, one which she herself hardly knew she possessed. We see her making friends with Mrs. Dennis and her quizzical son, and learning from them that there are other things in the world worth knowing about besides Art. We follow, with keen interest, the waking up of Hetty's soul; her recognition of the claim of duty; her delight when once more her eyes look upon the bright sunshine, the trees, the skies; the last sharp struggle 'twixt inclination and duty, and the final goodby between Dr. Dennis and herself, with its sweet promise for the future, with which the story closes.

The foregoing is a brief outline—a bare skeleton—of "A Little Turning Aside." For vividness of scene, for tenderness, pathos and faithful portraiture of character, and for the strong moral lesson, deftly woven in, the story itself must be read.

CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS IN FRENCH AND OTHER FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Books marked (*) were published during 1897.

FRENCH.

Attention is called to the following series. They are of great value to the student as well as to the general reader of French. The romances and plays are interesting as stories, representative of the authors, of high literary value and pure in morality. They are tastefully printed, cheap and suitable for the class-room or library. Many have English notes.

By Prof. Alfred M. Cotte. No. 1. L'Avare. No. 2, Bourgeois Gentilhomme. Each 20c.

The stories of some of the most salient of Molière's Comedies, written in the form of novellettes similar in idea to Charles and Mary Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare."

Bibliothèque Choisi Pour la Jeunesse.

Les Malheurs de Sophie, par Mme. la Comtesse de Ségur. 12mo, illustrated, paper 60c., cloth, 203 pages, $1.00.

This amusing story has long been familiar to French children and is not unknown to American, especially to those reading French. In France it is a classic. Here it has been used for years, by teachers requiring something light, amusing and interesting for young children.

Catherine, Catherinette et Catarina, by Arsène Alexandre; arranged with exercises and vocabularies, by Agnes Godfrey Gay. This book will contain many beautiful colored illustrations. (In preparation.)

MUSIC.

(*)Chansons, Poésies et Jeux Français pour les Enfants Américains.

Composed and arranged by Agnes Godfrey Gay.

Price, 8vo. Boards, 50 cents.

In offering this little book to the public the wish has been to "fill the long-felt want" of a collection of French songs and games suitable for American children. The majority of both the songs and games have been sung and played for years and the selections of poetry in the latter part of the book have stood practical test. No pains have been spared to make the words in every way acceptable to our American ideas of proper literature for children; and the music has been carefully revised, and much of it harmonized, by Mr. Grant-Schaefer, whose name is sufficient guaranty for thoroughness.

CONTES CHOISIS.

The Complete Pocket-Guide to Europe for 1898

Edited by EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN and T. L. STEDMAN.

It is complete, concise and handy, being so compact as to be carried in a man's coat or hip pocket, or in a woman's dress pocket or muff—an advantage appreciated by a traveller. One volume, full leather binding, $1.25.

"Altogether the best of the kind published."—Phila. Times.

Horace's Art of Poetry

An English Paraphrase, by ABBY OSBORNE RUSSELL, with an introduction by SECONDO MARCHISIO, Lecturer on Classics and Italian Literature, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

This volume will be found the best hand-book for the student who wishes to learn the laws that underlie the Art of Poetry. It will prove of permanent value and importance in classical study. 12mo, cloth, 60c.

Human Progress By THOMAS S. BLAIR, A.M. (Harvard).

A report of the conclusions reached through the application of business common sense methods to the inquiry in hand. 12mo, cloth, 573 pages, $1.50.

Bohemian Legends and other Poems By F. P. KOPTA.

Second edition. As few books of Bohemian literature are to be obtained, it is hoped this volume may do something toward making the literature better known. 12mo, 183 pages, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

Rolands Squires By Mrs. HARRIET PINCKNEY HUSE.

A legend of the time of Charlemagne. Square, 16mo, illus. 50c.

Told at Tuxedo By A. M. EMORY (pseudonym.)

Precious Words of Hope and Comfort

This little book neatly bound in white, contains selections gathered from time to time from religious papers and books, intended to help and strengthen in seasons of sorrow. Price, 25 cents.

Lessons in Botany Arranged by CAROLINE E. HILLIARD.

So far as possible the lessons are based upon careful study of specimens. Blank pages are inserted for drawings and records of observations. Cloth, 104 pages, 75 cents.

(*)Soldier Songs and Love Songs

By A. H. LAIDLAW. 12mo, boards, $1.00.

The Philosophy of Art in America

By CARL DE MULDOR (pseudonym).

In it is outlined the whole field of the Fine Arts, carefully and comprehensively, if not exhaustively, treated. It is an eloquent plea for the usefully artistic and the artistically useful. The author is a member of the National Academy of Design, an artist of acknowledged great abilities, a student and a traveller. 12mo, cloth, 50 cents.

The Protection of Woodlands By JOHN NISBIT.

Authorized translation from the German of Kauschinger-Fürst's "Waldschutz." The various portions are dealt with tersely, and from a thoroughly practical standpoint. As there is no special work on Sylvacultural Entomology in English, the chapter on Noxious Forest Insects has been somewhat amplified. One volume, 8vo, with colored plates, $3.50.

The Hygiene of Beauty

By Dr. E. MONIN (of Paris), Secretary of the French Society of Hygiene; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor; Officer of Public Instruction.

Translated under the immediate supervision of the author. This manual is divided into two parts, entirely distinct. The first treats generally of beauty and its hygiene; the second gives the practical details of the cosmetic art. 12mo, cloth, 171 pages, $1.00.

Home Treatment for Catarrhs and Colds

By LEONARD A. DESSAR, M.D.

This small treatise has been written with a view of supplying the general reader with a trustworthy guide of instructions for the proper care, prevention and treatment of catarrhal troubles of the throat, nose and ears, and their complications. Its aim is not to bewilder the reader with a number of technical terms, but to afford a clear insight into the affections. 12mo, cloth, illustrated, $1.00.

Koch on Cholera

Translated by GEORGE DUNCAN, M.A., with prefatory note by W. T. GAIRDNER, M.D., L.L.D., F.R.S., Professor of the Practice of Medicine, Glasgow University; President of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh, etc., etc.

The setting forth of the facts is luminous and accurate, and the statement of his argument firm and logical. The treatise is simply a model of sanitary research. 8vo, cloth, 150 pages, $1.50.

EXTRACT FROM A LETTER BY THE LATE FRANKLIN LEONARD POPE:

"I have no hesitation in saying that the electrical profession is greatly indebted to The W. J. Johnston Company for the enterprise it has shown in the publication of electro-technical works of high character and standard value."

A DICTIONARY OF Electrical Words, Terms, and Phrases.

By EDWIN J. HOUSTON, Ph.D. (Princeton),

AUTHOR OF

Advanced Primers of Electricity; Electricity One Hundred Years Ago and To-day, etc., etc., etc.

Cloth. 667 large octavo pages. Numerous Illustrations. Price, $7.00.

Some idea of the scope of this important work and of the immense amount of labor involved in it, may be formed when it is stated that it contains about 12,073 different definitions of words, terms, or phrases. The dictionary is not a mere word-book; the words, terms, and phrases are invariably followed by a short, concise definition, giving the sense in which they are correctly employed, and a general statement of the principles of electrical science on which the definition is founded. Each of the great classes or divisions of electrical investigation or utilization comes under careful and exhaustive treatment; and while close attention is given to the more settled and hackneyed phraseology of the older branches of work, the newer words and the novel departments they belong to are not less thoroughly handled. Every source of information has been referred to, and while libraries have been ransacked, the note-book of the laboratory and the catalogue of the wareroom have not been forgotten or neglected. So far has the work been carried in respect to the policy of inclusion that the book has been brought down to date by means of an appendix, in which are placed the very newest words, as well as many whose rareness of use had consigned them to obscurity and oblivion. As one feature, an elaborate system of cross-references has been adopted, so that it is as easy to find the definitions as the words, and aliases are readily detected and traced. The typography is excellent, being large and bold, and so arranged that each word catches the eye at a glance by standing out in sharp relief from the page.

AN INDEX

TO

THE ELECTRICAL WORLD

From January 1st, 1883, to January 1st, 1897.

Cloth. 372 Pages. Price, $8.00.

This index, which is the result of much patient compilation, contains a list of every article which has appeared in THE ELECTRICAL WORLD for fourteen years. It also includes the references in the Digest of Current Electrical Technical Literature, and thus forms a complete catalogue of reference to the whole mass of modern periodical electrical literature. It is the only index of the kind that has ever been published, either in this or any other country, and is the most useful and quickly available means of reference to electrical subjects, to dates and events connected with electrical progress and development.

The index contains 382 pages, 7½ x 10¼ inches in size, and is substantially bound in cloth.

A limited edition of only 500 copies is all that has been printed, and after these are sold no more can be had.

It is therefore certain that the value of the index, due to the limited number in existence as well as to its utility, will greatly increase as time goes on.

Until further notice the price will be $8.00, which barely covers the exact cost. For this the index will be forwarded, charges prepaid, to any address in the world.

The publishers reserve the right to advance the price at any time without notice.

The index is now ready for delivery, and those who contemplate purchasing will do well to order at once.

Alternating Electric Currents.

BY

E. J. HOUSTON, Ph.D., and A. E. KENNELLY, Sc.D.

CONTENTS.

Chapter I.—Introductory. Chapter II.—Alternating Electromotive Force and Current. Chapter III.—Unipolar Alternators. Chapter IV.—Power. Chapter V.—Transformers. Chapter VI.—Electric Lamps. Chapter VII.—Electric Motors. Chapter VIII.—Multiphase Currents. Chapter IX.—Multiphase Motors. Index.

Cloth. 225 Pages. 77 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

The marked growth recently made in the commercial applications of alternating electric currents has necessitated a greater familiarity on the part of the general public with this branch of electric science. Most books heretofore written on Alternating Electric Currents have employed in their treatment the higher branches of mathematics to such an extent as to render them unintelligible to the reading public. This volume satisfactorily establishes the fact that the fundamental principles underlying this difficult branch of electrical engineering can be treated with the use of mathematics no further advanced than ordinary arithmetic. Although the book is designed mainly for the general public, yet it cannot fail to prove useful, not only to electrical artisans and mechanics generally, and to elementary electrotechnical students, but even to engineers, as disproving the prevalent belief that it is impossible to treat of alternating electric currents without the extended use of the higher mathematics. In this volume will be found such a description of the working of a central station, the operations of generators, transformers, lamps and motors generally, as will enable the reader to obtain a comprehension of the methods of their operation.

ELECTRIC HEATING.

BY

E. J. HOUSTON, Ph.D., and A. E. KENNELLY, Sc.D.

CONTENTS.

Chapter I.—Introductory. Chapter II.—Elementary Principles. Chapter III.—Electrical Heating of Bare Conductors. Chapter IV.—Electrical Heating of Covered Conductors. Chapter V.—Fuse Wires. Chapter VI.—Electric Heaters. Chapter VII.—Electric Cooking. Chapter VIII.—Electric Welding. Chapter IX.—Electric Furnaces. Chapter X.—Miscellaneous Applications of Electric Heating. Index.

Cloth. 290 Pages. 86 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

The comparatively new art of electric heating has shown so marked a development during the last decade that public attention has naturally been directed to this branch of electrical science. The wonderful development in electric street railways has naturally resulted in the introduction of electric heaters on electrically propelled street cars. So, too, the extended introduction of electric lighting in houses and buildings generally has gradually opened the way for apparatus suitable for electric cooking and heating. Nor has the application of stronger electric currents to more powerful heating effects been wanting. Electric welding and the electric shaping and forging of metals and electric furnaces for the reduction of ores and for the production of various chemical products have brought into prominence the thermal quality possessed by electric currents. The difficult problem of the electrical heating of conductors will also be found treated in this book in a remarkably simple manner, so that, like the rest of the series, the book requires no preparation on the part of the reader in mathematics or electrical science for its complete understanding.

MAGNETISM.

BY

E. J. HOUSTON, Ph.D., and A. E. KENNELLY, Sc.D.

CONTENTS.

Chapter I.—Introductory. Chapter II.—Magnetic Phenomena. Chapter III.—Theories of Magnetism. Chapter IV.—Magnetic Circuits. Chapter V.—Electromagnetism. Chapter VI.—Electromagnets. Chapter VII.—The Attractive Power of Magnets. Chapter VIII.—Some Practical Applications of Electromagnets. Chapter IX.—Miscellaneous Magnetic Phenomena. Chapter X.—Phenomena of the Earth's Magnetism. Index.

Cloth. 294 Pages. 94 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

The mysterious force of magnetism has always possessed a fascination alike for the general reader, the electric artisan and the electrical engineer. The existence of the magnetic force has long been known and many theories have been framed to account for magnetic phenomena. Unfortunately, most books on magnetism contain too frequent reference to these theories, especially the earlier ones, and manifest too little consistency in following any particular theory to render the works of much use to general readers. In this volume an endeavor has been made to explain magnetic phenomena by reference to a single theory, and one, too, which permits of quantitative treatment. In this respect, although the scope of the work is such as to make it readily understood by all classes of readers, yet even the electrical engineer will find in its pages much of value. The volume treats briefly of the phenomena of permanent and electro magnetism, the phenomena of the earth's magnetism, the magnetic needle, the mariner's compass, together with a brief review, made in the light of modern discoveries, of the various theories of magnetism. It also embraces the principles underlying the construction and operation of electromagnetic mechanism generally.

Although many excellent works have appeared on Electro-Therapeutics, yet none have heretofore been prepared containing a complete treatment of the underlying principles of electricity as employed in the electro-therapeutic art. Unfortunately in this age of specialism the time of the electro-therapeutist has been in many cases so limited by an exhaustive study of electro-therapy as to have resulted to a certain extent in a failure to thoroughly grasp the fundamental principles of electricity upon which the art is founded. Although this volume has been prepared for the use of the public generally, yet it will be found of special use not only to the practising physician, but also to the specialist in this department. No attempt has been made in the book to treat of the therapeutical part of the subject, that being left to special treatises. The reader will find in the pages of this book concise but comprehensive explanations in accordance with the most modern theories of electricity and magnetism, of the fundamental principles entering into the practice of

The long-felt want for a commercial outdoor illuminant has, as is well known, been met in the now generally adopted system of electric arc lighting. The almost universal adoption of arc lighting for the streets of our large cities has naturally enough created a desire on the part of the public to understand more fully the general methods employed for the production and distribution of the electric current and the mechanism employed on the lamps for maintaining the arc and ensuring a steady and reliable illumination. This work contains a brief history of the early art of electric lighting, a description of arc-light generators, the various circuits employed, the manufacture of the carbon electrodes, together with a description of the lamp mechanisms. The lines on which the present book has been written do not require a previous knowledge of the principles of electricity for its comprehension.

The problem of indoor lighting is markedly different from that of outdoor lighting. The principal requirement of the former is that the artificial light should, as nearly as possible, resemble that given by the sun. In other words, the illumination should be general, the space lighted should be free from marked shadows, and, moreover, the source of light should be safe to life and property, steady, reliable and economical. A perusal of the pages of this volume, which is so written as not to require any previous knowledge of electricity for its thorough comprehension, will show the extent to which the incandescent light meets the requirements of a good indoor illuminant. The book contains a brief history of the early state of the art, a description of the different methods employed in the manufacture of the incandescent lamp, including the production of the filament, the preparation and exhaustion of the lamp-chamber, the generators required for the production of the current, the systems of distribution employed, together with a general description of a central station and the apparatus necessary for its operation.

THE ELECTRIC MOTOR.

BY

Cloth. 377 Pages. 122 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

The readiness with which the electric current lends itself to the distribution of mechanical power over considerable distances has caused the development of the electric motor during the last decade to compare very favorably with electric developments in other directions. The electric motor has proved itself capable of meeting the requirements of actual commercial practice, not only for comparatively small, but also for considerable distances. Electric motors are now extensively at work in street-car propulsion, and in other directions requiring the expenditure of mechanical power. This volume contains a discussion of the principles underlying the construction and operation of continuous and alternating-current motors, noticing in the latter case both the synchronous and induction type of apparatus. The general problem for the transmission of power is discussed in such language that even this difficult subject is capable of being readily understood by those not already versed in electrical science.

Cloth. 367 Pages. 158 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

The extent to which the introduction of the electric street railway has extended the limits of our dense centres of population, and has caused the appreciation of the value of real estate in suburban districts, is perhaps only too well known to the holders of real estate in the centres of our densely populated cities. Perhaps in no other direction has popular curiosity been so thoroughly aroused as at the facility with which heavy cars are propelled, lighted and heated by a mysterious agency, that requires for its transmission only a slender trolley-wire; and wonder grows as to its ability to find its way, apparently unguided, from the central station back again through the intricate turnings and windings of a large city. The general public will find such a description of the machinery employed for the generation, transmission and utilization of the electric current in the present volume as will enable them no longer to continue to be perplexed by the problem which everyday presents itself.

As is generally the case, no matter how marvelous the gift science gives to the world, and no matter how great the excitement its advent creates, it proves to be but a seven-days' wonder. The history of the electric telephone forms no exception to this general statement. The telephone has so wonderfully changed the methods of carrying on business that this volume will prove of great value to the general public in enabling it to obtain a thorough insight into the general system of telephonic communication. The book contains a description of the construction of the transmitting and receiving devices, the calling mechanisms and the switchboard mechanisms at the central station.

Great improvements have been witnessed in the art of telegraphy since the inventions of Steinheil, Wheatstone and Morse. To-day, so complex are some of the methods employed in duplex, quadruplex and multiplex telegraphy, that in many of the books heretofore published the general reader, unless qualified by a prior knowledge of electric science, finds it difficult to comprehend much of what they contain. In this volume the treatment is so clear and the illustrations so copious that general readers will obtain such an understanding of the art as will enable them, though not possessed of any previous knowledge of electric science, to comprehend its general principles. A full description is given of both land and submarine telegraphy, with the apparatus employed. Automatic telegraphy is also amply explained.

Electrical Measurements and Other Advanced Primers of Electricity.

By EDWIN J. HOUSTON, PH.D. (Princeton),

AUTHOR OF

"A Dictionary of Electrical Words, Terms, and Phrases," etc., etc., etc.

Cloth. 429 pages, 169 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

This volume is the second of Prof. Houston's admirable series of Advanced Primers of Electricity, and is devoted to the measurement and practical applications of the electric current. The different sources of electricity are taken up in turn, the apparatus described with reference to commercial forms, and the different systems of distribution explained. The sections on alternating currents will be found a useful introduction to a branch which is daily assuming larger proportions, and which is here treated without the use of mathematics. An excellent feature of this series of primers is the care of statement and logical treatment of the subjects. In this respect there is a marked contrast to most popular treatises, in which only the most simple and merely curious points are given, to the exclusion or subordination of more important ones. The abstracts from standard electrical authors at the end of each primer have in general reference and furnish an extension to some important point in the primer, and at the same time give the reader an introduction to electrical literature. The abstracts have been chosen with care from authoritative professional sources or from treatises of educational value in the various branches.

Electrical Transmission of Intelligence

AND OTHER ADVANCED PRIMERS OF ELECTRICITY.

By EDWIN J. HOUSTON, Ph.D. (Princeton),

AUTHOR OF

"A Dictionary of Electrical Words, Terms, and Phrases," etc., etc., etc.

Cloth. 330 pages, 88 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

The third and concluding volume of Prof. Houston's Series of Advanced Primers of Electricity is devoted to the telegraph, telephone, and miscellaneous applications of the electric current. In this volume the difficult subjects of multiple and cable telegraphy and electrolysis, as well as the telephone, storage battery, etc., are treated in a manner that enables the beginner to easily grasp the principles, and yet with no sacrifice in completeness of presentation. The electric apparatus for use in houses, such as electric-bells, annunciators, thermostats, electric locks, gas-lighting systems, etc., are explained and illustrated. The primer on electro-therapeutics describes the medical coil and gives instructions for its use, as well as explaining the action of various currents on the human body. The interesting primers on cable telegraphy and on telephony will be appreciated by those who wish to obtain a clear idea of the theory of these attractive branches of electrical science and a knowledge of the details of the apparatus. Attention is called to the fact that each of the primers in this series is, as far as possible, complete in itself, and that there is no necessary connection between the several volumes.

ELECTRICITY

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO AND TO-DAY.

By EDWIN J. HOUSTON, PH.D. (Princeton),

AUTHOR OF

A Dictionary of Electrical Words, Terms, and Phrases, etc., etc., etc.

Cloth. 199 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.00.

In tracing the history of electrical science from practically its birth to the present day, the author has, wherever possible, consulted original sources of information. As a result of these researches, several revisions as to the date of discovery of some important principles in electrical science are made necessary. While the compass of the book does not permit of any other than a general treatment of the subject, yet numerous references are given in foot-notes, which also in many cases quote the words in which a discovery was first announced to the world, or give more specific information in regard to the subjects mentioned in the main portion of the book. This feature is one of interest and value, for often a clearer idea may be obtained from the words of a discoverer of a phenomenon or principle than is possible through other sources. The work is not a mere catalogue of subjects and dates, nor is it couched in technical language that only appeals to a few. On the contrary, one of its most admirable features is the agreeable style in which the work is written, its philosophical discussion as to the cause and effect of various discoveries, and its personal references to great names in electrical science. Much information as to electrical phenomena may also be obtained from the book, as the author is not satisfied to merely give the history of a discovery, but also adds a concise and clear explantion of it.

FOURTH EDITION.

The Electric Motor and its Applications.

By T. C. MARTIN and JOSEPH WETZLER,

With an Appendix by Dr. Louis Bell, bringing the book down to date.

Cloth. 315 large quarto pages, 353 Illustrations. Price, $3.00.

The wealth of information contained in the three hundred and odd large double-column pages of this important work is equalled in few special technical treatises, even those of a professedly exhaustive character. More than one hundred different motors are described and illustrated,—many in great detail—and the different applications are similarly fully treated. Many of the illustrations are full page, and the details of construction, particularly of armatures, are fully illustrated. The treatment is simple, clear, and concise, and little mathematics is employed, the work being essentially of a practical and largely of a descriptive character. The section on alternating motors resumes in a simple manner without mathematical formulæ, the principles upon which they are based, and that on thermo-magnetic motors treats this interesting class in greater detail than can be found in any other publication. An interesting feature is the historical method of treatment, by means of which the different steps in the advance of theories and design can be clearly traced, and the varying results of explorations in many directions instructively followed.

THIRD EDITION. EXTENSIVELY REVISED AND ENLARGED.

THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY

IN THEORY AND PRACTICE.

By O. T. CROSBY and Dr. LOUIS BELL.

Cloth. 416 pages, 183 Illustrations. Price, $2.50.

Few technical books have met with so wide an appreciation as "The Electric Railway," which has had the distinction of being accepted throughout the world as the standard authority on the subject of which it treats. The advances in electric traction made since the second edition of the work have been so notable, that the authors, in undertaking the preparation of a new edition, found it necessary to practically rewrite the book, so that the present edition conforms to the very latest knowledge on the subject, both in the domain of theory and of practice. The original purpose of the book has, however, been strictly adhered to—namely, to place before those interested in electric railways, whether in a technical, financial, or general way, the principles upon which electric traction is founded and the standard methods employed in their application. In view of the probable application in the near future of alternating currents to electric traction, the present edition includes their consideration in this relation, thus largely extending the value of the treatise. The recent developments in electric locomotives and high-speed electric traction, and the application of electricity to elevated railways and to passenger traffic on steam roads, are in this work considered for the first time connectedly with reference to their engineering and commercial aspects. In the first section of the book are developed the fundamental principles of electricity upon which the apparatus and methods of operation are based. The following section is devoted to prime movers, steam, hydraulic, and gas—the modern gas-engine here receiving the full treatment which its growing importance calls for. The remainder of the work is devoted to the engineering, practical, and commercial features of electric traction, all of the factors that enter being considered from the standpoint of the best practice, and the more important ones elaborated in detail. The plan of the book, in fact, includes the consideration of everything relating to the electrical and mechanical principles and details which enter into electric railway design, construction, and operation, the whole being treated from the engineering and commercial standpoint, and without the use of mathematics or resort to purely scientific theory.

Electric Power Transmission.

By LOUIS BELL, PH.D.

Cloth. 491 large octavo pages, 229 Illustrations.
Price, $2.50.

The plan of the work is similar to that of "The Electric Railway in Theory and Practice," the treatment of the subject being non-mathematical and not involving on the part of the reader a knowledge of the purely scientific theories relating to electrical currents. The book is essentially practical in its character, and while primarily an engineering treatise, is also intended for the information of those interested in electrical transmission of power, financially or in a general way. The author has a practical acquaintance with the problems met with in the electrical transmission of energy from his connection with many of the most important installations yet made in America, and in these pages the subject is developed for the first time with respect to its practical aspects as met with in actual work. The first two chapters review the fundamental principles relating to the generation and distribution of electrical energy, and in the three succeeding ones their methods of application with both continuous and alternating currents are described. The sixth chapter gives a general discussion of the methods of transformation, the various considerations applying to converters and rotary transformers being developed and these apparatus described. In the chapter on prime movers various forms of water-wheels, gas and steam engines are discussed with respect to their applicability to the purpose in view, and in the chapter on hydraulic development the limitations that decide the commercial availability of water power for electrical transmission of power are pointed out in detail. The five succeeding chapters deal with practical design and with construction work—the power-house, line, and centres of distribution being taken up in turn. The chapter on the latter subject will be found of particular value, as it treats for the first time in a thorough and practical manner one of the most difficult points in electrical transmission. The chapter on commercial data contains the first information given as to costs, and will, therefore, be much appreciated by engineers and others in deciding as to the commercial practicability of proposed transmission projects. This is the first work covering the entire ground of the electrical transmission of power that has been written by an engineer of wide practical experience in all of the details included in the subject, and thus forms a valuable and much-needed addition to electrical engineering literature.

PRACTICAL CALCULATION

OF

Dynamo-Electric Machines.

A MANUAL FOR ELECTRICAL AND MECHANICAL ENGINEERS, AND A TEXT-BOOK FOR STUDENTS OF ELECTRO-TECHNICS.

BY

ALFRED E. WIENER, E.E., M.E.,

Member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Cloth. 683 pages, 375 Illustrations and 105 Tables. Price, $2.50.

Based upon the practical data and tests of over two hundred of the best modern dynamos, including the machines used at the recent World's Fair and those in the largest and most modern central-stations, a complete and entirely practical method of dynamo-calculations is developed. Differing from the usual text-book methods, in which the application of the various formulas requires more or less experience in dynamo-design, the present treatise gives such practical information in the form of original tables and formulas derived from the result of practical machines of American as well as European make, comprising all the usual types of field-magnets and armatures, and ranging through all commercial sizes. The book contains over a hundred of such tables giving the values of the various constants, etc., which enter into the formulas of dynamo-design, and for all capacities, from one-tenth to 2000 kilowatts, for high and slow speed, for bipolar and multipolar fields, and for smooth and toothed drum and ring armatures. Although intended as a text-book for students and a manual for practical dynamo-designers, any one possessing but a fundamental knowledge of algebra will be able to apply the information contained in the book to the calculation and design of any kind of a continuous-current dynamo.

THIRD EDITION.

ALTERNATING CURRENTS.

An Analytical and Graphical Treatment for Students and Engineers.

By FREDERICK BEDELL, PH.D.,

AND

A. C. CREHORE, PH.D.

Cloth. 325 pages, 112 Illustrations. Price, $2.50.

The present work is the first book that treats the subject of alternating currents in a connected, logical, and complete manner. The principles are gradually and logically developed from the elementary experiments upon which they are based, and in a manner so clear and simple as to make the book easily read by any one having even a limited knowledge of the mathematics involved. By this method the student becomes familiar with every step of the process of development, and the mysteries usually associated with the theory of alternating currents are found to be rather the result of unsatisfactory treatment than due to any inherent difficulty. The first fourteen chapters contain the analytical development, commencing with circuits containing resistance and self-induction only, resistance and capacity only, and proceeding to more complex circuits containing resistance, self-induction, and capacity, and resistance and distributed capacity. A feature is the numerical calculations given as illustrations. The remaining chapters are devoted to the graphical consideration of the same subjects, enabling a reader with little mathematical knowledge to follow the authors, and with extensions to cases that are better treated by the graphical than by the analytical method.

CONTENTS.

Part I. Analytical Treatment.—Chapter I. Introductory to Circuits Containing Resistance and Self-induction.—Chapter II. On Harmonic Functions.—Chapter III. Circuits Containing Resistance and Self-induction.—Chapter IV. Introductory to Circuits Containing Resistance and Capacity.—Chapter V. Circuits Containing Resistance and Capacity.—Chapters VI, VII, VIII, IX, X, XI. Circuits Containing Resistance, Self-induction, and Capacity.—Chapters XII, XIII. Circuits Containing Distributed Capacity and Self-induction.

Part II. Graphical Treatment.—Chapters XIV, XV, XVI, XVII. Circuits Containing Resistance and Self-induction.—Chapters XVIII, XIX. Circuits Containing Resistance and Capacity.—Chapter XX. Circuits Containing Resistance, Self-induction, and Capacity.

Appendix A. Relation between Practical and C. G. S. Limits.—Appendix B. Some Mechanical and Electrical Analogies.—Appendix C. System of Notation Adopted.

Continuous Current Dynamos and Motors:

THEIR THEORY, DESIGN, AND TESTING.

With Sections on Indicator Diagrams, Properties of Saturated Steam, Belting Calculations, Etc.

AN ELEMENTARY TREATISE FOR STUDENTS.

By FRANK P. COX, B.S.

Cloth. 271 pages, 83 Illustrations. Price, $2.00.

Intended for students, this work gives the theory and design of continuous current dynamos and motors as understood and practised in the designing-room, and the methods of testing described are those of the factory testing-shop. The practical side of the various questions treated is always kept in view, discussions having little bearing in this direction being excluded, and the higher branches of mathematics avoided. The application to the design of armatures, field-magnets and motors of the principles developed is explained by reference to numerical problems, thus thoroughly impressing them on the student's mind. Methods of testing a complete machine and of investigating its characteristics are given, with discussions on the effect of various changes in design and operation. The steam-engine being so closely allied to the testing and operation of dynamos and motors, sections on indicator diagrams, steam-power calculations, and belting are included. Almost all of the numerous curves in the book are derived from actual commercial tests.

CONTENTS.

Chapter I. The Absolute System of Measurement. — Chapter II. Electro-magnetic Induction.—Chapter III. Classification of Machines and General Principles of the Magnetic Circuit.—Chapter IV. The Dynamo as a Motor.—Chapter V. Calculations Pertaining to the Magnetic Circuit.—Chapter VI. Theory of Windings, Losses, etc.—Chapter VII. The Dynamo Considered as a Motor.—Chapter VIII. Design of Armatures.—Chapter IX. Design of Field-magnets. — Chapter X. Design of Motors. — Chapter XI. Dynamo and Motor Testing.—Chapter XII. Efficiency Tests.—Chapter XIII. Indicator Diagrams.—Chapter XIV. Steam-engine Calculations. — Appendix I. Tests of Iron.—Appendix II. Ampere Turntables.—Appendix III. Determination of Sizes of Wire for Armatures and Field Coils. —Appendix IV. Felting.

SECOND EDITION. ENTIRELY REWRITTEN.

Electric Lighting Specifications

FOR THE USE OF

ENGINEERS AND ARCHITECTS.

By E. A. MERRILL,

AUTHOR OF

"Reference Book of Tables and Formulæ for Electric Street Railway Engineers."

Cloth. 213 pages. Price, $1.50.

This work has been prepared by an electrical engineer with a very extensive experience in drawing up specifications for one of the great-electric light companies, and will be found an invaluable aid, not only in drawing up specifications, but also in furnishing an outline to assist in preparing plans and estimates. The matter is so arranged that one with no familiarity with electric lighting may rapidly draw up specifiations for any system, and for the smallest as well as for the largest and most complex electric installation, as well as specifications for the steam-plant, where one is included. From a comprehensive and remarkably simple outline, the parts applying to an installation are selected by reference to its size, the system, manner of installing wires, etc. ; reference to various parts of the book then give the complete matter for the specifications. In an introduction the author gives much valuable information in regard to important points to be observed in selecting the system, voltage, material, etc., for varying circumstances. An analysis is also given of a specific installation, which will serve as a guide for the examination that should be made previous to drawing up specifications, in order to decide how the different conditions of the problem in hand may be best satisfied.

Introduction.—Working Outline.—Specifications.—General Specification.—Installation of Dynamos and Switchboards.—Alternate-current Converter System.—General Specifications for Alternate or Direct Current Dynamos for Parallel System of Distribution.—Arc Dynamos. —Fixtures, etc.—Interior Wiring.—Two-wire, Direct or Alternating-current System.—Three-wire System.—Three-wire System Adapted to Two-wire System.—Arc System.—Conduit System, Two-wire.—Interior Wiring for Central-station Plants.—Pole Lines.—Low Potential, Direct Current, Two-or Three-wire.—Alternating System.—Street-lighting Circuits.—Specifications for Steam-plant.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY MOTORS.

THEIR CONSTRUCTION, OPERATION, AND MAINTENANCE.

BY

N. W. PERRY, E.M.

238 Pages. 60 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

This little book has for an object to provide motormen with an intelligent elementary exposition of the principles upon which are founded the apparatus they are called upon to handle, to give instruction in regard to its care, and for the detection, remedy, and prevention of the faults to which it is subject. The electrical principles upon which the theory of the motor and its operation are based are logically and intelligently developed from the simplest conceptions, and with reference to home-made experimental apparatus, cheaply and easily constructed. Somewhat more than half of the book is devoted to the explanation and development of theory, and the remainder to descriptions of various systems and to practical instructions. The final chapters are of particular value, containing as they do specific directions for the management of motors, the remedy of faults, directions to motormen, instructions for inspectors and superintendents, etc. The work is a great improvement on the style of books usually written for practical men, not only in being scientifically correct, but from the conscientious endeavor everywhere apparent to render thoroughly intelligible to the reader every phase of the subject coming within the scope of the book.

SECOND EDITION, COMPLETELY REVISED.

REFERENCE BOOK OF TABLES AND FORMULAS
FOR ELECTRIC RAILWAY ENGINEERS.

ARRANGED AND COMPILED

By E. A. MERRILL, A. M.,

Author of "Electric Lighting Specifications for the Use of Engineers and Architects."

128 pages interleaved with blank pages for the purpose of making notes. Flexible Morocco, suitable for the pocket. Price, $1.00.

To a busy man the value of a reference book depends largely on the facility with which he can get from it the information he desires. In the larger works the labor involved in seeking out information, which perhaps is scattered through several sections and encumbered with examples and explanations already familiar to the engineer, is often exceedingly annoying, especially when many times repeated. It is the object of this reference book to avoid such annoyances and meet a practical need by collecting and arranging in a concise, logical order those tables and formulas which are in constant use by the electrical railway engineer in making estimates, ordering material, on construction work, etc. All superfluous examples and explanations have been excluded, as well as unnecessary extensions of formulas into tables when such extensions consist only in the simplest mathematical processes. Not only has considerable care been taken in selecting and checking material compiled directly, but several original tables and formulas have been added, which will save many calculations. Furthermore, many tables and formulas have been extended and modified to meet the conditions imposed in street-railway work. The practical arrangement of the work, its condensed style and convenient form, will recommend it to every street-railway engineer. Every heading is in bold-faced type, which easily catches the eye as one glances over the page, thus materially aiding quick reference, and as a further aid a complete cross-index is added. The book is bound in flexible covers, of convenient size to carry in the pocket, and for the greater convenience of practical men has been interleaved with blank pages for the purpose of making notes.

RECENT PROGRESS

IN

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS.

Being a Summary of Current Progress in Electric Railway Construction, Operation, Systems, Machinery, Appliances, etc.

By CARL HERING.

AUTHOR OF

"Principles of Dynamo Electric Machinery,"
etc., etc., etc.

Cloth. 389 pages, 104 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

The details connected with electric street railways have become so numerous and the systems so varied that the reader is at a loss when he wishes specific information in regard to many desirable points, which can scarcely be expected, as a rule, in a general treatise on the subject. Hering's "Recent Progress in Electric Railways" is particularly valuable from its treatment of details, and elaborates a number of features that have heretofore received only brief notice in other works,—such as high-speed interurban roads and underground tunnel conduit systems,—while the section on construction and operation is very full, and gives much recent engineering and financial data. The historical notes and statistics on the development of the industry will be found complete and reliable. The hundred or more pages devoted to the consideration of details and recent improvements contain information of the greatest value that otherwise could only be obtained by a laborious search through periodical literature. Here the latest inventions and developments in street-railway motors, apparatus, and fittings are described and illustrated in great detail, thus supplying the omissions from more general treatises.

CONTENTS.

Chapter I. Historical.—Chapter II. Development and Statistics.—Chapter III. Construction and Operation.—Chapter IV. Cost of Construction and Operation.—Chapter V. Overhead Wire Surface Roads.—Chapter VI. Conduit and Surface Conductor Roads.—Chapter VII. Storage-battery Roads.—Chapter VIII. Underground Tunnel Roads.—Chapter IX. ORIGINAL PAPERS

ON

Dynamo Machinery

AND ALLIED SUBJECTS.

By JOHN HOPKINSON, F.R.S.

(Authorized American Edition.)

Cloth. 249 pages, 98 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

Very few contributions to electrical literature since the days of Faraday have been of as an important character as those contained in the present volume; and this is true, whether considered from a theoretical or from a practical standpoint. In the first paper that invaluable aid to the study and design of dynamos, the characteristic curve, was first announced, and the two following papers are devoted more or less to developing its applications. These three papers contain a vast amount of information relating to the various points connected with the subject. Though the style is simple and popular, the statements are authoritative and supplied the beginnings of electrical engineering. The fourth and fifth papers, on the theory and design of continuous-current dynamos, furnished the principles upon which the design of such dynamos is now based. The sixth paper established the important principles in regard to coupling alternating-current machines; the next three papers are on the transformer, and the remaining two are on the theory of the alternate-current dynamo and electric-light houses respectively. The majority of the papers contain no mathematical formula, and several others so little as not to prevent their being understood by a non-mathematical reader.

CONTENTS.

I, II. On Electric Lighting.—III. Some Points in Electric Lighting.—IV, V. Dynamo-Electric Machinery.—VI. Theory of Alternating Currents.—VII. An Unnoticed Danger in Certain Apparatus for Distribution of Electricity.—VIII. Induction Coils and Transformers.—IX. Report of a Test of Two 6500 Watt Transformers.—X. Theory of the Alternating-current Dynamo.—XI. The Electric Lighthouses of Macquaire and of Tino.

Dynamo and Motor Building

FOR AMATEURS.

WITH WORKING DRAWINGS.

By Lieut. C. D. PARKHURST, U.S.A.

Cloth. 163 pages, 73 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

One of the most fascinating fields for the amateur is that afforded by electrical science, and the simplicity of construction of small dynamos and motors, in particular, enables him not only to gratify his tastes, but at the same time to construct apparatus that can be directly applied to useful purposes. In Parkhurst's Dynamo and Motor Building for Amateurs clear and concise instructions, accompanied by working drawings, are given for the construction of such forms and types of dynamos and motors as are simply made and yet will produce fairly efficient results. While primarily intended for amateurs and students, the detailed information, particularly in the chapters on armature windings, connections, and currents, and on the design of a fifty-light dynamo, will be of value to every electrician. In the latter chapter the subject of the proper proportioning of the armature and armature wire, the calculation of the magnetic circuit and field-windings, etc., are gone into at length, and in the light of the most recent knowledge and practice. The large and clear drawings showing how to wind armatures are supplemented by tables, so that the beginner will have no difficulty whatever in carrying out the instructions. Every part of the machines, even the most simple, is illustrated and marked with its dimensions.

CONTENTS.

Chapter I. A Small Electric Motor for Amateurs.—Chapter II. A "Home-made" Electric Motor.—Chapter III. A Sewing-machine Motor for Amateurs.—Chapter IV. LECTURES ON The Electromagnet.

BY

PROF. SILVANUS P. THOMPSON, D.Sc., B.A., M.I.E.E.

AUTHORIZED AMERICAN EDITION.

Cloth. 287 pages, 75 Illustrations. Price, $1.00.

As the electro-magnet is the foundation of all electrical apparatus, the value of a proper understanding of its principles is obvious. In this volume the subject is thoroughly treated in a popular manner, and many very important points clearly demonstrated that previously had been involved in much obscurity—such as the lifting-power of magnets and the principles relating to the design of quick-working electro-magnets. The entire field is well covered, from the design of dynamo and motor-fields to that of the small magnets used in the printing telegraph. The parts dealing with the theories and principles of magnetism and the magnetic circuit are unusually instructive, and in language easily followed. Graphical methods are used to explain the various principles, and even the most involved ones are thus made clear. The information given throughout is in a practical form, so that it may be easily applied to designing by one with no knowledge of mathematics or theories. Sections of the book which should prove very useful to experimenters are those devoted to the consideration of various ingenious electro-magnetic mechanisms.

LECTURE I. Introductory; Historical Sketch; Generalities Concerning Electromagnets; Typical Forms; Polarity; Uses in General; The Properties of Iron; Methods of Measuring Permeability; Traction Methods; Curves of Magnetization and Permeability; The Law of the Electromagnet; Hysteresis; Fallacies and Facts about Electromagnets.—LECTURE II. General Principles of Design and Construction; Principle of the Magnetic Circuit.—LECTURE III. Special Designs; Winding of the Coppper; Windings for Constant Pressure and for Constant Current; Miscellaneous Rules about Winding; Specifications for Electromagnets; Armature Rules Resistance of Electromagnet and Battery; Forms of Electromagnets; Effect of Size, Position and Shape of Section of Coils; Effect of Distance between Poles; Researches of Prof. Hughes; Position and Form of Armature; Pole-pieces on Horseshoe Magnets. Contrast between Electromagnets and Permanent Magnets; Electromagnets for Maximum Traction; Electromagnets for Maximum Range of Attraction; Electromagnets of Minimum Weight; A Useful Guiding Principle; Electromagnets for Use with Alternating Currents; Electromagnets for Quickest Action; Connecting Coils for Quickest Action; Battery Grouping for Quickest Action; Short Cores vs. Long Cores.—LECTURE IV. Electromagnetism, etc.

PRACTICAL INFORMATION

FOR

TELEPHONISTS.

BY

T. D. LOCKWOOD,

Electrician American Bell Telephone Company.

Cloth. 192 pages. Price, $1.00.

The descriptions in this eminently practical book of the various devices connected with telephony are full and clear and to the point, while the different troubles that arise in operation and the means of prevention or remedy are thoroughly and concisely treated. A goodly part of the work deals with the important duties of the telephone inspector, laying out the routine most advantageous to follow under different circumstances, and giving clear and minute instructions in regard to the matters likely to come before him in the discharge of his duties. The amateur will appreciate the chapter devoted to short telephone lines, and the telephonist who turns his hand to bell-work during his spare hours will welcome the section on electric bells which the author has provided for his benefit. An interesting chapter is devoted to the history of electricity from the earliest days to date, and another one to the anticipations of great discoveries and inventions.

EXPERIMENTS WITH

Alternate Currents

Of High Potential and High Frequency.

By NIKOLA TESLA.

Cloth. 146 pages, with Portrait and 35 Illustrations.
Price, $1.00.

Since the discovery of the telephone few researches in electricity have created as widespread an interest as those of Nikola Tesla into alternate currents of high potential and high frequency. Mr. Tesla was accorded the unusual honor of an invitation to repeat his experiments before distinguished scientific bodies of London and Paris, and the lecture delivered before the Institution of Electrical Engineers, London, is here presented in book-form. The field opened up, to which this book acts as a guide, is one in which the future may develop results of the most remarkable character, and perhaps lead to an entire revision of our present scientific conceptions, with correspondingly broad practical results. The currents of enormously high frequency and voltage generated by Mr. Tesla developed properties previously entirely unsuspected, and which produced phenomena of startling character. No injurious effects were experienced when the human body was subjected to the highest voltages generated. Lamps with only one conductor were rendered incandescent, and others with no connection whatever to the conducting circuit glowed when merely brought into proximity to the same. The book in which Mr. Tesla describes his marvellous experiments is one that every one who takes an interest in electricity or its future should read. The subject is popularly treated, and as the author is the master of a simple and agreeable style the book is fascinating reading. A portrait and biographical sketch of the author is included.

LIGHTNING FLASHES

AND

ELECTRIC DASHES.

A Volume of Choice Telegraphic and Electrical Literature, Humor, Fun, Wit and Wisdom.

Cloth. Profusely illustrated, 160 large, double-column pages. Price, $1.50.

"Lightning Flashes" is principally made up of short, bright, crisp, ably-written stories and sketches from the pens of the foremost writers in the ranks of telegraphic and electrical literature, as well as of several writers of prominence outside of the business. Among the latter are included Mr. Charles Barnard and the late Benson J. Lossing, LL.D. The article by Dr. Lossing on Professor Morse is a valuable contribution to the history of the telegraph; and the other articles, grave and gay in turn, in some cases illustrated by the authors, make this a work of interest to the general reading public as well as to electricians.

Greenhouse Management

A Manual for Florists and Flower Lovers on the Forcing of Flowers, Vegetables and Fruits in Greenhouses, and the Propagation and Care of House Plants

By L. R. TAFT

Professor of Horticulture and Landscape Gardening, Michigan Agricultural College, and author of "Greenhouse Construction"

THE author has had unusual facilities for studying this entire subject practically as well as scientifically, and has here given the results not only of his own experience, but also those of many of the most skillful experts in their respective specialties.

It treats of all the plants commonly cultivated by florists and amateurs, and explains in a thorough manner the methods that have been found most successful in growing them. Particular attention is paid to the growing of cut flowers, entire chapters being devoted to each of the leading crops, such as roses, carnations, chrysanthemums, violets, bulbs, smilax, ferns, orchids, etc.

The growing of fruits under glass is attracting the attention of commercial florists as well as amateurs, and the reader will find separate chapters devoted to the forcing of grapes, strawberries, peaches and other fruits. The forcing of vegetables also receives the attention it deserves, and the raising of lettuce, radishes, cucumbers, tomatoes, mushrooms, etc., is explained at length.

The care of house plants is also treated quite fully, with detailed directions for propagating, preparing the soil, potting, watering and every part of their proper management. A chapter is also given on bedding plants, as well as on ornamental grasses, flowering and foliage plants. Other chapters are devoted to the propagation of plants from seeds, cuttings, layers and by grafting and budding. Of special value to many will be the directions for treating plants when attacked by insects and fungi. The preparation of the soil, the use of various manures, composts and fertilizers, watering, ventilating, heating, and in fact every detail of the subject to which the work is devoted, receives careful and minute attention.

FARM AND GARDEN

Sugar.

By HERBERT MYRICK, assisted by PROF. W. C. STUBBS. This book gives an account of what has been done in the cane and beet sugar industry of the United States, and just how it has been done. Reliable directions from actual recent experience under American conditions are given that make it a guide to the farmer, capitalist and others now or likely to be interested in any way in the sugar industry. It is the first and only publication written on the basis of commercial experience during the past six years. It gives full directions for the culture of the beet and hints on location and management of factories. .50

Land Draining.

By MANLY MILES. A handbook for farmers on the principles and practice of draining, giving the results of his extended experience in laying tile drains. The directions for the laying out and the construction of tile drains will enable the farmer to avoid the errors of imperfect construction and the disappointment that must necessarily follow. Cloth, 12mo. 1.00

Irrigation Farming.

By LUTE WILCOX. A handbook for the practical application of water in the production of crops. A complete treatise on water supply, canal construction, reservoirs and ponds, pipes for irrigation purposes, flumes and their structure, methods of applying water, irrigation of field crops, the garden, the orchard and vineyard; windmills and pumps, appliances and contrivances. Profusely, handsomely illustrated. Cloth, 12mo. 2.00

The Fertility of the Land.

By I. P. ROBERTS. A summary sketch of the relationship of farm practice to the maintaining and increasing of the productivity of the soil. The book is the result of a long life of teaching, experimenting and farming, and is the most important single book of farm methods. Illustrated. 12mo. 1.25

The Horticulturist's Rule Book.

By L. H. BAILEY. A compendium of useful information for fruit growers, truck farmers, florists, etc. Cloth, 12mo. .75

How Crops Grow.

By PROF. SAMUEL W. JOHNSON of Yale College. New and revised edition. A treatise on the chemical composition, structure and life of the plant. This book is a guide to the knowledge of agricultural plants, their composition, their structure and modes of development and growth; of the complex organization of plants, and the use of the parts; the germination of seeds, and the food of plants obtained both from the air and the soil. The book is indispensable to all real students of agriculture. With numerous illustrations and tables of analysis. Cloth, 12mo. 2.00

How Crops Feed.

By PROF. SAMUEL W. JOHNSON. A treatise on the atmosphere and the soil, as related in the nutrition of agricultural plants. The volume—the companion and complement to "How Crops Grow"—has been welcomed by those who appreciate the scientific aspects of agriculture. Illustrated. Cloth, 12mo. 2.00

Tobacco Leaf.

By J. B. KILLEBREW and HERBERT MYRICK. Its Culture and Cure, Marketing and Manufacture. A practical handbook on the most approved methods in growing, harvesting, curing, packing and selling tobacco, with an account of the operations in every department of tobacco manufacture. The contents of this book are based on actual experiments in field, curing barn, packing house, factory and laboratory. It is the only work of the kind in existence, and is destined to be the standard practical and scientific authority on the whole subject of tobacco for many years. Upwards of 500 pages and 150 original engravings. 2.00

Practical Forestry.
